GREEN HAILED FOR URGING G.I. ROLE IN PEACE

Delay on Global Pacts Sought.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 11.—Gov. Green of Illinois upset a lot of calculations in Washington today with his reminder that Republicans are committed to giving our absent soldiers and sailors a voice in shaping a world organization designed to preserve peace.

Republican nationalists generally applauded the governor's reminder, contained in a letter to Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] and Rep. Eaton [R., N. J.], minority party members of the American delegation to the forthcoming San Francisco conference who participated in framing the commitment in the Republican declaration at Mackinac Island Sept. 7, 1943.

Nationalist opinion favored postponement of decisions on the Dumbarton Oaks peace league proposals until the 11 million men and women in the army and navy return from war service.

Delay Is Opposed.

Republican internationalists, while subscribing to the Mackinac Island commitment, are opposed to any delay in consideration of the Dumbarton Oaks plan, contending that the consultation with the members of the military services can be achieved substantially while they are still on war duty.

Sen. Vandenberg said he had not received Gov. Green's letter and declined to comment pending its receipt. He said he would answer it promptly and make public his reply. Rep. Eaton was out of the city and could not be reached for comment.

The Mackinac Island declaration to which Gov. Green called attention contained the following pledge pertaining to international coöperation to preserve pesce:

"In all these undertakings we favor the widest consultation of the gallant men and women in our armed forces, who have a special right to speak with authority in behalf of the security and liberty for which they fight."

Included in Platform.

The President and his internationalist following are driving hard for the adoption of the Dumbarton Oaks plan without any special consideration of the views of the men and women absent in the military services.

They contend that the vote of the service men in the 1944 election,

Export Curbs Fixed to Guard Civilian Needs

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 11.—War Mobilizer Byrnes today announced formation of a committee on "foreign shipments" and charged it to make sure that our capabilities to support our war program and meet our essential domestic needs are not reduced by our overseas relief and rehabilitation plans.

His orders were interpreted by many capital observers as meaning that after actual military needs are taken care of the needs of American citizens are going to be considered ahead of those of foreigners.

Seeks to End Scramble.

Byrnes' move also apparently was designed to end the scramble among numerous government agencies for scarce shipping space. He named Foreign Economic Administrator Crowley as chairman. Other members and the government branches they represent are: Assistant Secretary of State Clayton, Capt. Granville Conway, war shipping administration; War Production Chairman Krug, Lt. Gen. Somervell, army; War Food Administrator Jones, Capt. L. H. Strauss, navy.

Byrnes outlined the committee's future activities in a letter to Crowley which will be issued in the form of an official order. It was released at the White House with the notation that the action was taken with the approval of President Roosevelt.

The purpose of the committee, Byrnes wrote, is to "examine all of the related factors which pertain to the capabilities of the United States to export items for the support of the war, other than direct military lend-lease commitments." This includes all programs directed to relief, rehabilitation, and industrial development.

Commitments Curbed.

Byrnes' letter said: "It is understood that no agency of the government may enter into formal or informal commitments for the export of supplies other than for essential military purposes to foreign countries without first receiving the approval of this committee."

Indicating the importance he places on the committee, Byrnes told Crowley he thinks it "highly important that you advise these representatives [committee members] that they are expected to personally attend committee meetings when they are in town, and that they may send alternates only if absent [from town]."

After outlining the problems for which the military services will continue to be responsible, such as taking care of civilian populations in "the wake of battle," Byrnes wrote:

"All other requirements for relief, rehabilitation, and other export purposes must then be evaluated against our own minimum essential civilian economy. Our foreign commitments must not be allowed to disrupt our own economy to such an extent that its capabilities to meet its own needs as well as the needs of others will be reduced. This must include consideration of our own reconversion needs after the defeat of Germany.

"Consideration must be given immediately to commitments which were made in the past, but which now appear capable of fulfilment only with serious impact on our civilian economy, as it may be necessary to reconsider these commitments with the countries to which they have been made."

Byrnes told the committee it should recommend the extent of the aid to be given to Germany after her defeat.

LAST TO LEAVE THE BATTLEFIELD

Housewives Huff and Stuff to Serve Meat

Generally speaking, Chicagoans had some kind of meat on the table yesterday, but the housewife hung her head in embarrassment. The shortage was being felt.

The adroitness of Mrs. Albert J. Mark, 5604 S. Campbell av., saved the day at her house. She told THE TRIBUNE that she and Albert had meat loaf. It wasn't a big meat loaf originally, she said, but with a generous helping of cracker crumbs and vegetables, it made a nice appearance.

Frugal housewives who had seen the writing on the wall early last week and snapped up their Sunday meat courses in advance were in evidence. Mrs. Harry Klasky, 5130 Sheridan rd., had a sizable beef roast. The Frank O'Boyle family of seven, at 4414 N. Avers av., had a leg of lamb, and Mrs. Charles Ackerman, 3052 Berteau av., got 20 points worth of good round steak. All bought days in advance.

Friends Come in Handy.

Mrs. Harry M. Ormsbee, 4711 Gladys av., saw a 6 pound ham three weeks ago. She bought it. Yesterday, slicing was begun.

Having "a friend" was advisable. William R. Edwards, 1033 N. Parkside av., had a capon "which came from the country thru a friend." Mrs. Jeremiah M. O'Brien, 6131 S. Richmond st., ate roast chicken sent from a farm in Wisconsin.

But families who had fewer acquaintances were not as lucky. Mrs. Howard J. Forrest of 5710 N. Richmond st. said she thought she was lucky when she found a small piece of lamb, but that was before she tried to carve it. Her husband said it tasted like mountain goat, she added.

It was meatless Sunday at the home of Patrick J. Carrington, 6544 S. Claremont av. They had macaroni loaf. The Irving Oppenheim family, 7573 Coles av., had soup. Mrs. Nora McNichols, 7809 Morgan st., threw up her hands and went to a restaurant. Her daughter and son-in-law went along.

She Has Protest and Solution.

Mrs. Ralph A. Neff, 5063 Jackson blvd., who walked two miles before coercing a butcher out of a 4 pound pork shoulder to feed seven, offered a protest and a solution for more equal distribution.

Most butchers, she said, are limiting their customers to a given amount, regardless of the number in the family. "Butchers should regard the number of ration books a customer holds in her hand and sell accordingly," she asserted.

For the first time in a week, Mrs. Harry Nelson, 10130 Wentworth av., wasn't ashamed of her dinner table. It boasted steak. For a week now, she explained, she had been serving liver, kidneys, and frankfurters. "It's enough to drive a woman out of her mind," she said.

"Why can't the government be honest and tell us just why we haven't got enough meat?" asked Mrs. Barney Baker, 7420 Phillips av. "We had a pound of beef stew for four of us today. How do they expect us to raise healthy children without enough nourishing meat and butter?"

Concerning Grease.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Walter J. Kelly, chairman of the civilian defense grease-tin committee, told housewives that the war production board is depending on homemakers to furnish more kitchen greases for the manufacture of artillery shells and other ammunition.

"I don't know," one woman said. "It seems as if it takes all the grease I can save from Sunday dinner to fry eggs the other six days in the week."

Mrs. Irene Foglestad, 23, of 5306 Pensacola av., wife of a soldier in France, was found shot to death last night in the home of Policeman Clarence W. Benson at 5551 Osceola av., where she and relatives of her husband were attending a housewarming party. Benson's superiors at Jefferson Park station said she killed herself with the policeman's service revolver.

The young woman, who went to the party with her 2 year old son, Thomas Jr., and her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew B. Foglestad, with whom she had resided, was under treatment for a nervous breakdown, but had not threatened to kill herself, relatives reported.

In the midst of the festivities, Mrs. Foglestad abruptly left the other guests and went upstairs to a lavatory in the policeman's new bungalow home. Detectives said she took Benson's revolver from a holster hanging in a guest closet and shot herself in the right temple.

Her husband entered the army two years ago and has been in France since the invasion.

Charges British Rejected Mass Rocket Launcher

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 11.—The multi-barreled rocket launcher recently credited with adding a heavy punch to the allies' Sherman tank was rejected by the British war office when supply ministry experts first presented it, the Sunday Dispatch charged today. It said only the insistence of Canadian army authorities saved the weapon from an official pigeonhole.

Capital's Sins Denounced at Lutheran Rally

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

America's sins—including divorces in public officials' families, the plowing under of cotton and wheat, the destruction of "supposedly surplus pigs," and the tightening grip of atheists and Communists in government—were denounced yesterday in the Chicago Stadium, where 23,000 persons attended one of the largest indoor prayer meetings ever held.

Dr. Walter A. Maier.

The meeting informally voiced the need of a day of national repentance. This was urged by the preacher, Dr. Walter A. Maier of St. Louis, Mo., who each Sunday thru the Lutheran hour on more than 500 stations preaches to one of the greatest radio congregations. The meeting was called by the Chicago Lutheran business and professional group at the request of Philadelphia, Pa., religious leaders who first called for a national day of penitence.

Blasts Capital Life.

"We need repentance from top to bottom," Dr. Maier said. "We need it in the nation's capital where drunkenness and vice are notorious, where high and applauded people in widely circulated magazines print attacks on Bible truths, where lives of too many public officials are marked by unjustifiable divorces, where atheists and Communists are securing a tighter grip, where a secretary of state can quote that infidel Henley's "Invictus" and say: 'We are the masters of our fate,' and where God's abundance can be ordered devastated.

112,515 Service Stars.

"We need real repentance among all American officials who dream dreams of a new world that has no thought of God, and in the army and navy, where, despite all previous roseate promises, medical experts now admit that the rate of venereal diseases will keep pace with the high figure in World War I. While our lads are risking life and limb, 50 billion dollars in war contracts on the cost plus system has been lost by dishonesty and waste."

The service was held before a white candle-lit altar beneath the flag of the United States and of the church. A Missouri synod service flag above the altar displayed 2,889 gold stars and 112,515 service stars.

AIR FIELD AND 4 PLACES FALL TO M'ARTHUR MEN

41st Division Drives for Zamboanga.

BY WALTER SIMMONS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ZAMBOANGA, Mindanao, P. I., March 10 [Delayed]. — American forces in the Philippines extended their operations to the huge southerly island of Mindanao today, landing virtually without opposition near the fabled city of Zamboanga.

Maj. Gen. Jens A. Doe.

Charging across the palm fringed beach under light machine gun and sniper fire, they seized a section of the coastal road and Calarian [Wolfe] air field, five miles west of Zamboanga. The field has a runway 300 by 3,000 feet, and a capacity of 100 bombers and 100 fighters.

Elements of Maj. Gen. Jens A. Doe's 41st division went ashore in successive waves of landing craft as the smoke cleared from the bombardment by light warships and rocket firing L. C. I's. The landing also was preceded by a precision bombing attack by B-29s flying at 6,000 feet.

Commanders See Invasion.

Lt. Gen. Eichelberger, 8th army commander, and Rear Adm. Forrest B. Royal, amphibious force commander, watched the landing from the bridge of the latter's flagship.

This latest step in the Philippines liberation campaign placed troops in a strategic position on the beak of buzzard-shaped Mindanao, cutting the island off from Jap-held Borneo and the Dutch East Indies. It also serves the strategic purpose of providing air fields for future operations, and securing Basilian strait for American shipping.

The immediate objectives were the city of Zamboanga, which has a population of 132,000, and San Roque airdrome, one and a half miles northwest of the city. This field has a runway of 750 by 3,900 feet, and a plane capacity the same as the smaller Calarian field.

Wharf Undamaged.

Zamboanga was the site of a small American military installation at the outbreak of the war. Contract work was being pushed on San Roque air field early in 1942 when the Japs took the city after a two day naval bombardment.

Besides being the provincial capital, Zamboanga is the only large populated place in western Mindanao. It has paved streets, reënforced concrete buildings with galvanized iron roofs, water and electric plants, and four hospitals. Latest aerial photos show its government wharf and concrete pier to be comparatively undamaged.

The narrow, coastal plain of the peninsula is overlooked by frowning tiers of mountains which rise from 3,000 to 7,000 feet and run almost uninterrupted into the unpopulated and inaccessible interior of the island. The coast itself, altho affording good landing beaches of coral sand, is bordered with mangroves and fringed with reefs. An improved coastal highway runs up the west coast half the length of the peninsula. There is no road connecting Zamboanga and northern Mindanao.

21ST U. S. BOMBER COMMAND, Guam, March 12 [Monday]—(AP).—Another great fleet of American B-29 Super Fortresses turned Nagoya, Japan's third largest city and most important aircraft production center, into an inferno today while the fires of Saturday's record raid on Tokyo still smoldered.

The weather was clear, just as on the Tokyo raid, returning crews reported. Immense destruction appeared certain.

Some 300 of the bombers, about the same number as raided Tokyo 48 hours earlier, swarmed over Nagoya shortly after midnight. It was another low level, all-incendiary raid. Two thousand tons of bombs were dropped at elevations around 5,000 feet. The B-29s usually bomb from very high altitudes.

Big Fires Set.

"It looks like the boys did a pretty good job again," said Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Power, commander of Guam based B-29s. The raiding planes also flew from Saipan and Tinian.

Sgt. R. E. Williams of Springfield, Mass., tail gunner of the sixth plane over the target, said that even then "hellish big fires were burning in the northwest part of the target area and also across the south part."

Lt. George H. Lane of Paterson, N. J., navigator, reported the bomber started its target run at 6,800 feet. "We saw no fighters and there not much ack-ack but plenty of searchlights," he said.

"A Swell Mission."

Capt. V. L. Chandler of Everett, Wash., said: "There were three fires already burning when we got there. We started the fourth. They were growing fast in size. We saw many more bombs dropping. It was a swell mission."

Headquarters revealed today that the Saturday Tokyo strike, which employed 2,300 tons of bombs and left 15 square miles of the city in flames, was the first time the Super Forts had bombed at the 5,000 foot level.

Same Crews Return.

The daring of the venture may have contributed to the baffling of the enemy's defenses.

Today's Nagoya strike was the fastest followup major attack on the Japanese empire yet staged by the Super Forts. Ground crews began readying most of the planes for this mission immediately after they returned from Tokyo, and about two-thirds of the Tokyo attack crews made the same 3,000 mile round trip to hit Nagoya.

At least seven big fires still blazed in the heart of Tokyo at 11:30 a. m., Sunday, following the Super Forts' Saturday visit, reconnaissance disclosed.

Numbers to Increase.

Maj. Gen. Curtis E. Le May, commanding the 21st bomber command, commented on the increasing number of Super Forts in recent attacks on Japan and promised that the rise in numbers would continue.

"All the Japs have to look forward to is the total destruction of their industries, cities, and other vital targets devoted to their war effort," Le May said.

Today's strike was the eighth attack on Nagoya.

City of 1,500,000.

The population of Nagoya is around 1,500,000, with a high percentage of all workers in some phase of aircraft production. In and around the city lies the source of probably 40 to 50 per cent of the total Japanese output of fighting aircraft.

The target area for today's raid was a triangular shaped central core bounded on the east and southeast by the Chuo railroad line, and on the west and southwest by the Tokaido main line, so a successful incendiary attack on the area would destroy or delay essential freight traffic. It was estimated that 75,000 persons live in each square mile of the part of the city hit by the bombs, as against 20,000 per square mile for the entire metropolis.

MORE BRIDGES FLUNG ACROSS RIVER, SAYS FOE

PARIS, March 12 [Monday]—(AP).—American 1st army troops surged steadily ahead today, expanding their bridgehead on the east bank of the Rhine—now nine miles wide by three miles deep—with magnificent air and artillery support holding enemy resistance to a minimum.

The Americans have overrun eight towns in the bridgehead area, an Associated Press front dispatch said.

Lt. Gen. Hodges' 1st army doughboys—exploiting the advantage gained by the surprise surge across the Rhine Wednesday—pushed forward more than a mile at several places in the bridgehead opposite Remagen.

Big Guns Sent Across.

A dispatch by Associated Press Correspondent Don Whitehead from the bridgehead, disclosing the seizure of eight German towns on the Rhine's east bank, said the Americans were hauling big artillery pieces across the river to add further sinew to their steadily tightening clutch on the Rhine's east bank.

Whitehead named seven towns seized by the 1st army, the eighth remaining unidentified. Those listed were Erpel, Linz, Rheinbreitbach, Unkel, Bruchhausen, Ohlenberg, and Dattenberg.

The Germans said the American bridgehead was 11 miles wide—two miles more than the claims of SHAEF—and declared that the 1st army had thrown several emergency bridges across the river to supplement the use of the Ludendorff railroad span, seizure of which gave the Americans their opportunity.

New Threat in North.

As this push menacing Germany's inner citadel began to fan out, a new threat rose to the enemy's Rhine line on the north, where the allies were massing men and guns for a possible new crossing behind a dense smoke screen rising for 40 miles along the river west of Wesel.

The Canadian 1st and United States 9th armies crushed the last Germans in the Wesel pocket. Now five allied armies were linked solidly along 150 miles of the Rhine from the Dutch border to within a mile of Coblenz.

Mile from Coblenz.

The United States 3d army to the south took a 15 mile grip on the Rhine to within one mile of Coblenz. It threatened the last enemy holdings west of the Rhine in the Saar and Palatinate by seizing control of 18 miles of the Moselle river's left [north] bank.

This gave the 3d army a total frontage of 38 miles along the Moselle river between Coblenz and Trier, divided into two holdings. One stretched from the river's mouth in the Coblenz area 18 miles southwest to Carden and the other extended for 20 miles northeast from Trier. Between these two sectors the Germans held a 17 mile stretch of the river's left bank.

Patton Aims at Saar.

Lt. Gen. Patton's 3d army in its southward lunge seemed headed for big stakes, the capture of the rich Saar steel and coal basin and the Palatinate of Bavaria, both now by enemy account being emptied of women, children and those too feeble to fight.

These two regions, the last the Germans hold west of the Rhine, are garrisoned by strong forces manning the only part of the Siegfried line that still exists as a defense entity.

Patton still had opened no attack on Coblenz, a city of 80,000 protected on the west and north by the Moselle at its confluence with the Rhine. It was being shelled, however, and had lost much of its tactical importance because its bridges were destroyed.

The United States 1st and 3d armies pressed possibly 23,000 German troops in the Eifel mountains north of the Moselle into a sack of probably 100 square miles, less than a 10th of its size when the trap was sprung Friday.

Final liquidation seemed near for this pocket, along with the 17 miles the Germans still hold on the north bank of the Moselle.

Bridgehead Broadened.

In 17 days since the Americans broke across the Roer, allied armies had all but fulfilled Gen. Eisenhower's orders to destroy every German west of the Rhine in a triangular section of western Germany 65 miles wide at the base and 165 miles from north to south.

Now the Germans were battling fiercely to hold back an avalanche of thousands of 1st army troops, bolstered by artillery, tanks, and guns already across the Rhine and threatening to break out of the bridgehead for the Ruhr's arsenals, or for Berlin.

Most southerly town reported captured in the bridgehead was Dattenberg, three miles south of Remagen. The Germans said the Americans had sped six miles south of Remagen into the center of Hoenningen. They also reported loss of Leusdorf, a mile south of Dattenberg, but this was not mentioned in American field dispatches.

Counter-Attacks Beaten.

On the north, the Americans were fighting in Honnef, five miles north of Remagen.

The Germans aimed two light counter-attacks at the bridgehead yesterday, one supported by tanks, but artillery broke them up.

The enemy artillery fire, intense yesterday and last night, fell off noticeably as a result of American gunners' counter-battery fire. For an hour in the afternoon, not a shell fell in the bridgehead, compared with a previous rate of fire as high as 50 rounds an hour.

Similarly, not a single German plane appeared over the bridgehead during the day, as American fighter planes threw an aerial umbrella over the positions.

Saturday, out of 47 enemy planes that showed up, 23 were shot down by anti-aircraft guns massed in the bridgehead, and five others probably were downed.

American medium, light, and fighter bombers laid a curtain of steel around the bridgehead thruout yesterday, hammering road and rail routes leading to the battle area.

SHOULDER BAND SHOWS OFFICER COMMANDS MEN

WITH THE U. S. 9TH ARMY, Germany, March 11 (AP).—Command officers of the United States army now are authorized to wear a narrow green band beneath their shoulder insignia.

One of the first to attract attention to the new insignia was Lt. Gen. Simpson, commander of the 9th army, who recently was photographed with the band on his shoulder.

The band is authorized for commissioned officers of all ranks who actually command troops, to distinguish them from officers who operate in an executive capacity.

Swiss Report 4 Killed by Unidentified Planes

LONDON, March 11 (AP).—The Swiss government announced tonight that four of its citizens were killed, many injured and extensive damage was caused when planes of undetermined nationality bombed several localities in Switzerland. A broadcast Swiss bulletin said large fires were started in Basel by 20 incendiaries from a single plane and that rails were cut, 50 freight cars destroyed, and the freight station damaged by high explosive bombs at Wolf. Damage to houses and an agricultural school also was reported when six planes unloaded bombs on the important city of Zurich.

CUT IN AUTO MISHAP.

Herman Feid, 39, of 3212 W. Maypole av., was cut on the nose yesterday when his car struck a fireplug at Polk and Federal sts.

CORRESPONDENT OF LONDON DAILY KILLED ON RHINE

LONDON, March 11 (AP).—Peter Lawless, war correspondent for the London Daily Telegraph with the United States 1st army, has been killed on the western front, it was announced tonight. Walter Farr of the London Daily Mail and William Troughton of the London Daily Express, who were with Lawless, were injured slightly.

Lawless was fatally wounded Saturday when he crossed the Rhine to the Remagen bridgehead. He was struck by shell splinters and died 15 minutes later. The three correspondents were caught in the thick of the bridgehead fighting.

The 55 year old Lawless served as correspondent with the R. A. F. in France during the first year of the war, then became a captain in the army intelligence corps. He resumed war reporting last summer. He won the British military cross in World War 1.

R. A. F. BATTERS BERLIN FOR 20TH STRAIGHT NIGHT

LONDON, March 12 [Monday] (AP).—Speedy R. A. F. Mosquitos stung Berlin last night for the 20th consecutive night in the round-the-clock battering of the reich, dumping 4,000 pound blockbusters into the already ravaged capital.

The night assault followed a two pronged daylight blow yesterday in which more than 1,000 R. A. F. bombers hurled 5,000 tons of explosives on Essen, war plant city just ahead of the United States 9th army, and 1,200 American bombers attacked submarine plants at Kiel, Bremen, and Hamburg.

The American daylight raiders dumped 3,500 tons of bombs on the three ports in one of the war's greatest blows against the U-boat building program.

Then the R. A. F. daylight force, largest in recent weeks, hurled destruction on Essen, home of the Krupp works and a key railway and communications center in the Ruhr.

INDIAN TROOPS TIGHTEN HOLD ON MANDALAY FORT

CALCUTTA, India, March 11 (AP).—Troops of the Indian 19th division have tightened their grip on Fort Dufferin inside Mandalay, the southeast Asia command announced today. The British 36th division have captured Mongmit, 92 miles northeast of Mandalay, threatening Japanese escape routes to the east.

An additional threat to the Japanese were Chinese troops fanning west, south, and east from Lashio, 140 miles northeast of Mandalay at the head of the old Burma road.

British and Indian troops south of Mandalay in the Meiktila area increased their hold on the Thazi railway. The capture of Meiktila cuts all Japanese escape routes to the south, leaving them only routes to the east toward Thailand and Indo-China.

BOY, 4, HURT BY AUTO.

GERMANS GIVEN NO REST BY MEN OF 42D DIVISION

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE 42D [RAINBOW] DIVISION, March 11.—The Alsatian front has been comparatively quiet for some weeks now, but that's not the fault of this division, reared and tempered in the MacArthur tradition.

Holding a sector in the Vosges above Saverne gap, the 42d's three infantry regiments—the 222d, the 232d, and the 242d—have been sending out aggressive combat patrols every night and generally giving the Germans no rest. More than 300 such patrols have gone out in the last three weeks, and nearly all have captured or killed Germans, and gathered information on the enemy's defenses.

Maj. Gen. Harry J. Collins of Chicago, the divisional commander, believes in these sorties to keep his men toned up in the periods when they have no major offensive mission. The 42d isn't in the line for a vacation, he feels, and there certainly is not going to be a time of respite for the foe he is facing.

Germans Nervous.

So upset are the Germans that they frequently have laid down machine gun fire in front of and parallel to their own farthest line of advance in an effort to prevent the Rainbow patrols from crossing no man's land.

But the men of the 42d keep on getting thru and back to their own terrain and their casualties have been small.

Typical of the patrols is a 10 man detachment which operated last night and early this morning. These Yanks took two flame throwers, three Browning automatic rifles, three rifle grenade launchers, and a bazooka with them on a hunt for an enemy pillbox where several machine guns were mounted.

They went thru wire and minefields and to within 50 yards of the pillbox. The Germans spied them and opened up. One of the patrol's bazooka shells hit the strongpoint. The flame throwers then set the pillbox afire and incinerated the Germans. The Yanks came back without a scratch.

Discipline Is High.

The discipline in the 42d ranks with the best in the 7th army. Salutes are traded with a frequency and snap not often seen in other areas this far up front, and even at the most advanced command posts the sentries present arms.

The Rainbow Reveille, the division's news sheet, which was founded in 1917 when Gen. MacArthur was a colonel with the unit, is now in its third volume. All of the issues of the first World war were contained in Volume 1. Volume 2 began Aug. 25, 1943, after the reactivation of the division, and Volume 3 dates from Aug. 25, 1944.

The four page job, put out about every 10 days, has an impressive masthead of a red, yellow, and blue rainbow. It is the only divisional publication on this front which uses color, and is printed with equipment the division brought from the United States.

LABOR MUST PUT WELFARE OF ALL FIRST, POPE SAYS

'Economic Despotism' a Menace, He Warns.

VATICAN CITY, March 11 (AP).—Pope Pius declared today the time has come to contemplate a "new order of productive forces of the people" wherein the welfare of the community is placed above that of labor and capital.

The Pontiff, in an audience given members of the Catholic Workers' organizations meeting here, said that capital-labor accords which were confined merely to an agreement between the two parties were not a "stable principle of social order" because they might lead to exploitation either of labor or of capital. His 2,000-word message was in Italian.

The Pope said socialization was justified only when the "common welfare" really required it as an only means to repair the abuses or avoid the waste of a nation's productive forces. Even then, he added, just socialization requires that all interested parties receive indemnities.

Cites "Higher Unity."

"Democratization of economy," the Pontiff asserted, is menaced as much by the "economic despotism of anonymous conglomerations of private capital" as by the "preponderant strength of organized multitudes ready to use their power contrary to the justice and rights of others."

Declaring it was time to abandon empty phrases, the Pope appealed to all men to recognize a "higher unity" as binding all who collaborate in production.

"That is to say their duty is to provide together, in stable fashion, for the common welfare and needs of the entire community," he said.

Warns Syndicates.

Noting that workers' syndicates now are being formed in Italy, the Pontiff said their activities must be confined to representing and defending labor in making contracts. He cautioned that if they go beyond that function and "assume the right of disposing freely of labor as occurs elsewhere," the conception of the syndicate would be altered or destroyed.

U. S. FLAG GOES UP ON RHINE IN COLORFUL FETE

WITH U. S. 1ST ARMY ON THE RHINE, March 11 (AP).—The Stars and Stripes fluttered on the Rhine today for the first time since 1923 after a colorful ceremony at Cologne almost within rifle shot of the enemy on the east bank of the river.

Maj. Gen. J. Lawton [Lightnin' Joe] Collins led divisional generals of his 7th corps, their assistants, chiefs of staff and artillery officers into the sports plaza of the battered city and the flag raising ceremony was held before massed troops representing the 104th, 8th, and 1st infantry and 3d armored divisions. These were the divisions of the now famous 7th corps which spearheaded the 1st army's drive from the Roer river, smashed enemy defenses in the Cologne plain, and captured the reich's fourth largest city.

Massed in the concrete grandstand for the flag ceremony were more than 2,500 soldiers. They overflowed onto the turf of the amphitheater under gray skies as P-47s circled overhead on guard against any possible German sneak raid.

and had a prominent part in directing the landing operations. Gen. Doe himself was born in Chicago. The ship's aircraft warning officer was Lt. Comdr. Lockwood Pirie of the Chicago department store family. On the bridge dictating a record of the events was Lt. William C. Erler, 753 N. Long av., assistant operations officer.

Other Illinois men on the flagship were Pvt. Joseph Marshall, 5245 S. Trumbull av., Chicago; Lt. [j. g.] Hugh Lacey, Downers Grove, and Lt. [j. g.] Charles Trieschmann, 712 Ingleside pl., Evanston.

The 41st division has been in the thick of Pacific fighting from the beginning at Sanananda and Salamaua in New Guinea.

Capture Four Villages.

MANILA, March 12 [Monday] (AP).—Announcing the American invasion of Mindanao today, Gen. MacArthur said the move strengthened the American blockade of the South China sea and further severed Japan from her stolen East Indies empire.

The Americans captured four coastal villages immediately after landing—San Mateo, San Jose, Calarian, and San Roque—and attacked the civic center of Zamboanga, which, covering 600 square miles of the peninsula, is in area one of the largest cities of the world.

Tokyo radio said the Japanese garrison had "intercepted the enemy forces, and fierce fighting continues at this time." The Japanese said also that Yanks landed on Thursday on Basilan Island, across the narrow strait from Zamboanga. Basilan Island is about 35 miles long and 25 wide.

Japs Flee to Hills.

MacArthur said most of the enemy garrison was "caught off guard and has fled to the hills in disorder."

He added that "we now control the entire length of the western shores of the Philippine Islands, from the northwestern tip of Luzon to the southwestern tip of Mindanao—a distance of approximately 800 miles.

"The blockade of the South China sea and the consequent cutting off of the Japanese conquest to the south is intensifying."

American reconnaissance planes are already operating in the area, MacArthur said.

Mindanao was the 21st Philippine Island invaded. The Japanese radio said earlier that the Americans landed on Friday and fierce fighting was in progress. The enemy spoke for two days of heavy naval shelling.

Mindanao is 1,200 miles east of Singapore and 1,200 miles north of the Netherlands East Indies.

Zamboanga was hit with 300 tons of bombs Thursday and Friday as Liberators joined warships in the pre-invasion pounding. Barracks and supply areas were set afire.

Mindanao has been one of the hotbeds of guerrilla resistance to the Japanese since shortly after the enemy overran Luzon.

Wipe Out Luzon Japs.

In recent months the guerrillas, often led by American army officers and supplied by submarines, have confined the Mindanao Japanese to the larger cities and garrison strongholds.

On Luzon the 1st cavalry and 6th infantry divisions were continuing the systematic reduction of Japanese pillbox and cave positions along the Shimbu line east of Manila.

The 11th air borne division and the 158th regimental combat team kept up their drive along the southern shore of Luzon, clearing the north end of the Verde Island passage between Luzon and Mindoro. Other Yank units on Luzon put a tighter squeeze on Baguio, summer capital of the Philippines.

JAPS MOVE ONE MILLION CHINESE OUT OF SHANGHAI

Reported Fearful of U. S. Invasion.

CHUNGKING, China, March 11 (AP).—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek told China today to gird for a decisive battle against Japan on the mainland, amid reports that the enemy already was evacuating Japanese civilians and Chinese residents from Shanghai, apparently fearful of that city's vulnerability to an American landing.

In a message commemorating the 20th anniversary today of the death of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, the generalissimo told the Chinese they henceforth would have to shoulder a heavier responsibility in the war and exhorted them to double their war effort.

Chiang said Japan already had suffered mortal blows on land and sea and that the Japanese strategy now is to prolong the war on the mainland in the hope of averting the collapse of her empire.

"A decisive battle on the mainland is drawing close," he said.

Deadline for Million.

Chinese reports asserted that Japanese authorities had ordered all of their nationals from Shanghai and had set a deadline for one million Chinese to leave the city. The Japanese evacuation already has begun, these reports said. Japanese civilians from various towns along the Shanghai-Nanking railroad also were ordered to evacuate.

The evacuees apparently were headed for the Japanese puppet state of Manchuria. Chinese ordered to quit Shanghai were forbidden to carry valuables.

Mountbatten Sees Chiang.

A series of three-power conferences on the war against Japan was disclosed today after the departure of Adm. Mountbatten, allied commander in chief in Southeast Asia.

Mountbatten was here for three days at the invitation of Chiang. He also talked with Chinese and American staff officers.

Mountbatten declined to discuss the conversations, but it was believed the main subject discussed was collaboration between the Southeast Asia command and the China theater in coming operations.

Japs Claim Suicide Pilots 'Bag' Four U. S. Carriers

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Tokyo radio said today, without confirmation, that suicide pilots "bagged" four American aircraft carriers out of a task force at Ulithi Island last night. The broadcast did not clarify whether "bagged" meant sunk or damaged. Ulithi is northeast of Yap Island in the Caroline group and was occupied by American forces last year.

FIND JAPS BURN WOUNDED THEY CAN'T EVACUATE

MANILA, March 11 (AP).—A spokesman for Gen. MacArthur reported today the discovery of evidence that the Japanese military in Manila on Feb. 8 blew up a women's college building in which there were 500 of their own wounded and then "used vast quantities of gasoline to further burn and attempt to destroy all evidence."

"There is growing evidence," he said, "that death by burning is a typical practice of the Japanese military. Horror of the cremation-murder of civilians is augmented by the killing of their own military wounded when evacuation becomes impossible. This had been previously noted in Japanese abandoned field hospitals in the New Guinea campaigns."

Red Cross Will Remain in Europe Year After War

New York, March 11 [Special].—The American Red Cross will remain in Europe at least a year after the war ends, Basil O'Connor, national chairman said in a radio speech. "Five million men will await transportation either home or to some other war area," he said. "If there is to be an army of occupation in Germany, Red Cross, we may assume, will be called upon to administer to the needs of that army also."

NAZIS FALL BACK TO BALTIC; PLAN STAND IN DANZIG

Fight in Suburbs of Stettin, Gdynia.

LONDON, March 11 (AP).—A ten mile eastward advance by soviet forces operating west of Danzig brought them within eight miles of the Bay of Danzig today in their drive to split the German defenders of Danzig and Poland's great port of Gdynia.

The second White Russian army, advancing from the west, captured Koelin, 12 miles northwest of Danzig and nine miles southwest of Gdynia, the soviet bulletin announced.

Gains southeast of Danzig also were reported. Soviet forces pushing northward along the eastern bank of the Vistula river captured Liessau, 17 miles southeast of the imperilled city.

Fight Trapped Garrison.

The Moscow bulletin was silent regarding operations at besieged Stettin, the Baltic port northeast of Berlin, where fierce fighting is in progress, according to German accounts, but it announced another push north to the Baltic coast which toppled the town of Leba, 16 miles northwest of captured Lauenburg.

The bulletin also reported that Marshal Zhukov's 1st White Russian troops are fighting the trapped enemy garrison in the eastern part of Kolberg, near where 1,600 prisoners were taken Saturday.

Broadcasts from Berlin indicated the eastern front from Danzig and Stettin southward to Hungary was flaring with desperate attempts to check the Russian advances.

The Germans proclaimed their determination to make a death stand in every important city. Contesting every yard of soil, they fell back to Danzig, Gdynia, and Stettin, defending each suburb and outlying strongpoint behind hastily built barricades and gun positions.

Heinrich Himmler's defense strategy apparently doomed these cities to becoming rubble and ashes like Warsaw and Budapest.

On the eastern outskirts of Stettin, the Germans were braced with additional reserves, tanks and artillery in an attempt to prevent a cave-in of the "Oder wall" north of Berlin.

Shell Oder Bridge.

This political and industrial capital of Pomerania was wreathed in smoke from the cannonading of hundreds of soviet guns concentrated in the suburban areas of Alt Damm, Finkenwalde, and Podejuch.

Heavy Russian batteries installed on hills overlooking Stettin from the southeast laid down harassing fire on four bridges across the Oder river inside the city.

Most of Stettin's pre-war population of nearly 300,000 has fled westward, but hastily mobilized labor gangs worked at constructing tank barricades and converting shops, river warehouses, and municipal buildings into forts.

Fight in Kuestrin Streets.

Col. Ernst von Hammer, Nazi military commentator, claimed in a broadcast today that the Germans had repulsed Russian attacks between Frankfurst and Kuestrin due east of Berlin, altho he admitted street fighting raged in Kuestrin.

German reports acknowledged the Nazi withdrawal toward the Bay of Danzig in the Polish corridor, but insisted that the Russians had been unsuccessful in splitting the German front. Von Hammer said strong Russian tank spearheads were hammering between Kartuzy [Karthaus] and Zuckau, as well as between the Vistula and Nogat rivers, and claimed 59 Red army tanks had been knocked out.

Siege preparations similar to those at Stettin were reported under way in Danzig under a blanket order from Himmler to carry on defense at all costs.

New Battle in Silesia.

Rokossovsky, meanwhile, pushed on west and northwest of Danzig and promised to cut thru quickly to the coast between it and Poland's pre-war port of Gdynia.

Von Hammer reported a new battle had started south of the Upper Silesian industrial area as the Russians resumed attacks in the direction of the Moravian gap.

"The Germans expected the Silesian attack," he asserted, "and according to reports so far available, the Russians were thrown back at all points with great losses."

The Germans claimed continued success in counter-attacks in Silesia, Czechoslovakia and Hungary.

German Commentator Max Krull claimed that defensive fighting by the Germans had cost the Russians nearly 10,000 tanks since the great Red army offensive began Jan. 12.

Planes, Foresters Track Escaped Nazis in Wales

CHESTER, England, March 11 [Reuters].—Forty-two German prisoners who broke out of their camp near Bridgend, Glamorgan, Wales, at dawn were still at large tonight, after another 28 of the original 70 had been tracked down by a search in which airplanes and hundreds of men joined in. Gamekeepers and foresters guided the armed search parties and a cordon was thrown around 100 square miles of lonely countryside.

FIND NAZIS HIDE FACTORY BEHIND CHURCH WALLS

MOSCOW, March 11 (AP).—Foreign slave labor was secretly used to produce radio equipment for the German forces in a factory located behind the walls of a Catholic church and monastery in Paradies, a small village in Brandenburg province, the Russian army newspaper Red Star said today.

A Russian war correspondent and photographer investigating two golden doors behind the church altar discovered the entrance to the workshop, located in the adjacent monastery, the paper said. It was filled with lathes, tools, and supplies.

Numerous Italian, Czechoslovakian, French, and Polish technicians formed the factory staff, said the writer. The factory had been transferred from western Germany to escape allied bombing. The foreign workers were housed in the upper floor of the monastery and assertedly were forbidden to appear on the streets under the threat of death.

Religious services were held in the church while next door the production of radio devices for military use continued seven days a week, the correspondent wrote.

Set Decorators to Strike at Film Studios Today

Hollywood, Cal., March 11 (AP).—Union officials announced after a mass meeting tonight that set decorators at major film studios will walk out tomorrow and predicted that the work stoppage will spread in two or three days to halt most motion picture production here. Herbert Sorrell, president of the AFL Conference of Studio Unions, made the announcement. The dispute involves jurisdictional claims.

CHARGE RUSSIA SETS UP PHONY POLISH PARTIES

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 11.—The Russians are organizing "fake political parties" in Poland purporting to represent all shades of political opinion, according to messages received in London by the Polish government in exile.

It is assumed here by Polish officials that these "parties," all of which are dominated by the Reds, are to be used to give the appearance of freedom of political activity in preparation for the elections promised by the Big Three. Organization of such parties by Communists would make the result of the election a foregone conclusion regardless of what labels the parties bore, Polish leaders said.

Meanwhile, the Lublin government, set up under the auspices of Russia, is trying to force the leaders of the Polish Peasant party, the biggest in the country, to coöperate with them, the exiled officials added.

Collaboration or Jail.

According to the Polish ministry of information, the messages received assert the Peasant leaders have been given the choice of collaboration or prison. Those who collaborate are well paid.

Last month a group of leading Poles in Lwow was forced to sign a document approving the Lublin regime and attacking the Polish government in London and the Polish home army, members of which were termed "bandits" and "Hitler's servants," the ministry said.

Poles here also state they were informed that mass meetings have been held all over Poland, at which Poles present were forced to approve unanimously the Crimea decisions and express gratitude to Stalin.

Poles are being terrorized into cooperation by widespread deportations, London Poles claim. In addition to the arrest of ex-Polish officers and members of the intelligentsia, unimportant members of communities are constantly vanishing.

Report Mass Deportations.

Six thousand former officers of the Polish home army, which is now disbanded, are held in a concentration camp at Lubartow near Lublin, according to information received here. The camps are supervised by the NKVD [Russian secret police] and every few days groups are deported.

In February 125 cattle cars were crammed with Poles deported from the Grodno region and 242 cars from the Bialystok area. Two thousand Poles were deported on one train from the Lwow region in January, Poles here asserted.

Object of the deportations, in the opinion of London Poles, is to destroy the Polish people as a nation. The people who hold the Polish point of view or who could form the nucleus of a new Polish national life, are being arrested or liquidated.

Higher Officers Reds.

Officers above the rank of captain in the newly organized Polish army are Russians with an NKVD agent assigned to each platoon, Poles here say they were informed. Many officers are 19 to 20 years old without military experience except that gained in the "peoples army" which was the Communist organization in Poland.

This army is not used for fighting but is considered a political and propaganda organization. It is commanded by Col. Gen. Mihail Zymierski, who is said to have fought on the Red side in the Spanish civil war.

VICTORY DRUNK FOE WILL BREAK YET, HITLER SAYS

Hints Guerrillas Will Carry on Fight.

LONDON, March 11 (AP).—Adolf Hitler, declaring the allies are "drunk by their orgy of victory" and intend to destroy the German nation, exhorted Germans today to fanatical resistance.

The message issued in Hitler's name marked the 10th anniversary of military conscription. It was broadcast from Berlin.

Offering a pallid hope of distant victory, Hitler asserted "only those suffer defeat who are unworthy of winning victory" and indicated Germany would fight on in guerrilla resistance if her armies were smashed.

"Task Is Clear."

"We witness both in the east and in the west what our people would have to face. Our task is therefore clear: to put up resistance and to wear down our enemies so long that until, in the end, they will get tired and will yet be broken. Everybody has therefore to fulfill his duty.

"It is my unshakable determination and it must become the unshakable will of us all to show the world no worse example than our forefathers have given," said the proclamation.

"The year 1918 will not be repeated. We know the fate Germany would meet otherwise. Drunk by their orgy of victory, our enemies have clearly announced their war aims—extermination of the German nation.

Appeals for Fanaticism.

"Even if fate has turned against us now, there can be no doubt that these reverses can be overcome, as so often before, with steadfastness and courage, with endurance and fanaticism."

He declared there "can be but one command:

"To defy all dangers with iron determination and to do everything to bring about a turn for the better, and for this purpose to strengthen the power of resistance of our nation and its armed forces both materially and spiritually.

"Just as great must be our fanaticism in the destruction of those who are trying to resist our aims."

Repeats Old Themes.

German military conscription, ordered in March, 1935, "gained Germany the means necessary for her self-defense, without which there would be no Germany by now," Hitler said, and if Germany had remained militarily impotent, "Europe already would have fallen now to bolshevism."

Again Hitler played the old themes that Germany had rearmed only after "our enemies" spurned German proposals for disarmament, that a "Jewish alliance between capitalism and bolshevism" menaces Europe, and that Russia "built up a gigantic armed force with the outspoken aim to suddenly attack Europe, which was made powerless by the Jews."

CZECH LEADER RETURNS HOME, ENDS 6 YR. EXILE

LONDON, March 11 (AP).—At the end of six years' exile, President Eduard Benes has left England to set up a government in Kosice, second city of Czechoslovakia, it was disclosed today.

He was accompanied by Mrs. Benes and a dozen members of his government and personal staff, and will be joined at Moscow by other cabinet members and Czechoslovak politicians.

In a farewell ceremony attended by high British officials, Benes thanked England for her hospitality since he arrived here in October, 1938.

Vatican Denies Report It Seeks Accord with Russia

VATICAN CITY, March 11 (AP).—The Vatican press office today denied a report published in the Rome press quoting authoritative Holy See quarters as saying negotiations now were in progress for an accord with soviet Russia.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Gail Compton

March 11, 1945.

SNOW still clings in dirty patches in the shelter of the fence rows and ditches and the black and brown of the fall plowed fields blends bleakly with the dull toned winter woods on the Tribune farms. The March winds carry a bite and spring still seems a thing to be wished for.

Yet in the barn 10 new born lambs frisk around on wobbly legs and push tentative noses outdoors to test the weather, proving that the days of bright warm sun and greening blades of grass are not far away. Four of the lambs are coal black, confusing to their white Southdown mothers and humorous evidence of the time last year when the Karakul buck, Old Napoleon, forsook his own flock via a high fence to visit the band of white ewes.

Prelude to Spring.

Spring is around the corner and the farm is quickening with activity, prelude to another war time year of high geared production. Fat cattle fill the feedlots on both Tribune farms. Herds of Angus and Shorthorn beef cows roam the fields with the promise of a big crop of spring calves.

Egg production is stepping up as the days of sunlight after the dark of winter encourage the hens. Fat sows are making nests of straw and soon will produce next fall's bacon and pork chops.

In the barn the machinery is lined in rows, greased and ready for field work as soon as the ground and weather permit. The winter has been a good one and the men expect to get an early start with plowing, harrowing, and planting. All of the heavy snow blanket of the winter was saved, as it soaked into the soft ground when it melted. The snow arrived before the ground had a chance to freeze and the soft ground was able to absorb all of the moisture. There still is a 10 inch deficiency of moisture dating back to last June, but spring rains should go far to make up the deficit.

Plan Experiments.

Interesting things have been planned for the farms this year which should catch the attention of amateur and professional farmers alike. A hay drier will be constructed in one barn and experiments will be carried out in curing hay in the barn, a new method which has attracted widespread interest. Also, at haying time, the farm will use a one man hay baler. This is a machine that picks up loose hay, packages, and ties the bales with twine.

Among other experiments will be taking the temperature of a tree, chopping hay in the field, and feeding out the first load of farm raised beef cattle.

Accounts of activities on the farms will be carried in this column every day except Sunday. The technical as well as the light side of daily farm work will be recounted and readers will find much to interest them.

Lloyd George's Condition Unchanged; 'Very Weak'

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

THIS new series of garden articles, to be published in this space each weekday until early autumn, will include data on every phase of garden culture.

All of the materials in these articles will be based upon actual garden conditions observed in the sample gardens on the Wheaton farm. The main vegetable garden on the farm covers slightly more than 30,000 square feet, being 60 feet wide and 510 feet long. In addition there are smaller vegetable plots, flower gardens, and a greenhouse operated by professional gardeners.

The work done by these men in the gardens and greenhouse, as well as their work on the lawns, shrubs, and evergreens, will be reported in these articles.

[The Gardener's Diary, a 58 page booklet based on work done in the farm vegetable gardens in past years, is available from The Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn st. and 435 N. Michigan av. The cost of the booklet is 15 cents over the counter, 18 cents by mail.]

ANNAM, FRENCH COLONY, TAKEN OVER BY JAPAN

PARIS, March 11 (AP).—The German radio today broadcast a Tokyo announcement that Annam, a protectorate of French Indo-China, where the Japanese now are taking over full control, had proclaimed its independence from France and pledged "close coöperation with Japan." Annam extends nearly the full length of Indo-China's eastern coastline.

The Japanese moved to take full administration of Indo-China on the ground that French officials there secretly were scheming to get in contact with allied forces, and because of Nipponese fears of allied landings there.

The Japanese commander in Annam announced full approval of the Annam declaration, which "brings the small state completely into Japan's greater Asiatic sphere," Japanese dispatches said. The Parisian press described the seizure of Indo-China as a logical sequence of Vichy's collaboration with the Nipponese in 1940 and 1941.

MOTHERLAND TO BE BATTLEFIELD, KOISO TELLS DIET

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Japanese Premier Koiso, addressing the imperial diet Sunday, warned the Japanese people that they must prepare for the time when their "sacred motherland" will become a battleground.

Koiso as reported by the Japanese agency Domei declared "the present war situation is very serious." He called upon the Japanese people to renew their confidence in victory and to prepare to fight in "defense of the national structure and the sacred motherland, whatever hardships may be in store for them."

Speaking of the situation in French Indo-China, where the Japanese took complete control last week, Koiso said the military situation had "become so intensified that a full scale invasion of the region may be expected at any minute."

The report did not make clear whether Koiso meant that he thought an allied landing there was imminent, or whether he referred to possible additional Japanese operations in that area.

The premier spoke of "reckless enemy advances" in the Philippines and on Iwo Island and said American air raids, by Super Fortresses and carrier based planes, on the Japanese homeland, had reached "serious proportions." But, he added, his government would speedily adopt "bold measures" to meet the situation.

Promises to Repel Yanks.

"If the enemy should invade the waters near our mainland we will crush him on the sea. If he should attempt to land we will intercept him at the water's edge and drive him back into the sea. If he should finally succeed in landing we will annihilate him with sledge hammer blows.

"Geographical advantage will be with our side because the battle will be fought on our home ground. There will be solid unity among us. We can count upon the brilliant strategy of our high command and the grim determination of our officers and men to defend the country to the last.

"I am more than confident that we will never allow the enemy to stay on our sacred motherland alive."

Koiso's pledge was seconded by War Minister Sugiyama and Navy Minister Yonai.

Hints at New Weapons.

Sugiyama told the diet that an attempt, to invade the Japanese homeland would be a "God given opportunity" for Japanese suicide airmen and "new weapons" to send enemy warships and transports to the bottom of the sea. In event of an actual landing, he added, "we have a sure program of destroying them all."

The war minister spoke of the "distinguished leadership" of Gen. Yamashita, Japanese commander in the Philippines, and Lt. Gen. Kuribayashi, commander on Iwo. He said the fights there were delaying actions and that Japanese "bleeding" tactics have already cost the Americans 70,000 casualties on Luzon and 20,000 on Iwo.

In a message to the house of representatives the Iwo general said the battle there was "becoming more and more grim and sanguinary" but pledged his garrison "to crush the enemy."

Adm. Yonai told the diet "it was regretable" that no serious losses could be inflicted upon the United States task force which recently sent carrier planes to raid Tokyo.

SWEDISH NEUTRALITY SHUTS NATION'S VOICE, RED PAPER ASSERTS

MOSCOW, March 11 (AP).—Pravda, Communist party newspaper, reviewing Sweden's neutrality in the war, said today "she has placed herself in a position where her voice will not be heard when questions of the world and Europe" are discussed by the allied nations next month in San Francisco.

"The policy of false neutrality is bearing fruit," the article said. "Certain Swedish capitalists were convinced that this was the most advantageous policy but they were mistaken. They realized this mistake when they saw their names on American and British blacklists.

"The international authority of Sweden does not stand high as the result of the pro-German foreign policy of her ruling circles."

UNIT CITATION AWARDED LOST CRUISER HELENA

Washington, D. C., March 11 (AP).—The first navy unit citation has been awarded the light cruiser Helena for heroism against Japanese forces in the Solomon Islands in 1942 and 1943. The Helena was lost in Kula gulf in July, 1943. A new light cruiser bearing the name is now under construction.

The newly created citation was established Dec. 20 by Secretary Forrestal with the approval of the President. The vessel's citation said in part:

"Her brave record of combat achievement is evidence of the Helena's intrepidity and the heroic fighting spirit of her officers and men." Capt. Gilbert C. Hoover, Bristol, R. I., commanded the Helena.

MOST OF IWO'S EAST COAST WON BY U. S. MARINES

One Pocket of Japs Is By-Passed.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Guam, March 12 [Monday] (AP). — Most of the northeast end of Iwo Island was captured by United States marines yesterday, and the remaining Japanese defenders were fighting to hold the northern tip of the strategic island.

Resistance in the 1,000 yard deep triangle at the north end was described as heavy in Adm. Nimitz' bulletin today, but Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey's 5th division leathernecks were pressing forward with naval gunfire and artillery support.

The battle for Iwo clearly was in its final phase as the 3d and 4th division marines, in their 21st day of fighting, drove thru Japanese lines to reach the beaches and capture most of the cliff fringed northeast coast.

By-Pass Pocket of Japs.

A single small pocket of Japanese was by-passed by Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates' 4th division. This enemy force, in an area possibly 800 yards by 200, was still holding out at nightfall.

Japanese mortar and artillery fire was not mentioned today. The enemy's gun emplacements had been largely overrun, and the marines now had to cope with fire from automatic weapons and other smaller arms.

Adm. Nimitz said the 4th division and Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine's 3d "drove thru enemy lines to capture most of the east coast of Iwo Island on March 11.". Heavy artillery and naval gunfire gave close support.

Japs Disorganized.

Morrie Landsberg, Associated Press correspondent at Iwo, said the Nipponese appeared to be milling about in disorganized groups under hammering by the 4th marine division on the right flank.

Nimitz said Japanese resistance, which had been characterized as heavy until Friday afternoon, was "decreasing at numerous points." Landsberg's dispatch spoke of light resistance to the 4th's advances, "indicating that the Japanese fight has played out somewhat."

Army fighter planes, operating from the southern air field on Iwo, raided Chichi and Haha in the Bonin Islands, less than 200 miles north of Iwo. They scored hits on Chichi's air field and harbor installations. Liberator bombers also attacked the airfield on Chichi Saturday.

Marine planes started fires among Japanese positions in the Palaus and raided Yap, in the western Carolines.

England Becoming Part of Continent, Briton Says

PARIS, March 11 [Reuters].—England is fast becoming a part of the European continent, A. Duff Cooper, British ambassador to France, said in inaugurating a new series of Paris broadcasts for British listeners today. "It is important for us to understand the French more than any other people—they are our closest neighbors," Duff Cooper asserted. The broadcast was inaugurated jointly with Charles Bidault, French foreign minister.

Finn President Reported Back on Job; Ill 2 Weeks

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 11 [Reuters].—Finnish President Gustav Mannerheim today resumed his presidential duties after two weeks' illness, a Swedish news agency correspondent in Helsinki reported. Last week Finnish reports indicated that the field marshal, who became president after the Finnish armistice, was unwell and was not exercising his presidential functions.

GAS COUPONS STOLEN.

Burglars took gasoline coupons and $14 from the offices of the Northwestern Welding Works, Inc., 4105 Lake st., officials told police yesterday.

Nazis Hold Out

ROME, March 11 (AP).—The Germans have stepped up the tempo of their bitter defense of Vergato, central Italy strongpoint southwest of Bologna, against the northward push of the 5th army, an allied bulletin reported today.

The 5th army, standing to the east and west of the town on the Bologna-Pistoia highway, ran into increasing resistance overnight as Field Marshal Kesselring battled to hold the town which has staved off repeated attacks since last fall.

Meanwhile, the United States 10th mountain division seized two peaks—Monte Belvedere and Monte Valbura—three miles southwest of Vergato, and eight miles north of another Monte Belvedere they captured at the start of their current drive.

American patrols tried to break into Fornaci, northeast of Vergato, but each time ran into fierce small arms and machine gun fire and were forced to turn back.

123,173 NAZIS SEIZED IN WEST SINCE FEB. 1

WITH U. S. 1ST ARMY ON THE RHINE, March 11 (AP).—American and Canadian troops have captured the equivalent of two German armies in little more than a month.

A total of 123,173 prisoners of war fell to the 1st, 3d, and 9th United States armies and the Canadian 1st in that period. This is equal to two armies of two corps each, the corps comprising three divisions of 10,000 men each.

Since the Roer river offensive Feb. 23, the 1st has taken 33,795 prisoners and the 9th 29,378. Since Feb. 1, the 3d has captured 40,000 and the Canadians 20,000.

YANKS WELCOME SNEAK ATTACKS BY JAPS ON IWO

BY THOMAS MORROW.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

IWO ISLAND, March 10 [Delayed].—Attempted mass infiltration by desperate Japanese troops has helped to hasten the end of the Iwo campaign, and the marines today were pushing the enemy toward the sea. Troops who had taken a beating from guns they couldn't see took on new energy when tangible Japanese appeared. As a result more than 550 of the enemy were killed and the marines were eagerly pounding toward the northern coast.

Pushed back from the high ground and their heavily fortified pillboxes, Japs armed with explosives of all kinds tried to infiltrate and do any damage possible. One small group made its way to a regimental command post area, where its personnel left the war via the bullet route.

Part of the Iwo campaign since its inception is Mugu, a ragged and dubious sort of dog, with an affable disposition. She is attached to the 5th tank battalion. Gunfire has bothered her not a whit, and she has insisted on taking a lighter view of things ever since the troops landed.

In fact, as the ship was still under way here, she presented the battalion with four pups, which were distributed among the companies. This feat amazed the battalion members, as they had taken some pains to arrange with a doctor that it shouldn't happen. Mugu ignored the doctor's efforts and went cheerfully ahead with the pup project. She joined the tank battalion in California and has made all its travels since. Currently she is seen in the company of a strapping dog from C company.

Mugu and this outfit have been thru a lot together, reported Sgt. Maj. Tom Minahan, whose parents, Frank and Anna, live at 6310 S. Campbell av., Chicago.

"The right type letters from relatives do much to keep morale high," he remarked as he tossed over one just received from his aunt and uncle, Helen and Ray Orr of 802 W. 78th st.

* *

Other battalion mates of Minahan and Mugu are Maj. John L. Frothingham of 120 Keeney st., Evanston, and Pvt. Gaule Gallagher, 2234 Clifton av., Chicago. All are more interested in discussing Mugu's startling feat of reproduction than their own feat of taking tanks over impossible terrain thru the night in support of infantry.

Gallagher did say, however, he couldn't afford to make any mistakes.

"My father has mapped all our strategy," he said, "and any mistake will be discussed when I get back home."

* *

"I doubt that any tank battalion has all its original parts," said Pvt. Carl Sorenson of Philadelphia. "When the enemy knocked them out we dragged them in, fixed them up, and sent them back to the front. Most of them are operating now."

* *

Unconfirmed reports this morning said Lt. John B. Murphy has been slightly wounded and evacuated. The lieutenant is a Dobermann-Pinscher.

CABINET RESIGNS IN ECUADOR ROW; MOVE REJECTED

QUITO, Ecuador, March 11 (AP).—The Ecuadorian cabinet resigned tonight but President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra refused to accept the resignation.

These developments followed a stormy session of the constitutional convention in which shots were fired from the spectators' gallery and police dispersed 300 persons who were milling around the assembly hall. The convention then adjourned at 3 a. m.

The assembly had given the president power to grant amnesty to political prisoners who were without major responsibility for the acts of the regime of former President Carlos Arroyo del Rio, now in exile.

No one was hurt in the shooting.

EASY LIFE GONE, BUT NICE STILL LOAFS IN SUN

Town Wide Open; Autos Out of Hiding.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NICE, France, March 11.—Easy living has gone from Nice, France's fifth city, in peace famed as a vacation center with masked balls, battles of flowers, girls, and noise, and in war a haven for refugees—where you can get as far away from the Nazis as possible and still stay in France.

But Nice still is one of the pleasantest places in France and the story that it has been starving is much exaggerated. The populace, largely refugees and retired middle class people, does not have the big meals of before the war, but there is no famine, at least not since the Americans came.

Civil affairs officers are now managing the food supply problem and American canned corned beef is rationed in stores and flour is distributed. On the black market there is everything.

There is no heating problem as it is warm all but a few weeks in the year.

Since last week the town has been wide open, with cafes, bars, theaters, and night clubs open till midnight. There is plenty to drink everywhere in contrast to Paris and towns in the north.

A stroll along the sea, past luxurious, big hotels discloses little difference between this trying period and the pre-war days so far as outward appearances go. There are the same lazy crowds lolling in deck chairs and basking in the sunshine.

One change is immediately noticed along the sea front, however. The Germans tore down a pier that jutted out into the Mediterranean. Here also are remains of blasted concrete fortifications, erected by the Germans to defend the city from American invasion.

Autos Out from Hiding.

In Nice's streets are numerous civilian automobiles. One wonders where they come from and how they run. In the latter months the Germans requisitioned all cars in France, but the French seem to have done a good job of hiding them. There is a surprising amount of stock in Nice's stores compared to those in Paris. You can buy even a suit of clothes or a radio set.

Prices are high in the night spots. A dollar and a half is a small price for a drink in one of the smart night joints. Opera flourishes nightly and the town has dozens of movies, mostly with French films or with old American ones.

There is much political turbulence because of the presence of a big Italian colony, many foreigners, political refugees, and diverse elements.

The mayor of the town, Virgil Barel, is a Communist and Prefect Escande is leftist, too. They run the place and you don't have to read the Communist daily l'Aurore to know what the city is feeling and thinking.

Refugees Under Cover.

All kinds of political refugees are under cover here, including many Spanish. The former Spanish Republican leader, Juan Negrin, was down here this week consulting with Spanish Socialist exiles.

Fascists, collaborationists and sympathizers abound, says the local press, which today reported that fifth columnists blew up three newsstands which were selling the Communist newspaper.

The resistance movement, largely dominated by Communists in this region, criticizes the laxity of the police. "A thousand tons of dynamite would not shake up the administration which is supposedly dealing with the clean-out of Italian Fascists," the Communist newspaper said yesterday.

The streets are full of soldiers from the Italian Alpine front not far away. Our troops hold long sectors of it with the French. Patrols clash in the mountain passes there and artillery duels sometimes can be heard here.

But in Nice and Monte Carlo carefree people parade in luxurious establishments and sun themselves on cafe terraces only a few miles from the front and within sound of guns. Nice now is yellow with mimosa and tangerines and lemons.

2,250 YANKEES FREED BY REDS WAIT AT ODESSA

1,196 Ex-Prisoners on Way Home.

MOSCOW, March 11 (AP).—Nearly 10,000 American, British, and French ex-prisoners of the Germans are awaiting repatriation at Odessa, Pravda said today, reporting that 3,413 sailed for home last week.

Last Wednesday and Thursday 969 United States soldiers and 227 officers left the Russian Black sea port in steamers which also carried 1,391 Britons and 826 French nationals. At present there are 2,000 United States soldiers and 250 officers in Odessa which has been turned into a transient camp for allied nationals liberated in western Poland and eastern Germany by the Red army. The center's population also includes 2,200 British officers and men as well as 5,000 French soldiers and civilians, including women and children.

Stream of Arrivals.

There is a continual stream of new allied arrivals by train and plane, said Pravda.

One evacuation plane left Poland with 11 United States army men and two British soldiers, Pravda reported, listing the Americans, without home addresses as: Captains James Dix, Ralph Anderson, Richard Kimball; Lieutenants Harold Zukor, William Buchals, Selif Goodman, John Aldofield, Frank Handler; Sergeants John Blaskow, Henry Andrews, and Gilbert Hand. They were scheduled to continue to the United States by plane.

Get Red Rations.

Pravda said the allies are housed at Odessa in "well-lighted, spacious, warm buildings." All are provided with rations according to the Red army front standard and clothing and footgear are made available to them. American and British Red Cross parcels have already been distributed and medical treatment is on an organized basis, as is entertainment.

NAME NEW STAFF CHIEF OF U.S. 14TH AIR FORCE

Brig. Gen. Hegenberger.

KUNMING, China, March 11 (AP).—Brig. Gen. Albert F. Hegenberger, 49, Boston, Mass., one of the pioneers of army aviation, has succeeded Brig. Gen. Edgar E. Glenn as chief of staff of the United States 14th air force.

Glenn, 49, Kansas City, Kas., has returned to the United States for another assignment. He was chief of staff of the 1st air force at Mitchel field, New York, before coming to China in March, 1943.

Hegenberger, a first World war flyer, was a partner of Lt. L. J. Maitland in the first non-stop flight from the United States to Hawaii in 1927. In 1932 Hegenberger won the Collier trophy for the first blind flight at Dayton, O.

Low BANK Rates

Why pay two to three times Merchandise Bank's low charges?

• Savings shown apply to "signature only" loans repaid in 12 monthly instalments, cost to be deducted in advance. You can take even more if you borrow with one co-maker. In either case, you save at least half of usual and lawful Small Loan Charges.

$100 LOAN
At Usual Small Loan Rate, You Pay $20.84
At Merchandise Bank You Pay Only 8.00
YOU SAVE $12.84
$200 LOAN
At Usual Small Loan Rate, You Pay $39.52
At Merchandise Bank You Pay Only 16.00
YOU SAVE $23.52
Why Pay More THAN THIS LOW COST?

AT USUAL small loan rates—on a loan of $100—you have to make 12 payments of about $10.07 each. Figure it out—that's $120.84—or $20.84 more than you borrowed!

At Merchandise Bank a similar loan will cost you only $5.50 (if you use the popular One Co-Maker Plan), saving you $15.34 on $100 for 1 year. (Can't you use that fifteen dollars?) Or—if you borrow on your signature only, the cost is only $8—and you still save $12.84. In either case the saving amounts to nearly as much as two payments. And you save proportionately on any amount you borrow at Merchandise Bank.

SORE THROAT BECAUSE OF A COLD?

If you keep CAL-Aspirin handy as you should, for its quick, well-tolerated relief of headache, muscular aches and painful symptoms of a cold, get acquainted with its aid as a gargle for sore throat due to colds!

Try CAL-Aspirin this way. See how swiftly it helps! Just dissolve three CAL-Aspirin tablets in a half-glass of water, and gargle—repeating as needed to soothe the soreness and minor throat irritation a cold may cause.

At times like this, CAL-Aspirin may mean the difference between distress and quick comfort. For it offers the pain-relieving action of pure aspirin in well-tolerated combination with calcium—so stomach distress following its use is largely avoided, even by persons who have experienced such discomfort with other medicines.

Ask for CAL-Aspirin at your druggist's. Tubes of 12 tablets; vials of 36 and 100.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. S. A. Burger, 739 Belmont av.]

THE QUESTION.

What has been your most unforgettable experience with a horse?

WHERE ASKED.

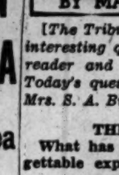
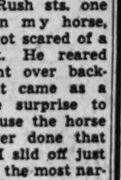
THE ANSWERS.

Frank Wolf, 3851 W. 58th pl.—While the new postoffice was being built I rode past. My horse was scared by a riveter and ran away. The horse had the bit in his mouth, so there was no stopping him. Finally we went thru a red light and a cab hit us. The horse was killed. I was thrown over the top of the car.

Richard L. Eldridge, 5553 Wells st.—I had a "green" horse at Wabash av. and Madison st. that was sensitive to newspapers. A newsboy waved a paper in front of his face. The horse reared up into the air. I slid off the side and the horse went over backward, hit his head on the paving, and was knocked unconscious.



John F. Walsh, 6442 Dorchester av.—Going south one morning on Clark st., I had a new horse. He got frightened and started running away. I was following a street car. The car stopped to let off passengers. I couldn't stop the horse, so I had to throw him down. Both of us went down, but neither of us was hurt.



John Mahon, 5231 Quincy st.—It must be thrilling work being a jockey. At a race during one of our field meets I had a fast horse. There were six of us in the race and I was almost sure I'd come in first. It was a close race, but I didn't win. However, I was second. Those were tense moments.

John T. Gilligan, 5077 Monroe st.—At Illinois and Rush sts. one afternoon my horse, Silver, got scared of a pushcart. He reared and went over backward. It came as a complete surprise to me because the horse had never done that before. I slid off just in time. It was one of the most narrow escapes I have had.

LIST OF 2,136 WAR PRISONERS IS ANNOUNCED

HELP A SOLDIER

Live AGAIN!

Our wounded heroes are coming back in increasing thousands from the blood stained battlefields of Europe, and the treacherous Pacific island stepping stones.

 Any one in the medical profession will tell you that nothing can compare to the feeling that comes at that moment . . . when they have helped some one live again. It is a blessed moment that heretofore has come to a chosen few . . . it has created a bond between these men and women that sets them apart from the rest of us . . . a bond that brings them closer to knowing real achievement than anything else. An opportunity for becoming one of those chosen few is yours . . . if you accept it. Helping to rekindle the spark of life in wounded men . . . helping them want to live . . . helping them realize that to them, the victors, belong the rewards of peace . . . this is indeed a wonderful work. It is a work that calls for a big heart . . . and a bigger soul . . . it is a noble work and one that ennobles any one who performs it. It is your chance to repay these men in kind for what they have given you . . . peace, security, and everlasting happiness. They spared nothing in their efforts . . . don't go back on them.*

MOUNTAIN WAR COULD BE LONG ONE, SAYS LANZA

Central European Mass Is Big Natural Fortress.

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA.

The central European mountain mass, provided its population remains faithful to the Nazi cause, forms a gigantic natural fortress. It might take considerable time to reduce it.

Reports indicate that Germany started to remove military stores and supplies to within the central mass last year. Bohemia, Moravia, much of Austria and north Italy have not yet been extensively bombed. The country lends itself to the installation of a large number of small plants. Preparations for organizing the entire area seem to be well advanced.

Nobody knows what stocks of munitions and food Germany really has. Some reports claim that they will not last another four months; others that there is ample, including oil, for a year or more. It is probable that Germany has purposely divulged false information in this regard.

Line North of Main River.

Should the Germans retire to the central mountain mass, it would mean that their armies confronting the allies in the west, and those facing the Russians in the east would wheel to a line north of the Main river. Roughly speaking that line would be of about the same length as the lines held at present.

A retreat of this nature would be a delicate operation. It would envisage the withdrawal of the troops in Holland north of the Rhine, and in Denmark. It would be preferable to a retreat directly to the rear, which would end in the western and eastern armies arriving back to back and to sure defeat. Berlin is being prepared for a protracted defense. Assuming this is successful it would provide time for the orderly withdrawal of the main armies.

Germany still holds outside territory. Croat troops are aiding the Germans in consolidating their positions in the Croatian area while the rate of the German retreat from Yugoslavia is slowing down.

North Italy is of high value to Germany. Its industrial production is considerable, altho declining on account of inability to obtain coal. However there is an extensive hydro-electric development furnishing power over what has been one of the finest electrical systems in the world. Surplus food is produced which must be a boon to the Germans.

Germany can be counted upon to fight for the Po valley, but, if necessary, a new line would be available along the Adige river. The area of Italy behind that river is not so important, but the line itself is reasonably short, and a good one for defensive purposes. It would not be surprising if Germany reënforced her troops in Italy.

Remain in Norway.

It is reported from Norway that the Germans are not moving out, and show no signs of an intent to do so. On the contrary the German navy is being concentrated in Norway, and new fortifications are being erected. Norway is not an easy country to invade due to restricted landing beaches.

One of Germany's hopes is that she will be able to restart her submarines on large scale raids. According to German reports a modest increase in sinkings of ships by new types of German submarines has been accomplished. She needs Norway for this purpose.

Another German plan is increase her robot bomb shelling of England. This might be based in the future on launching sites in Norway, which it is hoped will cause such destruction in England that the British will agree to a negotiated peace.

Ten wives and the fiancee of Americans in the Pacific as they met yesterday for a get acquainted party. Left to right: Mrs. James White, Mrs. Joseph O'Brien, Mrs. William McClanahan, Mrs. Joseph Shillis, Mrs. Marion Luety, Miss Lottie Zdunek, Mrs. Howard Eriksen, Mrs. John G. Schafer, Mrs. Joseph Murnane, Mrs. Carl Schraag, and Mrs. George G. Donat.

G. I.s ON BATAAN BRING 10 WIVES TOGETHER HERE

A group of Chicagoland women, strangers to each other, met yesterday at 800 Tower ct. The event didn't cause much of a ripple in the social life of the city, but it was mighty important to 11 enlisted men, now serving on the Bataan peninsula under Maj. Gen. Charles P. Hall.

The women were the wives of 10 of these fighting men and the meeting was arranged by their soldier-husbands. The 11th woman is the fiancee of one of the soldiers.

At first the women were strangely quiet. The introductions were formal and conversation stilted. Then some one read a letter from her soldier-husband and the group met on common ground. Mrs. Schraag become "Josephine" and Joe's wife became "Ann." A husband in uniform was the bond that united them into a friendly group.

General Approves.

Gen. Hall knew of the meeting and approved of it because he thought it would help keep the morale of the soldiers higher. He sent his congratulations to the group and said he would be interested in hearing about the meeting.

Only 11 women met yesterday but as the names are sent in from Bataan others will be invited to the group. Right now the women are at a loss to know what to call themselves, but some favor naming the organization "The Fives and Sixes" because the insigna their busbands wear is a pair of dice. Regardless of the name, however, all wives of men serving in the army on Bataan are welcome, Mrs. Marion Leuty, 2317 Florence st., Blue Island, said.

Awaits Her Fiance.

Miss Lottie Zdunek of 2505 Cortez st. was a special guest and will become a full fledged member as soon as her marriage to Sgt. Geno Gresslin takes place. Sgt. Gresslin is en route home on furlough and the wives of soldiers still on Bataan are anxiously awaiting his arrival and firsthand information from their husbands, who have been overseas a year.

Before being assigned to foreign duty the soldiers were stationed in Chicago for a year at 52d st. and Cottage Grove av.

FOUND DEAD ON STREET.

Willie Neal, 26, Negro, of 224 E. 63d st., was found dead in front of 5245 Calumet av. yesterday. Physicians at the Provident hospital said he apparently died from a blow on the head.

REPORT ROMANIA PROMISES ARMY, LAND REFORMS

MOSCOW, March 11 (AP). — Reforms proposed for the Romanian army and peasants were prominently reported today by the soviet press.

Dispatches from Bucharest said Minister of War Rascanu had announced pay of soldiers would be increased, and service men would be given preference in redistribution of landed estates. Rascanu was reported to have pledged to purge from the army all "parasitical elements and those who oppose new ideas which will be the foundation of the new world."

Minister of Agriculture Zaroni announced the formation of a commission to study land reforms. With northern Transylvania returned to Romanian administration by the Red army it was disclosed that at least three prefects had been replaced.

RINGS AND WATCH STOLEN.

Fred Di Fiori, 10450 Calhoun av., told police yesterday that two rings, two bracelets, and a watch, all valued at $113, were stolen from his home.

600 More Dutch Children Reach England from Front

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 11.—More than 600 Dutch children, the second such party to arrive in England in recent weeks, were landed today. The young visitors, most of whom are from just behind the front lines, were poorly clad and looked ill. They will be placed in a hostel for three months and spend another three months in private homes to regain their health before returning to Holland.

JAPS IN INDIES TO BE CUT OFF, NIMITZ WARNS

Still Hoping Fleet Will Come Out and Fight.

San Francisco, Cal., March 11 (AP).—Fleet Adm. Nimitz today said the time is almost at hand when the "Japanese will be unable to operate any shipping whatever to the Netherlands East Indies or to their holdings on the South China sea."

American submarines are operating freely along the China coast now and "our fleet is approaching the extreme westward part of the Pacific ocean," he said at a press conference.

The United States fleet has taken command of the sea and can go where it needs to go, but the Japanese still have their Asiatic continent land lines and their army is 90 per cent intact, Nimitz said, in warning that after the war in Europe is over the allies still will "have to go all out to destroy or defeat Japan."

Great Power Required.

He added that it would take overwhelming sea, land, and naval power to cut Japan off from the Asiatic mainland which supplies her food, coal, and critical war supplies, and pointed to the narrowness of the gap of sea between the continent and Nippon itself.

As to the Japanese fleet, it is "so inferior in strength in comparison to the United States fleet that it must choose its time to come out. Our policy is to keep so concentrated a fleet that no matter when this time may be, we will have a large reception committee. Nothing would suit our plans better than to have the Japanese fleet attempt to interfere with our operations. It would mean early destruction of what is left of that naval force; simplify our job in the Pacific; result in multiple operations instead of single ones."

No Army-Navy Conflict.

The admiral reiterated that there is no conflict between the army and the navy, no jealousy of command; that each has its own task.

Altho the Japanese homeland is in the area now under his command, he said the battle against the Nipponese after initial amphibious operations there or on the Asiatic mainland obviously would be an army job, with the army command directly responsible to the joint chiefs of staff.

Nimitz added that the navy under his command still would have the transport and supply job and also would be responsible to the joint chiefs of staff.

FUR COAT STOLEN.

Dr. Arthur Jung, a dentist, reported to police that thieves broke into his home at 9113 Aberdeen st. while he was absent yesterday and stole a $350 sable colored muskrat coat.

THREE WOMEN SAY GYPSY GOT $1,072 FROM THEM

Miss Mary Miller.

Miss Mary Miller, 28, who police say is a gypsy, was pointed out by three women at the detective bureau yesterday as the woman who took $1,072 from them in a confidence game in the last two years. She refused to give her address and denied the charges.

Detectives Edward Henning and George Miller arrested Miss Miller as she was about to leave the home of Mrs. Mary Matthews, a Negro, at 1290 Washburne av., with $150 to have the money "blessed" for good luck.

Mrs. Jessie Saunders, 11259 Loomis st., said she recognized Miss Miller as the woman who obtained $650 from her last April 18 by a similar ruse; Betty Powell, a Negro, of 628 W. 14th st., said Miss Miller obtained $315 from her last April, and Jannie Methis, a Negro, of 1457 Roosevelt rd., said Miss Miller took $107 from her in February, 1943.

FOOD PROGRAM APPROVED BY 18 ALLIED NATIONS

Washington, D. C., March 11 (AP).—Ratification by two more nations is needed to put into operation the food and agriculture organization of the allied nations, Canadian Ambassador L. B. Pearson said today in a statement.

Pearson, chairman of the allied nations interim commission on food and agriculture, which was formed at the Hot Springs, Va., international food conference in 1943 and authorized to draw up a constitution and tentative program for the new organization, said 18 nations had agreed to accept the plan. The plan has not been submitted to congress for approval.

Nations which have accepted are Australia, Belgium, China, Czechoslovakia, Dominican Republic, Egypt, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Iceland, India, Mexico, Netherlands, Nicaragua, Norway, Philippines, Poland, and the United Kingdom.

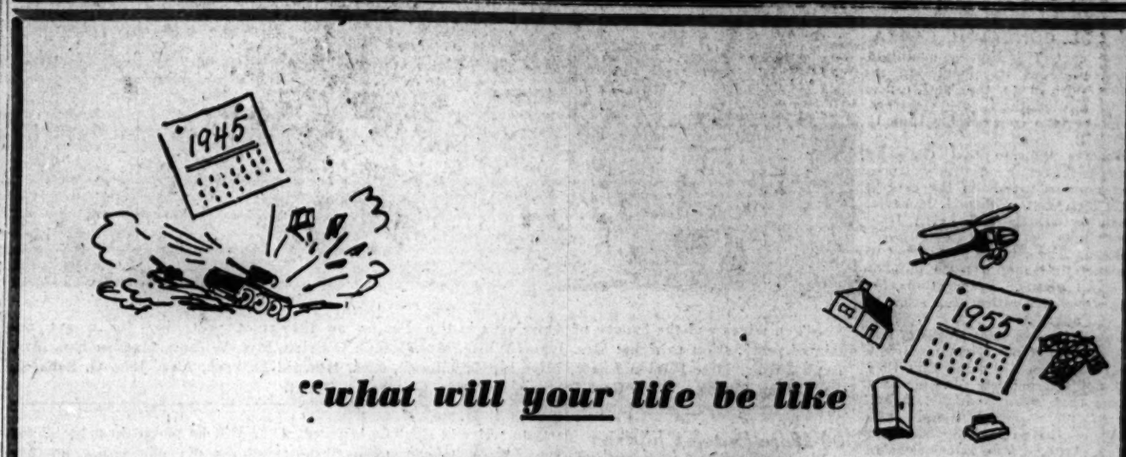
They may apply at the coast guard recruiting office at 53 W. Jackson blvd., and must have their applications in the office of the coast guard commandant in Washington, D. C., by April 1.



"what will your life be like ten years from now?"

Well, chances are, if you're a Joe Doakes or a Jane Doe—and most people are—you'll want a new car or a fur coat . . . perhaps a piano for sister or college for little Joe . . . maybe a new house or a new roof or a long trip . . . maybe something more or less important than any of these . . . and budget or no budget you'll be able to have them. How? It's all done with bonds! Remember those beautiful bonds you bought way back in 1945 when you wanted to help your Uncle Sam? Well, he's going to help you now—in 1955. That was the best investment you ever made!

Buick M-18 Hellcats Score In 21 Days of Steady Action

Mounting evidence that the Buick Hellcat M-18 Tank Destroyer is the "hottest thing in armored warfare" as recently described in news dispatches from the battlefronts of Europe, was supplemented ... Valley, Okla., commands Company B of the 604th Tank Destroyer Battalion. In his outfit there are 12 M-18 'Hellcats.' His company was recently ... days during continuous ...

LONG AGO we decided something about the American fighting man. Give him good weapons to fight with and he'll do the rest!

That thought guided us in building the big Pratt & Whitney aircraft engines that keep the B-24 boring relentlessly through the skies.

It stood at our elbows as we sat down to design the M-18 76-mm. gun motor carriage.

So it wasn't much of a surprise when stories began coming back about the Hellcat. Stories like the one about the single battalion of 12 M-18's that spent 21 days in continuous action.

Score? Four Tigers, two Mark IV's, four armored vehicles knocked out and hundreds of enemy troops killed, wounded or captured. Two M-18's damaged, neither beyond repair, and only minor injuries to their crews!

Stories like that are legion. They account for words like this, coming straight from the front:

"The vehicle itself is the finest track-laying vehicle in the army. It will outmaneuver any vehicle, go where others won't and has the speed of a wheeled vehicle. "X" company alone has accounted for 25 German tanks, two self-propelled guns and numerous wagons and trucks."

That's what Buick men and Ordnance officers were after when they joined hands to develop the M-18. They gave it hitting power in a high-velocity 76-mm. cannon — traction to go anywhere — speed to outrace any other land vehicle.

And given that much, the boys are doing the job!

TITO'S RED IDEAS TAUGHT IN ARMY, SERB CHARGES

Offers to Tell Congress About Lectures.

Louis C. Christopher of Gary, president of the Serbian National federation, said yesterday that he will offer to give testimony before a house military affairs subcommittee in Washington that "Tito-ism, which is communism," has been preached openly in lectures in United States military camps.

The committee is investigating communism in the army, particularly as shown in the change in United States policy in the Balkans which resulted in the desertion by England and America of Gen. Draja Mihailovich and his Chetniks in favor of Marshal Tito and his soviet dominated Partisans.

Call Two Generals.

The committee has summoned Maj. Gen. Clayton Bissell, head of the army intelligence corps, and Maj. Gen. William J. [Wild Bill] Donovan, director of the office of strategic services, for intensive questioning on communism.

It started the inquiry after the war department issued a directive last December removing previous distinctions between Communists and Americans of undivided loyalty in commissioning men for the army.

"I intend to offer evidence that Louis Adamic is the real power behind communism in America," Christopher said, "having placed his own key men in the principal government departments."

Adamic, a Serbian born writer and member of more than 30 Communist front organizations, was disclosed in new evidence as undercover leader of the movement which resulted in a change of policy toward the Chetniks and Gen. Mihailovich, who were the first to resist the Nazi armies which invaded their country.

Saved 3,200 Americans.

"Gen. Mihailovich and the Chetniks have fought the Germans bitterly and successfully for four years," Christopher said, "and until the allied invasions and the Russian successes, were the only really organized resistance against the Nazis on the continent of Europe.

"Now Gen. Mihailovich is at the mercy of the Communists in Yugoslavia, his life in danger, after having saved the lives of 3,200 American aviators whose planes fell in Yugoslavia. The Chetniks rescued and cared for all of these American air men and helped to smuggle them safely out of Yugoslavia and to allied held territory."

Christopher said that his organization represents more than 200,000 Americans of Serbian descent, about 90 per cent of all American Serbs.

Amazed at Change

Milan Radakovich of Joliet, vice president of the Serbian National Defense council, said yesterday that Americans of Serbian descent are amazed and chagrinned at the change in policy that gave allied support to Tito and disavowed Gen. Mihailovich. The relatives of these Americans in Yugoslavia are the people who started resistance against the Nazis after the fall of the Cvetovich-Machek government on March 27, 1941, and kept it alive thru Gen. Mihailovich's organization, he said.

Now, he said, United States policy seems to be to let the Communists treat the Chetniks and Gen. Mihailovich as war criminals, instead of allies, while "Tito and his gang" accomplish the sovietization of Yugoslavia.

FIVE HURT IN BUS CRASH AS DRIVER PUNCHES TICKET

Five passengers in a Safeway South Suburban Lines bus were injured yesterday when it hit a tree on the edge of the Dixie highway in Homewood while the driver, Gerald Page, 11533 Princeton av., was punching a ticket.

The persons injured, all of whom went to their homes after receiving first aid in the Ingalls Memorial hospital, Harvey, were: Mary Brenza, Flossmoor, cut on the left leg; Benny Leonardo, 5, of 1502 Portland av., Chicago Heights, bruised; Delores Chududa, 13, of 254 E. 24th st., Chicago Heights, bruised on right elbow; Amelia Urban, 53, of 3431 Butler st., Steger, chest injuries, and John Ricard, 35, of 10536 S. Albany av., Chicago, shock.

Police Chief Walter Gleason of Homewood said Page told him he had stopped at Willow rd. for more passengers, and was punching their tickets after starting the bus again when the accident occurred.

GIRL, 18, FOUND DAZED.

Miss Geraldine La Foure, 18, who gave her address at 1916 East st., Brooklyn, N. Y., was taken to the women's quarters in the Central police station yesterday after she was found wandering, apparently dazed, near Polk and Halsted sts.

"This old battle-scarred heap looks pretty shabby, Tommy. Maybe we'd better not drive where your friends might see you in it!"

VET CHARGED WITH DEADLY WEAPON ATTACK

A complaint charging Albert A. Stritzel, 25, of 4800 Kenmore av., with assault with a deadly weapon, was signed in the Town Hall police station yesterday by Charles Sam, owner of the laundry at 3949 Broadway. Stritzel, a discharged soldier, was shot by Sam who told police he broke thru a window in the laundry. Sam claimed he shot in self defense after Stritzel attacked him with a club and kicked him when he resisted the entry. Stritzel, who is in the Bridewell hospital, told police he thought Sam and several companions in the laundry were Japanese.

COST OF TANKS LOST ESTIMATED AT 200 MILLIONS

In the first seven months since D-day in France losses of ordnance equipment alone have totaled more than 500 million dollars, Col. John Slezak, chief of the Chicago ordnance district, announced yesterday.

These losses include more than 6,200 tanks, a like number of other combat vehicles, 34,250 general purpose vehicles, 166,900 rifles and other small arms, and 23,000 mortars and machine guns, Col. Slezak said. Tank losses ranked first in dollar losses with more than 200 million dollars' worth destroyed in seven months.

Appeals for More Arms.

More supplies were landed in France in the seven month period than were shipped to England in the two years preceding the invasion, Col. Slezak said. The total amounted to more than two million long tons.

"Altho the quantity shipments to Europe were almost beyond comprehension," Col. Slezak said, "the losses were equally high. Recently Maj. Gen. Henry B. Sayler, chief ordnance officer for the European theater of operations, sent an urgent request for increased shipments of tanks, ammunition, artillery, tires, and tubes."

Because Chicago is one of the major production centers for ordnance equipment, Col. Slezak said, a large part of the increased requirements will have to be manufactured here.

Story of Diesel Tonight.

As an aid both to increased production of essential items and to transportation of supplies to the front lines THE TRIBUNE, radio station W-G-N, and the electro-motive division of General Motors corporation, in coöperation with the army, navy, and war agencies, tonight will present another in the radio series, America Unlimited. The program is designed to give war workers an insight into the vital part they play in war.

Tonight's program will tell the story of the production of diesel powered transportation on land and sea and its contribution to victory on every front.

Other companies collaborating with W-G-N and THE TRIBUNE in the series are the Republic Steel corporation, Pressed Steel Car company, Aluminum Company of America, Western Electric company, the Buda company, and Hallicrafters company.

Sherman Dryer wrote and will produce tonight's show. Original music was written by Robert Trendler.

GREEN IS HAILED FOR URGING G. I.s' ROLE IN PEACE

Leaders Back Plea for Delay on Pacts.

which was more than 60 per cent for Mr. Roosevelt, was an indorsement of his international program generally and the Dumbarton Oaks plan for a new league of nations specifically. The administration program is to get the Dumbarton Oaks project adopted at the San Francisco conference in May and submit it to the senate for ratification in June.

Republican nationalists will oppose this program, taking their stand on Gov. Green's letter, and demanding that no final action be taken pending the return of the service men. Typical of the views of the nationalists was the attitude of Rep. Woodruff [R., Mich.], who was a member of the Republican post-war advisory council which adopted the commitment at Mackinac Island.

Defends Fighters' Rights.

"Of all citizens of the United States," Woodruff said, "certainly there is no class or group who have a greater right, a more fundamental right to have a voice in the world peace plan which will be agreed upon.

"Certainly, in view of our former experience in injecting ourselves into wars between nations in distant parts of the world and remembering the absence of gratitude on the part of those whose national lives we saved, the time has come when every citizen should stop, look, and listen before those who represent us in the formulation of peace terms and of institutions to preserve peace, commit our country to a policy that can only result in repetition of our former adventure into world power politics."

Republican internationalists took the position that the Mackinac declaration and the Chicago platform are being complied with, that there is being achieved the "widest consultation" of service men that is possible under the circumstances of so large a proportion of them overseas.

Austin Tells Views.

"I indorse Gov. Green's letter," said Sen. Austin, a leading Republican internationalist who was a member of the committee that framed the Mackinac Island commitment. "The men in the service should have a voice in shaping the world peace organization and in fact they are exercising that privilege right now.

"The views of a great many members of the armed forces overseas have been received. Many suggestions from such sources already have been incorporated in the Dumbarton Oaks plan.

"Of course, we do not have the facilities for ascertaining the views of the armed forces as a whole but I take it that no one seriously proposes that the formation of the peace organization should be delayed till after the war and after the soldiers return in order to get a referendum on the project.

"Such delay would be folly of the highest type. That would mean sacrificing the advantages of completing the undertaking before the war ends. There is now everywhere a deep realization of the necessity of creating world peace machinery which after the end of hostilities might be dulled, if not dissipated."

Shot at Party

Mrs. Irene Fogelstad, 23, who was found shot to death at a housewarming party on Chicago's northwest side last night.

CRUCIFIED MAN TO BE GIVEN LIE DETECTOR TEST

Fred Walcher, ex-bricklayer and promoter of a world peace order called American Industrial Democracy, who was found nailed by his palms to a cross Friday morning, will be released from the Bridewell hospital today and subjected to further questioning to learn the identity of the men who participated in the crucifixion. Capt. Patrick B. O'Connell of the Hudson av. station said the lie detector would be used in an effort to determine the identity of the men who he believes conspired with Walcher in order to win attention for his planned order. Walcher, who lives in the basement of the tavern at 1638 N. Halsted st., was found on the cross at the rear of 1627 Clybourn av.

FOUR ARRESTED AFTER BEATING TWO IN HOLDUPS

Four young men who severely beat and kicked two holdup victims early yesterday were held last night by N. Damen police.

They are Frank Mrazek, 17, of 1636 N. Paulina st.; Arthur Kmiecik, 17, of 6012 Melrose st.; Henry Glanz, 17, of 1122 N. Wolcott av., and Leo Hoffman, 20, of 1265 N. Wolcott av.

One of their victims, Oscar Stark, 45, of 1824 Henderson st., is in Alexian Brothers hospital with a fractured skull. He also is expected to lose the sight of his right eye. He was beaten and kicked into insensibility at 2:30 a. m. at Melrose and Paulina sts. Police were unable to learn the amount of which he was robbed.

The second victim, James Netzel, 18, of 3511 Lowell av., was attacked a few minutes later at Damen and Belmont avs. and robbed of $4. After being given first aid at Ravenswood hospital, he identified his assailants, who were arrested at Hoyne and Belmont avs. by Policemen Fred Pegler and Raymond Opizzi of the N. Damen av. station.

Edward Durst, Film Actor, Dies in Hollywood at 28

Hollywood, Cal., March 11 (AP).—Edward Durst, 28, screen and stage actor, died last night of pneumonia and complications, hospital attendants said, after he had been found seriously ill in his apartment by Actor John Carradine.

You're rolling along through mountainous western country. Suddenly your train stops. Ahead—a signal light has turned red. The "talking fence" has flashed its warning to the engineer.

Technically known as the "slide detector fence", it is erected parallel to Union Pacific tracks as a protection against falling rocks, trees or other possible obstructions. Any such object striking the fence breaks an electrical contact, "setting up" signals miles down the track to warn trains approaching in either direction. A trainman must then make a thorough inspection before trains can proceed.

Union Pacific uses every possible precaution to safeguard its passengers and freight... troops and war materials... transported over its Strategic Middle Route uniting the East with the Pacific Coast.

The "talking fence" is but one of the many safety devices developed by our nation's railroads. Such improvements result from enterprise and initiative; characteristic American traits that built the Union Pacific... that built Your America, land of equal opportunity for all.

ARMY DISCIPLINE UNABLE TO TOUCH IDLE OBJECTORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 11.—A spokesman for the selective service system said today that measures have been taken to "crack down" on nonworking, nonfighting conscientious objectors in the civilian public service camp at Germfask, Mich., but admitted "there is little authorities can do" to discipline the men.

He did not indicate that selective service intends drastic revision of the policy that allows the majority of the 80 conscientious objectors at Germfask to sit out the war in virtual idleness, fed, clothed, housed, and provided with $5 a month spending money by the government.

All of the "crack down" measures already were in effect when a Tribune reporter visited the camp four days ago and found a large group of the men stalling, malingering, and doing, as one of them said, "only enough work to keep warm."

Ten Indicted by United States.

These measures include restriction of Sunday recreation trips, ordering objectors to stay within 20 miles of the camp, and placing Germfask and other Michigan peninsula towns out of bounds to them. In addition, selective service pointed to the fact that 10 Germfask objectors have been indicted by a federal grand jury, nine for desertion and one for refusing to work, in military clothing, some of which is issued to all the men.

"One of the greatest difficulties is making a man work if he doesn't want to," the selective service spokesman said. "If conscientious objectors absolutely refuse to do the work assigned them, they may be prosecuted in federal court.

"If, however, they malinger, stall, act dumb, loaf on the job, deliberately perform the job in slow motion, or do such tricks as driving staples into a fence post and breaking sticks into tiny pieces, there is little the authorities can do. The reason for this is difficulty of presenting evidence in court and also because no legal definition of what constitutes 'work' ever has been established."

Doing "Best They Can."

He said Germfask camp authorities "have been doing the best they can under existing laws and regulations but have encountered the difficulties mentioned previously."

"Selective service cannot by law put these conscientious objectors into the hands of a powerful organization because these men are civilians and therefore subject only to prosecution by federal and local courts," the spokesman said. "Because they are civilians, they are not subject to army control or court martial."

He said that since the outbreak of misconduct at Germfask, the practice of permitting camp members to go AWOL for nine days before beginning prosecution against them has been eliminated and that now if a Germfask camper is gone AWOL for any length of time the United States attorney is notified to arrest him and bring him to federal court.

Sunday Trips Stopped.

He said members of the Germfask camp did not have permission to leave camp every night, that their Sunday liberty trips have been stopped, and that they do not have the right to refuse to work nine consecutive days without penalty.

He emphasized that the Germfask men are incorrigibles, gathered from camps thruout the country and sent there because they were slowing or harming the work of the other camps.

"Germfask is the one camp for incorrigibles," he said.

"Many of the Germfask members actually were sabotaging the conscientious objector program, not only thru malingering and slowing-down on the job, but also thru such overt acts as putting sand in truck and tractor motors, destroying camp equipment, and generally misconducting themselves.

"Selective service agrees that the amount of work obtained from Germfask campers is immaterial and relatively small in quantity. The camp is primarily a place to put these incorrigibles where they can't harm the rest of the camps—any work that is obtained is 'so much velvet.'

"Of the 8,000 men who are conscientious objectors, fewer than 400 have become disciplinary problems — a very small percentage. The army and navy have such problems —witness the soldiers and sailors in the guard house and military prisons. It is simply a matter of there being bad actors in any large group of men."

Joe's had a soft snap since he got hold of that fox.

PACIFIC SAILOR'S 'VOICE' TURNS UP IN FRENCH FRONT

Chicago Girl Asks for Explanation.

Arthur Kapsa, 21, of 1902 55th ct., Cicero, a sailor who served on an aircraft carrier during the invasion of Saipan and Luzon, came home yesterday with a second hand casualty —, a lost voice.

Diane Hunter.

The voice that Art lost wasn't his own, but that of his sweetheart, Diane Hunter, 18, a Chicago night club singer. And Diane, with her toe tapping, was waiting to ask the sailor why he let her voice travel from the South Pacific to France where, unknown to him, it turned up last week in possession of an army sergeant, Richard Winegartner.

Becomes "Record Girl."

After explanations and counter-explanations, the story came out like this: Diane, who is engaged to Art, made a phonograph recording of several songs and sent them to him on his aircraft carrier.

Art received the record at an unnamed port in the Pacific, took it aboard ship, and played it over the public address system. Practically the whole ship's company made her their "record girl." Then one day the record was missing. They searched all the way down to the hold, but it couldn't be found.

Last week, Diane received a letter from Sgt. Winegartner. It said:

"Hi Honey. You don't know me, but I have your voice. Of course I've never seen you, but you sound charming. I suppose you wonder how I got the record away over here in France. Well, it seems you made a recording for a sweetheart, or boy friend, or fiance, a sailor named Art.

Swipes the Record.

"You really get around, baby. One of my friends on the ship with Art fell for your voice and swiped the record. When he left for home on furlough, he wrapped it up and mailed it to me. I just played—and, Diane, the army goes for you, too."

The sergeant requested a new recording dedicated to him, and an autographed picture of Diane. But yesterday Diane spent the afternoon making another record for Art.

Today Diane, who lives at 4145 Broadway, will make another record for Sgt. Winegartner, who rates second best, but gets a record anyway.

3 ILLINOIS MEN KILLED IN CRASH OF ARMY PLANE

Harvard, Neb., March 11 (AP).—Ten men died last night when a four engine bomber from the Harvard army air field crashed at the Alexandria, La., army air field, Col. William Lewis Jr., commander of the air field here, announced today.

The dead included:

2d Lt. Wayne R. Shambrook, Forrest, Ill.; 1st Lt. Vincent L. Levora, 1063 W. Macon st., Decatur, Ill., and Flight Officer Herbert Callahan, Grafton, Ill.

Chicagoan Missing.

Boston, Mass., March 11 [Special].—Two army flyers are known dead and 10 others missing in the crash of a heavy bomber off Montauk Point, N. Y., late Saturday, officials of the 1st service command disclosed tonight. The missing included 2d Lt. R. G. Bushee, 20, Chicago.

JOINED AIR FORCES IN '43.

Second Lt. Ramon G. Bushee, 20, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn H. Bushee, 12110 Eggleston av. His father is paymaster for the Pullman company. Lt. Bushee, a graduate of Wilson Junior college, joined the army air forces in 1943. He has a brother, Pvt. Roger, 19, who was wounded in France.

CITY URGED: SAY IT WITH PRAYERS ON DAY WE WIN

The day that victory is won in Europe should be one of prayer and thanksgiving instead of riotous hilarity and jollification such as followed the first World war on Armistice day, Nov. 11, 1918, church leaders, police officials, judges, city and county officials, and business men agreed yesterday.

Tentative plans have been formulated by the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago, the Chicago Church Federation, and the Chicago Rabbinical association to hold special services in Catholic and Protestant churches and in synagogs.

Church leaders agreed that "even without plans" pastors and rabbis would immediately open the churches and synagogs the moment that word of victory in Europe is received, as was done on D-day, when Chicagoans flocked to their places of worship to pray for their friends and loved ones.

Police Preparing Plans.

But to prevent any celebrations from getting out of control and causing damage to property, police officials are laying plans for the entire police force to be on duty on V-E day.

Capt. John Prendergast, chief of the uniformed force, issued a plea yesterday for Chicago to take the lead for the nation in making V-E day one of prayer and giving thanks to God "for his blessings" and prayers to Him for a "quick victory over the Japanese and for the safe return of our boys from all battle-fronts."

"If we make a great celebration over a 'half' victory," Prendergast asked, "what will our kids in the South Pacific think of us? They won't have anything to celebrate and won't understand our so-called fun here at home."

Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch has issued a directive to pastors of Catholic churches in the Chicago diocese to prepare to hold special masses on V-E day, the chancery office disclosed.

Letter Sent to Pastor.

In a letter to the pastors, the archbishop said, "It was natural that there would be great rejoicing on V-E day," but warned that a celebration "like the one on last Armistice day" was "unworthy of a great people" and asked the Catholic pastors to "take measures to prevent a reoccurrence of such demonstrations."

"Let the churches lead in the celebration of V-E day," he said. "We must not forget the men who have given their lives for the victory and the wounded soldiers and sailors in our armed forces."

He announced that the Holy Sacrament would be exposed at Holy Name cathedral the entire day.

Special Rites to Be Held.

Emerson O. Bradshaw, associate executive secretary of the Chicago Church federation, said the federation was promoting observances of V-E day. Chicago temple, he said, would be open all day and a special service would be held at noon after the announcement of victory. He said the Hyde Park Council of Churches has prepared a program to be given at the University chapel during that day.

Rabbi Benjamin H. Birnbaum, head of the rabbinical association, reported that altho no set plans had been made yet for special services in the city's synagogs, "You can be sure that every synagog will be open on V-E day."

Among those who agreed that V-E day should be celebrated in church and in prayer were Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, who urged that "all war workers remain at their jobs on V-E day," and Michael L. McKinley, chief justice of the Superior court, who said all courts would be closed that day—"not to give jurors, lawyers, and witnesses time for staging celebrations but to attend the church of their faith to give thanks for peace."

No plans have yet been made for the closing of the city's schools, but arrangements will be made for "some form of assemblies" on V-E day, a school board member said. At present, plans of city officials indicate that the city hall will be open for "business as usual" if V-E day falls on a week day.

William M. Devine, secretary of the Illinois liquor control commission, said agents would remain on the job to keep watch on tavern violations. He asserted that many owners have already decided to close their taverns "in fear of damage to them by unruly celebrants."

Elaborate arrangements have been made by the State st. council, it was announced, to make State st. the "most flag bedecked street in the world" soon after the announcement of victory.

The mile long amplification system will be tuned in on a national radio chain for constant victory announcements.

PROTECTING AMERICA.

The giant B-29 fire raid on Tokyo is said to have burned out 15 square miles in the heart of the city. War industries, business houses, and the homes of a million people went up in flames. From the European front we have similar testimony as to the utter ruin caused in modern war. Correspondents who followed our armies into Cologne were able for the first time to assess the full effect of air bombing on a major enemy city.

They found that the city had no skyline left. Only the cathedral stood up out of level devastation. Estimates that Cologne had been 60 to 80 per cent destroyed were found to be conservative. Seventy thousand people had been killed or wounded, according to those still remaining in the city. All but 75,000 of Cologne's pre-war population of 1 million people had been driven away.

"If a New Yorker should wake up some morning," said Wes Gallagher, Associated Press correspondent, "to find every building in Manhattan just a shell and the streets piled with rubble—with no water, no lights, no gas, and not a pane of glass in the whole island—the situation would be comparable to that in Cologne."

A Christian people cannot rejoice over such facts as come from Tokyo and Cologne, no matter how much the enemy has offended. But war cannot be humane. The objective is to destroy the enemy and the most destructive methods are likely to be the best in effecting that end.

In what has happened to Cologne and the other cities of Germany, and in what is happening to Tokyo, there is a lesson which Americans must never forget. Their reason will tell them that these things might happen to their own cities at some future day if, in forgetfulness, in carelessness, or because of misguided leaders, they should ever surrender the means of their own protection against such catastrophes. We are familiar with the pacifism and the misplaced idealism that spring up in the wake of wars. That happened after the defeat of the central powers in 1918.

Secretary of State Hughes at the Washington naval conference in 1922 conceded, "The proposal to limit armament by agreement of the powers is not a new one and we are admonished by the futility of earlier efforts," but he then proceeded to sign an agreement whereby the United States scuttled two battleships newly launched, seven others in the course of building, six battle cruisers building, and 15 older battleships—30 capital ships in all—and voluntarily limited our new building so that Japan should have a ratio to our fleet of 3 to 5.

Mr. Hughes may well have doubted that congress would agree to sufficient appropriations to maintain a naval establishment of the size we should have had if all of these ships had been retained. But if that were the fact, a misled public opinion, responsive to pacifists and short-sighted idealists, would have been at fault. The lesson for us now is not to let it happen again, altho the current propaganda drive to put over the Dumbarton Oaks security program indicates that great pressures will be exerted to get us to repeat the error.

We must retain all of the warships necessary to our safety from our present fleet, the unchallenged master of the seas. We must have the skilled personnel to man them. We shall need the nucleus of a trained army, all the R. O. T. C. training the schools can give, and a well planned national guard program. Rep. Ploeser of Missouri recently stated in congress, without citing his authority, that the planned standing army after the war is to comprise 2,380,000 officers and men. Certainly congress should review this question in the light of our total needs with the greatest care.

We are warned that the next war may be launched suddenly against us by robot bombs, and that our great industrial centers are to be the first targets. If our professional military leaders think this plausible, the government should take all possible steps to possess the bases off our shores from which such attacks might be launched, and to police the approaches to America vigilantly at any sign of danger. A more effective military and naval intelligence than we possessed at the time of Pearl Harbor is imperative.

Our air force must be held at a high standard and aviation research must be encouraged so that we shall always have the latest and best types of war planes. The scientific councils which have functioned as an adjunct of the army and navy thruout the war must be kept in session so that science may be our ally.

It may be candidly admitted that a defense program of this scope will be a considerable expense, but the cost can be contemplated philosophically in the light of the billions frittered away by the New Deal before the war to promote a "recovery" that was never achieved—billions that could have given us modern means of defense. It has cost us 250 billion dollars to catch up and to fight the war to date. Where was the saving?

The ruins of Cologne and the spectacle of burning Tokyo are the wholly conclusive argument for maintaining the military power that we require in the years to come. These horrors must never be permitted to come to our shores.

REAPPORTIONMENT.

The legislature should seize the opportunity to correct the present inequalities in congressional representation by passing a bill to redistrict the state on a fair basis of population. The state constitution, which provides that the state be reapportioned every 10 years to take into consideration population changes, has been ignored for many years. We are now represented in congress on the basis of the census of 1900.

Altho complaints from some sitting congressmen are inevitable, the plan submitted by Rep. Virkus is fair in principle. Downstate and Cook county would each be allotted 13 congressmen and there are no such spreads in the population of the proposed new districts as now exist. The smallest of the new districts comprehends a population of 278,000 and the largest 326,000. The present range is from 112,000 in Half-a-Congressman Sabath's 5th district to 914,000 in the 7th district.

Republicans are required under the plan to surrender two seats now safely held downstate, but the changes in the Chicago suburban districts permit the hope of compensatory gains. The state administration has obviously done its best to approach the problem of redistricting in a fair minded fashion, and a similar constructive attitude is to be hoped for from the legislature.

WHAT TAXES ARE DOING TO OUR ECONOMY.

The other day the Standard Statistics service sent to its clients a bulletin recommending a number of municipal bonds as attractive investments for persons in high surtax brackets. The yield on 14 tax-exempt bonds ran from 1.10 to 2.18 per cent. The average return on municipal bonds has fallen from 2.6 per cent three years ago to 1.65 per cent now.

The boom in tax-free bonds is a consequence of the great expansion in bank deposits resulting from the government's deficit financing and taxes. The higher income taxes go, the greater is the inducement to buy municipal bonds. At present, as the Standard Statistics Bulletin shows, the tax rate applicable to a man with a surtax net income of from $44,000 to $50,000 is 75 per cent. Any one failing in this group who receives an additional $4 of income gives $3 to the government and keeps only $1. A 4 per cent corporation security nets him only 1 per cent.

But the 75 per cent tax rate is by no means the limit. At $90,000 to $100,000 of net surtax income, the tax rate rises to 90 per cent. The individual in this classification keeps only 10 per cent for himself. To get a net return of as much as 2½ per cent, the investor has to find a security which pays 25 per cent. The individual with $200,000 per year and above has to get 16.67 per cent gross to net 1 per cent after taxes. A municipal bond paying 2½ per cent gives those in this group as much net income as can be had from a taxable investment paying 41.67 per cent.

Of course there aren't any investments which hold out the prospect of giving the investor 41 per cent, or 25 per cent, or even a major fraction of the lower figure. The best grade of corporation bonds sells on a 2½ per cent basis, and top ranking common stock yields 4 per cent or even less. On a 4 per cent stock, even the $44,000 man gets only 1 per cent of his money.

Taxes at prevailing rates cut off new enterprises from their supply of capital. People of small means do not and should not put their money into untried business ventures. Money for such purposes has to come from persons of large means, who are qualified by experience and financial resources to take risks. The tax schedules now in existence deny to a normal risk taker nearly all of the reward if a new enterprise is successful, but force him to take the entire loss in the event of failure. "If," said a committee of experts, including some prominent in the New Deal, "the deliberate aim were to hold down peace time employment, our present tax system would go far to accomplish it."

How can private industry sell its securities, subject to an income tax running up to 94 per cent, when states and cities offer securities exempt from any tax at all? Municipalities will take over more and more enterprises with their tax exemption prerogative. High taxes will accomplish what Socialist agitators never were able to do.

THE GERMFASK FOLLIES.

The conscientious objectors who are making a mockery of discipline at Germfask, Mich., are, as individuals, unimportant, except in their own estimation. Their behavior, however, is doing much to bring disrepute on the present lenient policy toward conscientious objectors, and that is important.

The national policy in this matter has been a monument to the tolerance of the American people. Congress need not exempt any one from defending his country, whatever may be the basis of his scruples against bearing arms or taking life. Exemptions have been granted by congress as a privilege, not a right. In return the least that the objectors can do is to perform without complaint whatever useful noncombatant services may be assigned to them.

Many people, particularly those with sons in battle, will be infuriated by the conduct of the Germfask group without exactly knowing why. If they will examine their emotions, they may discover that what exasperates them is the complete lack of humility on the part of these slackers. Religious education has moved most of us to respect the man who humbly refuses obedience to earthly authority because he believes that he has a higher mandate, but these men are not humble. They regard their status as a right, not a privilege, and are quick to quote the statutes in their support. They have been concentrated in that camp because they were troublemakers in other camps. Their petty defiances of authority smack more of egotism than of conscience.

Civilian authority, because of the restrictions placed upon it, is incapable of dealing with this group. They should be turned over to the army. They have forfeited their privilege of special consideration. A capable military administrator would reduce their swollen self-esteem without resorting to brutality.

The spectator De Gaulle stands out nicely in a crowd. But a shorter man wouldn't need as high a dudgeon.—Detroit News.

THE CROSSING PLACE.

The Britannica supplies 16 lines of information about Remagen, the town where the watch on the Rhine was rocked to sleep. We will skip them as sitting birds, too easy a mark for a geographical sportsman, and supplement them with gleanings from other sources.

* * *

Before 1939 Remagen was headquarters for excursions into the Ahr valley, whose scenery has been advertised as "romantic and wildly picturesque." It was also a distributing center for the patrons of various "bads," or health resorts, on both sides of the river. Within easy reach, on the left bank, is Bad Neuenahr; on the right, at some distance in hilly country, is Hohehonnef, an elaborate institution for pulmonary patients; it has mineral springs for other invalids. A late pre-war estimate gave Remagen 5,600 inhabitants.

* * *

The bridge at Remagen connected the Cologne-Coblenz-Mainz line with the east bank system. A picture map shows the structure running straight into a tunnel high above the shore level, where the tracks enter a steep and lofty escarpment called the Erpeler Ley, which must be quite a sight from the river. This is a basaltic cliff with columnar formations. It has been protected against quarrying, which has disfigured other stretches of Rhine scenery. An outlier of the Erpeler Ley carries the ruins of a medieval castle named Ockenfels.

* * *

Down the river a few miles from Remagen is Rolandseck [Roland's Corner], a point on a bend where there is a cluster of resort hotels. We gather that the boarders sit on the porches enjoying the view of the Seven Mountains across the stream. We note a large island named Nonnenwerth there, and read that the region is rich in legends about Roland, Charlemagne's greatest paladin. That island, we suspect, is where Roland and Oliver, jealous of each other's knightly deeds, dueled for five consecutive days to no decision. On a hill above Rolandseck stands an ancient, ragged brick arch, possibly of Roman origin; it is called Roland's Arch.

* * *

Close to Remagen's bridgehead on the right bank is a small town that may have been immediately occupied by American troops after the crossing. Its name is what the German armies should be saying soon—Unkel.

THE GOLDEN HOUR.

When evening strews with jeweled embers
The cloudy fireplace of the west,
Of all the times my heart remembers
One golden hour remains the best.

'Twas long ago; the land lay Spring;
So much of magic moved my will
I have forgotten everything
Except that time itself stood still:

Stood still to watch with you and me
The first star for our wishing shine.
(Such trystful, wistful spirits, we!
Such reveler's rapture, yours and mine!)

A word, a smile, a kiss, a tear,
And then time woke and went its way.
How many a luckless year on year
Beyond love's reach is that lost day!

Yet never an embered evening burns
Upon the hearthstone of a hill
But to my heart again returns
That golden hour when time stood still.

BORN TOO LATE?

Why was I born so many centuries
Too late? What can I glean for inspiration
From beauty lying broken in debris,
When pens refuse to sing and dreams are lost
Beneath the restless hooves of Chaos, how Can mankind rise above this holocaust
And lift a wreath of laurel to his brow?
If I had walked with Chaucer in the spring,
Or Homer on the plains of Thessaly;
If I had witnessed Galileo bring
The stars to man, or known what Bach could see,
I might now understand why Time forgot

The regulations provide that when accrued pay and allowances, mileage, or per diem due but unpaid plus any uncashed government checks payable to the deceased exceed $500, the general accounting office may make payment only to the executor or legally appointed administrator of the deceased's estate. Even tho the deceased left no other assets, application must be made for probate or administration. However, if the estate has not and will not be probated and the amount due does not exceed $500, it may be paid first to the widow, then the children, then father and mother, etc. Payment direct is made only when the deceased left no other assets subject to administration. In the case of parents, the amount due is divided equally unless the father is guilty of abandonment, in which instance payment is made only to the mother.

WHAT CAUSES A SKIN ERUPTION?

HOW many kinds of skin disorders are there? I don't suppose any one knows exactly. My guess would be tens of thousands. Many of our correspondents "put us on the spot" when they write asking for the cause of a "red, itching eruption." The trouble is that the great majority of lesions on the surface of the body exhibit just such characteristics.

Before making a diagnosis, the expert will study the blemishes—their size, shape, and color. He will observe whether they are glossy or dull, rough or smooth, raised or flat, single or multiple. Furthermore, he will investigate the history—previous illnesses, how long the victim has displayed his "adornments," what drugs have been taken recently, etc. All in all, a snap judgment cannot be made.

One of the most prevalent—and hence, easily recognized—is ringworm. There is a vast horde of plants which few of us see or know about, rivaling in number the growing things of the garden, the field, and the forest. These so-called simpler structures either are microscopic themselves, or are made up of elements so small that they can be viewed only with a powerful glass. They lack green coloring matter [chlorophyl] and embrace the great groups of bacteria, molds, and fungi.

These parasites favor the feet, the hands, the armpits, the scalp, and the nails. The area between the toes is attacked frequently because perspiration is likely to soften the tissues. In consequence, the resistance of the skin may be so lowered that the threadlike plant is offered a comfortable culture bed.

When the hands are affected, the nails and neighboring regions look poorly nourished. As a result, the horny coverings will show grooves, pits, or discolorations. After a time they will be thickened markedly because of the heaped up cells beneath them. If the victim is a persistent scratcher, seeds may be carried to other parts of the body, particularly the folds where the thighs join the abdomen. Lesions in this vicinity will be moist, sticky, and foul smelling.

Treatment calls, first, for cleanliness. This means that all the blisters should be opened and dead scales removed. No cutting is required. In fact, nothing but washing with warm soapsuds is advised. The best remedy is to apply a strong solution of sodium hyposulfite [two tablespoonsful to one pint of water], allowing it to dry on the involved spots. But do not temporize. If the invader does not yield promptly, seek skilled care.

Once healed, reinfection must be guarded against. We must recall that shoes, slippers, hose, and underwear may act as disseminators of the fungus. Laundry must be handled carefully and subjected to boiling temperatures.

MODERATE EXERCISE.

A. W. J. writes: What is your opinion of horseback riding and swimming for a person with moderately high blood pressure?

REPLY.

In most cases they are well tolerated, depending upon the degree of relaxation and ease with which these sports are performed. In swimming, real cold water should be avoided.

JAUNDICE.

M. M. C. writes: We received word that my brother, who is with the 7th army in Europe, is suffering from yellow jaundice. I thought this disease occurred only in tropical climates.

REPLY.

Not at all. Any disorder of the liver or obstruction to the flow of bile may cause this condition.

VINEGAR RINSES.

E. H. writes: My friend tells me that vinegar used as a rinse on my hair is harmful because it prevents normal growth. Is this true?

REPLY.

I understand that this is a common practice, but I'm not aware of seeing many bald women.

DON'T WORRY.

E. W. writes: I had the mumps as a child. I'm now 15 years old. If the disease comes around, can I catch it again?

REPLY.

Don't Call Me Brother, Pal.

The august, aloof society of the house of representatives in Washington became intimate, homey, and one-worldy for one fleeting, precious instant a few days ago. Whether it was a manifestation of the growth of religious bodies which address their congregations as members of the family, a tiny omen of how successfully we are embracing the good neighbor policy, or an inkling that we have hurdled the last great barrier in our struggle for a classless society, this department does not know, but a member of congress, in the midst of what is politely known as a colloquy with another member of congress, addressed him as "brother."

The ordinary person might think nothing of this. There is great camaraderie racing around these days. We all give the loose embrace to one another. But, brothers, think not for one moment that congress thought nothing of it. The shock and repercussions still sting.

What happened was this: Mr. Rich of Pennsylvania and Mr. Cooley of North Carolina were discussing millions of dollars. Naturally, no one thought anything of this. Probably no one listened at all until Mr. Rich suddenly varied his polished delivery to say to Mr. Cooley:

"And I want to say this to you, brother, that if this is not stricken from the bill, I am going to find out more about this man and this corporation and its personnel."

Mr. Cooley's reply was couched in the polite ambiguity traditional to congress. "The gentleman realizes, I am sure . . ." By gentleman he referred to Mr. Rich.

Mr. Rich ignored this, despite the fact that Mr. Cooley had given an explosive quality to the word gentleman, possibly as a gentle warning.

"That is all right, brother," he came back, "but if you did something wrong . . ."

It took about five minutes, during which more men discussed more millions, for the true meaning of Mr. Rich's outrage to sink in. Then Mr. Dondero of Michigan leaped to his feet.

"Mr. Chairman, I have taken the floor, but not to talk about the bill," he explained. "During the recent colloquy which took place between the gentleman from North Carolina and the gentleman from Pennsylvania, there occurred what undoubtedly is a clear breach of the rules of the house. During the colloquy the gentleman from Pennsylvania referred to the gentleman from North Carolina as 'brother' on two or three different occasions."

He used a great many more words to say this was a violation of parliamentary etiquet. Apparently every one else sat back and nodded his head except Mr. Zimmerman of Missouri. "Will the gentleman yield?" Mr. Zimmerman asked politely. The gentleman said he yielded to the gentleman.

"I would like to say to my distinguished friend from Michigan," Mr. Zimmerman began, "that there are exceptions to all rules. Today in this house of representatives we have two distinguished gentlemen [Note: Is it clear by now? All congressmen are gentlemen; all are distinguished.] who happen to be brothers. The gentleman from Missouri [Mr. Schwabe] and the gentleman from Oklahoma [Mr. Schwabe]. I want to propound this question to the gentleman: Does he think the gentleman from Missouri would be out of order in addressing his distinguished brother from Oklahoma as 'brother' and that that would be a violation of the rules of the house? I would like to propound that inquiry to the gentleman."

The gentleman from Michigan said he would ask the chairman of the committee of the whole. Mr. Hoffman, another gentleman from Michigan, said he had no right to do so. He should ask the chair. The gentleman from Michigan said he had never undertaken to be guardian of the house. The other gentleman from Michigan rasped back: "You are now giving us a lecture." The gentleman from Michigan said: "I am not lecturing to anybody. I am propounding a parliamentary inquiry." The other g. from M. said wearily: "Well, it is a long one, and you are facing the house."

Gentlemen, gentlemen!

THE RED CROSS ABROAD.

Chicago, March 3.—The following is an excerpt of a letter received by me from my son, Pvt. Irving Rosenblatt, who is with the military police in Belgium. This letter was written while he was still stationed in France:

"There isn't any Red Cross club near me. There are two clubs in town where I used to be stationed. Over here, they haven't the facilities to serve hot meals [except in Paris], but just coffee and doughnuts, which cost us a few francs. They don't sell cigarets at all, they either give away loose cigarets or sometimes if a fellow is short, they will give him a package, but they never sell cigarets. In England, the meals would cost us about 25 cents, which was worth it. After all, there are some things they can't give away. I know a lot of fellows feel the Red Cross should give everything away free, but I don't. The Red Cross has always been good to me. In London or anywhere in England, they do as much as possible to make a soldier feel at home. Over here, things are a little different, but it isn't their fault. There's a war on. I believe the Red Cross does its utmost to serve the boys and I think it is one of the greatest organizations in the world.

This letter may give people a better understanding of the wonderful work that is being done by the Red Cross to help the soldiers away from their homes. MRS. JACOB ROSENBLATT.

IN GAY NEW ORLEANS.

Peoria, Ill., March 7.—I just returned from New Orleans, and if there was any brown-out in that city, I failed to see any evidence of it.

All of the neon and electric display signs are turned on, the store windows lighted, and even an electric sign measuring about 20 by 30 feet, on a prominent corner, advertising the Bellengrath gardens, is turned on nightly. These gardens are located 100 or more miles from New Orleans, near Mobile.

Does the south enjoy special privileges, or are certain cities exempt?

DAMYANKEE.

NOT THAT, MATE!

Kissimmee, Fla., March 6.—The very first sentence of rule No. 1, world security council, sterilizes it so effectively that this 1945 New Deal league of nations is already dead. Why? Because any one of the Big Five nations can veto the use of force or economic sanctions against itself or any of its friends. In Henglish, the new slogan will be, "It 'im, don't 'it me."

YOUR KISSIMMEE DIAGNOSTICIAN.

HUMANITARIAN TOUR.

Chicago, March 6.—I am protesting vigorously against the vicious attack upon the soviet government which you made in your editorial of March 5, "Moscow's Tantrums."

The soviets have treated the Poles very good. If they have transferred some Poles to Siberia, they did it for feeding purposes, as Siberia became one of Russia's granaries when the Ukraine was occupied by the Nazis.

DR. BENJAMIN CHAPMAN.

AIR MAIL.

Chicago, March 7.—If the use of an air mail stamp will not guarantee that letters will go by air to troops overseas isn't it wrong to sell such stamps for that purpose? HERBERT SCHRECK.

THINKS THEY'RE CRAZY.

Wilmette, Ill., March 9.—I read with interest the account of the antics of the conscientious objectors in your paper.

A man who will neither fight nor work for his country in time of war, but who conducts himself in the manner described, must be crazy. There is only one place for a crazy man, and that is in an insane asylum. I'll wager that confinement of a few of the ring leaders in such an institution would quickly cure the situation.

KELLOGG LOGSDON.

"NUTS AND SENSELESS."

Chicago, March 1.—The 12 o'clock closing has brought a protest from hundreds of thousands of evening shift workers

Workers who live alone and need relaxation from work, who found a couple of hours or even one hour in the places of recreation after work, are being made dissatisfied and very reluctant workers by a program of eat, sleep, and work.

The suggestion that they go out before going to work is absurd. No one is efficient after even a couple of drinks before work, and you cannot legislate appetites out of human beings.

Now at midnight you see people taking home provisions to drink. You shut out the lights in one tavern and light them in 20 homes. It is all very nuts and senseless. DOROTHY HERLIHY.

FURLOUGH RATIONS.

Chicago, March 2.—My son, after returning for a 30 day leave from 19 months' action in the South Pacific, applied to ration board number 40-19 for his food ration coupons. He received 48 red points, 40 blue points, and coupons for two pounds of sugar and 30 gallons of gasoline for the 30 day period.

I now find from the OPA that he should have received 60 red points, 100 blue points, and coupons for three pounds of sugar and the 30 gallons of gasoline. My son has now returned to duty and the OPA informs me that he is the only one who can get the matter adjusted.

EXERCISING THE CLUB.

Chicago, March 7.—Could this be the answer? When the cop beat the culprit with the club, it wasn't because he hated the culprit that he beat him; it was to show his authority. Are the Byrnes bungles due to Mr. Byrnes' desire to show his authority?

C. J. KENNEDY.

WHEN ACORNS GROW FROM OAKS.

Batavia, Ill., March 7.—After a careful study of the proposed voting procedure in the united nations security council, it occurs to me the old adage may be reversed and Dumbarton Oaks will shrink to little acorns.

MRS. ZERELDA E. MORTON.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

WIFE'S SIGNATURE.

Green Bay, Wis., March 3.—In the state of Wisconsin is it necessary that a wife's signature be on the abstract or deed to a property? T. L.

Not unless the seller for his protection insists on having the signature of both, so that he can, if necessary, collect from both.

CAPITAL SOCIETY MAKES TRUMAN GAY BUTTERFLY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 11.—In the short space of seven weeks, Harry S. Truman has shed the customary cocoon of Vice Presidential anonymity and emerged as the capital's No. 1 social butterfly.

Where former Vice Presidents almost had to wear identification badges in order to be introduced by their proper names in public, Truman has become the best known man at dinners, banquets, teas, and cocktail parties.

The former farm boy who followed plow handles in his native Missouri, now follows society pages, where his name has appeared more often than that of any other Washingtonian since his inauguration as Vice President at noon last Jan. 20.

Avid for Social Whirl.

Capital society reporters have noted the avidity with which the one time Missouri haberdasher has taken to social blandishments by featuring stories of his activities under such headlines as "Dinner at Home Becomes a Novelty for Trumans," and "That Fellow Truman Threatens to Revive 8-Course Dinners."

During the 1944 campaign Republicans hammered away against the New Deal on the theme that Truman was never anything but the dutiful stooge of the malodorous Tom Pendergast, ex-convict Missouri boss, and the willing darling of the Flynn-Kelly-Hague-Hannegan machines.

Altho he did fly to Pendergast's funeral since he began presiding over the senate, Truman has apparently forgotten his old associates under the wooing of political minded capital hostesses. His apparent neglect of his old associates brought him the admonition, "Harry, never forget your old friends," from a former political leader at a recent dinner here.

Lionized with Motive.

Observers connect the furious race of capital hostesses to honor Truman with a recent item in a cabled London news letter, written by Kenneth De Courcy with the help of an advisory committee under the chairmanship of Godfrey Walter Phillimore, known in Britain as Lord Phillimore.

"Overhanging all politics in the United States is the fact, first recorded in these pages months ago, that Mr. Roosevelt is not at all well."

In his socializing Truman plays no favorites. At a dinner this week, given by Mrs. George Mesta, wealthy Oklahoman who winters in the capital, prominent guests came from various parts of the country to wine and dine and meet Truman and his wife. War time travel limitations were forgotten as Republicans, New Dealers and Democrats, diplomats, judges, officials, society folk, and relatives of royalty made their way to the fashionable Sulgrave club.

Ranks with Great Events.

This party was the most lavish tendered the Trumans except for one given by Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, capital society leader, who had several people at Friendship, her home, to meet and honor the Trumans.

The emergence of Truman as a social lion is expected to take its place in capital society history along with such celebrated events as the $50,000 debutante party given by the late Henry L. Doherty, utility czar; the lavish cocktail party that launched the ill-starred Presidential boom of Paul V. McNutt, the British embassy garden party for the king and queen, and Harry Hopkins' war time Belshazzar feast for his third wife.

Truman doesn't stop at society. His dining out includes appearance at all sorts of banquets, given by those who want to make friends and influence people. At a recent such function Truman thumped a piano in the National Press club, on which screen lovely Lauren Bacall draped herself attractively.

The Vice President's military aide, Col. H. H. Vaughan, tried frantically to stop publication of a photograph of the event.

Glorified Social Secretary.

Truman is the first Vice President to have a military aide. Col. Vaughan confessed that military duties take up less than 10 per cent of his time, but he is kept busy writing letters and accompanying Truman on various ceremonial chores, which, it would appear, makes the colonel a glorified social secretary.

All this wooing is not one-sided. Truman is doing wooing on his own part. He has a well stocked ice box in his office in the capitol and another in his office in the senate office building. He invites many people to share a convivial glass and a snack with him regularly in one place or the other.

Under the Constitution, the Vice President has almost nothing to do. That document provides that he shall be president of the senate and that he shall have no vote except in case of a tie. It does not say that he must preside over the senate or that he must vote in case of a tie.

While Truman has been quite faithful in his attendance at senate sessions, he, like predecessors, takes advantage of rules which allow him to put any one in the presiding chair. The senate elects a president pro tempore to preside in the absence of the Vice President, who succeeds to that role permanently in case of the death or elevation of the Vice President. At present Sen. McKellar [D., Tenn.] holds this office.

WAITRESS DIES AFTER FALL.

Mrs. Margo Cakos, 28, of 2138 N. Hoyne av., a waitress, died yesterday in County hospital of pneumonia, which developed after she was injured in a fall on the stairs of her home March 5.

FIND HUNDREDS OF GRENADES IN BOGOTA CHURCH

BOGOTA, Colombia, March 11 (AP).—Several hundred homemade hand grenades were found in sacks beside an organ in the cathedral here today, following rumors of a projected uprising against the government of President Alfonso Lopez.

Archbishop Ismael Perdomo promised canonical sanctions against those responsible for the act, which he called criminal and sacrilegious. The search of the cathedral was carried out in coöperation with the Catholic hierarchy.

The government newspaper El Liberal said 20 persons had been arrested, many of them conservatives who make up the opposition party, and that firearms and ammunition had been found in their homes.

VETS' LEADERS TO SEE HINES ON HOSPITALIZATION

Washington, D. C., March 11 (AP).—Veterans Administrator Frank T. Hines said today he will "go into the whole question of veterans' hospitalization" tomorrow with commanders of three veterans' organizations.

Asserting "our hospitals are on a par with any in this country," Gen. Hines answered recent criticism against his administration in a radio interview.

Rep. Philbin [D., Mass.] last Wednesday introduced a house resolution for a congressional investigation of what he called "alleged intolerable conditions and irregularities" in the treatment of hospitalized war veterans.

TEXTILE UNION VOTES TO SEEK STRIKE ACTION

Boston, Mass., March 11 (AP).—Representatives of New England's 50,000 CIO cotton and rayon textile workers today voted unanimously to petition federal agencies for a strike vote under the Smith-Connally act.

Officials of the CIO textile workers union of America, said they would petition the national labor relations board, Secretary of Labor Perkins and the war labor board. A strike then can be called after 30 days.

This action was taken in protest over the refusal of former Economic Stabilization Director Vinson to approve decisions of the war labor board granting them a 55 cents an hour minimum wage.

ARREST SOLVES THEATER SAFE ROBBERY JAN. 28

A safe robbery on Jan. 28 in the Alex theater, 3826 Madison st., was solved yesterday by the arrest of Frank Callo, 17, of 2851 Lexington st., who confessed and implicated Michael Gallichio, 28, of 2815 Lexington st., and Sam Cesonio, 26, of 3606 Polk st., as his accomplices. They denied Callo's accusation. Callo said the three reëntered the theater thru a door they left unlocked, carried the safe into an alley and took $100 from it. Martin Sullivan, theater manager, said the safe contained $1,000.

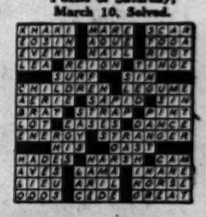
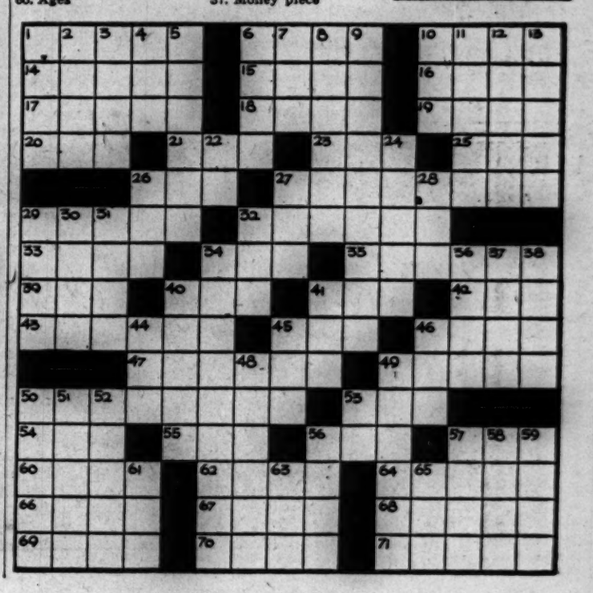
Puzzle of Saturday, March 10, Solved.





Col. Gardiner to Wed Miss Rita Singstad

BY JUDITH CASS.

News of the engagement of Miss Rita Singstad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Singstad of New York, to Lt. Col. Henry E. Gardiner of Chicago, son of Dr. and Mrs. Henry C. Gardiner of Anaconda, Mont., is of interest to Col. Gardiner's many friends who have followed his spectacular career with the army in Africa and Italy. He participated in the initial landings in Africa and commanded a tank battalion thruout the Tunisian campaign. During the Italian campaign his battalion fought in all of the major engagements of the 5th army, and he has been decorated with the distinguished service cross, the silver star with two oak leaf clusters, the croix de guerre with gold star, and has been wounded twice. He will return overseas at the end of his present leave.

Miss Rita Singstad.

Miss Singstad, whose father is a widely known engineer, was educated at the Schloss Traunsee in Omunden, Austria; Mlle. Boissier's in Paris, and the Finch school in New York. She was introduced to society a few seasons ago in New York, and is a member of the Amateur Ski club of New York and of the Ski club of Chile. She was chairman of the canteen of Officers at Home of the Citizens' Committee of the Army and Navy.

Col. Gardiner is a graduate of Montana State college and Cornell law school and was a lieutenant in the Chicago Black Horse Troop before going on active duty in 1940. A member of the Chicago Bar association, he was a familiar figure around the Onwentsia club. His sister, Mrs. Gail R. Soper, and her husband, Dr. Soper, live in Evanston.

Mr. Singstad was chief engineer of the Holland tunnel, Queens Midtown tunnel, and at present of the Battery tunnel, in New York.

Wedding News.

Mr. and Mrs. Lon C. Hill and their daughter, Mrs. Kenneth F. Burgess Jr., arrived Saturday from their home in Corpus Christi, Tex., to attend the wedding Saturday of Ensign Jean Fitch and the Hills' son, Lt. [j. g.] Lon Carrington Hill III. of the naval reserve. Lt. Hill will not arrive from Newport, R. I., until a few hours before the ceremony, which is set for 4:30 p. m. in Christ church, Winnetka. When he returns to his post he will be able to take his bride along, as she is resigning her commission in the WAVES.

Ensign Helen Wait gave a "back to civilian life" shower on Thursday night for the bride-to-be, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edmund Fitch of Winnetka. Miss Jean Horgan entertained at a buffet supper and lingerie shower yesterday and on Wednesday night Miss Ruth Donnelly will give a linen shower.

Miss Fitch's sister, Marcia, will be her maid of honor, and bridesmaids will be Mrs. Ray Smith, Miss Martha Toot of Canton, O.; Miss Horgan, and Mrs. Burgess. The latter's husband, who is with the naval reserve in the South Pacific, recently was promoted to lieutenant commander, and at 25 is one of the youngest officers to hold that rank.

Other Weddings.

Shortly after Sgt. Jerry D. Brandon Jr., of the army air forces, returned on furlough after 33 months in China with the Flying Tigers, he and Miss Jeanne La Vonne Allen, daughter of the Paul Allens of Beech Grove, Ind., were married. The ceremony took place in the Beech Grove home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Brandon, of the South Shore Country club, last Thursday, and Sgt. Brandon and his bride are in Chicago with his parents until next Sunday, when they will leave for Los Angeles where he will report to a redistribution center.

The former Miss Allen attended Butler university. Sgt. Brandon, a graduate of St. John's Military academy, attended Northwestern university. He has participated in the Pacific-Asiatic and Burma-China campaigns and wears the bronze star. He also has served in the European theater.

On Committee for Oak Park Mardi Gras Party

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Frederick O. Priest of Oak Park and her 3 year old daughter, Kathe. Mrs. Priest is on the committee for a Mardi Gras party the juniors of the Oak Park and River Forest center of the Infant Welfare society will give at 8:30 p. m. on Friday in Marshall Field & Co.'s Oak Park store. There will be dancing, a cabaret, and a late supper. Committee members will wear Mardi Gras costumes.

How Boys Train to Fight in Air Told in Movie

"WINGED VICTORY."

My Mae Tinée.

This is the story of the brief, tough period during which gangling, gabby kids are transformed into highly skilled men. The army air force was an enormous project which speedily gathered in youngsters from all sections of the country and all walks of life; sorted, trained, and disciplined them into fighting men, physically perfect and mentally alert, able to fly and fight in all parts of the globe, and "Winged Victory" is the history of some of the raw material. It should help us to understand what makes our flyers tick, the rigidity of the training program, and the deep disappointment of the hundreds who "wash out" for various reasons.

The film was adapted from the stage play written by Moss Hart, and the cast is made up of enlisted men, some of whom have had previous stage and film experience. There are a number of romances woven into the plot, but the main theme is the story of the air force schooling as demonstrated by three kids who meet as they start training. The waiting, worried wives are incidental, but little Jane Ball provides a memorable scene as she smilingly opens the door to her husband's best friend when he comes bearing tragic news. No word is spoken, but you can feel the cold horror of her comprehension—that sharp sickness many of us have felt on learning that some gallant youngster we knew had crashed to his death.

Since the cadets are typical boisterous American kids, there is plenty of the usual G. I. humor, plus bits of pathos, such as the boys celebrating Christmas in the hot sunlight of a Pacific isle.

The acting is not all of the best, some of the dialog is obvious and stilted, and the tolerant, chummy officers sometimes seem too good to be true, but I'm sure the film will hold your interest because of its basic subject matter.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, CAL., March 11.—Darryl Zanuck is pleased over grabbing "Leo Comes Marching Home" by Seymour L. Gomberg. It's for Fred MacMurray, and is about the first young fellow who enlists from a small town. Because he's an expert in a particular line, he travels only 12 miles to another town, where he works three years. He's dying to go overseas. So one night when the chief gunner of a bomber is taken ill, and the bomber has to take off for London this fellow replaces the regular one. They're caught in a fog and land in Germany by mistake. He's picked up but, thru the underground, makes his escape and gains valuable information for our government. In three days he has fought the war single-handed, spills his information in Washington, gets a leave, and comes home. Nobody will believe he has been over. Even his girl turns against him until he receives the congressional medal of honor. Then Leo really comes marching home.

Anything but Homeless.

Greta Garbo will make her winter home in the Turtle bay district of New York. Gaylord Hauser and Frey Brown bought a house there. They're redecorating, repairing, reroofing, etc., also building a special apartment for Gee-Gee—all very hush-hush and tweet-tweet. . . . They call this a deal. If Paramount will let Betty Hutton go to New York for the stage play "A Date with Judy," the producer of it will then sell it to Paramount. . . . Mark Hellinger's chaperoning Lauren Bacall and Humphrey Bogart now since Louis Bromfield is en route to Europe. From Bogart's interview, I didn't think he'd need a chaperon. . . . Paramount wants Maureen O'Sullivan for a picture, but John Farrow says no—she'll keep the home fires burning.

Such Perfect Casting.

Such soft pedal about "Forever Amber" at Twentieth. It is rumored that tests will be made in England, which leads one to believe that Vivien Leigh may do it. When I read the opus, I said it could have been written for the little lady. . . . A title contest is raging over the new Lum 'n' Abner epic. It will probably end up as "Forever Abner." . . . Mary Pickford gave a cocktail party to introduce Pedro Armendariz.

He Thought It Good.

When John Hersey returned from Europe, he wanted to see the play version of his book, "A Bell for Adano." A voice at the box office said, "Sorry, sold out." Later a friend fixed him up so he could see his play. . . . Madge Evans, Una Merkel's closest friend, has been with her since that accident. Una may return here with her husband, Ronald Burk. . . . Hurrah! Bob Hope will be master of ceremonies for our academy show. Some of our stars who received awards in the past are being very difficult about lending their time and talent to this award evening. They're not up for one this year. But I think all those little matters will be straightened out. . . . Angela Lansbury, as a Harvey girl, is the surprise hit at Metro.

Land, Not Water.

I saw Esther Williams in "Early to Wed." There she was, lying on her tummy on a huge patio chaise-longue wearing what you might call a two piece bathing suit, short shorts of white jersey, bare midriff, and a bra with one shoulder strap. A girl was standing by whose job it was to pull down her short shorts before each take. Esther asked if I'd heard from my South Pacific boys who named her the No. 1 pin-up girl in a contest of 250 beauties. I replied, "I had a letter from one the other day who swears that on his way home he'll stop here, take me out to dinner, but I'll have to pay for the telephone call to his wife in New Orleans." Esther said, "When he and any of the other fellows arrive, let me in on the parties, will you?" . . . As I was leaving Metro, I ran into that blonde beauty, Helen O'Hara, who tells me she and Dorothy Ford push off for Rio on March 25 to open at Copacabana down there. She was so excited she was tongue-tied. I'll lay you a wager they'll both return with rich husbands, unless the fellows down there can't see.

Here's Your Chance.

Metro's having a heck of a time finding stories for Butch Jenkins and Skippy Homeier, altho Butch is doing "Army Brat" and Skippy may do "The Green Years." But stories for young boys aren't nearly as numerous as for girls. Hey! Don't send your masterpieces to me—mail 'em to Metro. . . . Yes, Mike Todd has his peepers on the Ritz Brothers. I wish he'd take another peep at Lt. Cecil Fisher's play, "Hit the Bottle." It was produced by our prisoners in a German prison camp. Some of its music is charming. Maybe "Hit the Bottle" would be good for the Ritz boys.

Mrs. Ed W., Chicago—Here's still another use for our good old clear nail polish. To preserve small leaves, four leaf clovers, etc., place them between the pages of a book for a week, then mount them on cardboard, first brushing nail polish on the board. Let the polish dry, then apply another coat over the leaves.

Mrs. Elizabeth Durr, Chicago—After buying a broom I insert a ring top screw in the top. Then I can hang the broom on a nail, thus keeping it off the floor. I also soak a new broom for a few minutes in boiling water and repeat every month or so—to keep it clean and firm and lengthen its life.

Segovia Calls Great Music Back to Life

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

That strange and wonderful anachronism, Andres Segovia, returned to the Eighth Street theater last night with his magic guitar to play for an audience that made up in appreciation what it shamefully lacked in numbers.

In an age of juke boxes, public address systems, concert grand pianos, and over-sized symphony orchestras, the tinkle of Segovia's guitar is a voice in the wilderness. But it is a voice that often carries more of musical truth than all the complicated apparatus of the day put together. No greater artist than Segovia lays his hands on a musical instrument in our time.

The centuries roll back as the grave Spaniard exposes with infinite subtlety an "Air with Variations," by Frescobaldi, like an ancient tapestry of faded colors but immaculate design. The courtliness of 18th century France is conjured with an Allegretto by Rameau, and the forward looking humor of J. S. Bach's second son, Carl Phillip Emanuel, creeps into a Siciliana. Scarletti wrote his sonatas for the harpsichord, but few practitioners of that instrument ever discovered in them what Segovia reveals when he plays them on the guitar.

Of Segovia's Bach volumes might be written on the fascinating rhythms of the dance movements, the extraordinary clarity of the fugue, the haunting suggestion of profundity in the sarabande. But it must suffice to urge all who play or love Bach to hear Segovia first, then ponder deeply on the revelation.

An ambitious program that sometimes lived up to its pretensions and sometimes did not was presented by the Berenice Holmes ballet at the Eighth Street theater yesterday afternoon.

Quite the most successful of the offerings was Miss Holmes' new "Side Show," in which were exhibited such highly diverting fancies as a man with three heads which carried on arguments and conversations among themselves; a three legged juggler, one of whose limbs enjoyed an arbitrary life of its own; a one legged ballerina who got on very well despite her handicap, and a man with six arms who looked like a human centipede.

Joyously and brightly costumed by Julia Thecla, in a simple but happy circus set also by this artist, the new ballet for one scene promised another "Petrouchka." But when it went on to relate what goes on behind the scenes when the freaks are at liberty, the choreographer's imagination let her down badly. According to this version, the circus people indulge a desire for normalcy and conventional ballet steps, which in this case was comparable to a mountain bringing forth a mouse. There was some neat characterization, however, by Miss Holmes, John Lannen, and Kenneth Owen.

Also new, in classical style, was Miss Holmes' "Dance Poem—Summer Reverie" to a collection of romantic music by Franz Liszt, well played on the piano by Marina Dorn. Altho the piece discovered two delightful young dancers in Lilli-Ann Oka and Nanon Millis, there was little continuity of interest, and the wobbliness of some of the ensembles bordered dangerously on burlesque. The third novelty, "Reflection in the Water," to Debussy's music, had Miss Holmes as a sequin-garbed water sprite reflected in ballerina waves dressed by Miss Thecla in blue stripes and white plumed hats. Sorry, but it seemed pretty silly.

Mozart playing of the dream variety was offered by Alexander Schneider, violinist, and Ralph Kirkpatrick, harpsichordist, at the University of Chicago chamber series in Mandel hall on Friday night. Mr. Schneider's playing of the sonatas in D major and C major with the harpsichordist revelled in an exquisiteness and perfection rarely encountered in this fallible world. Or perhaps it was a matter of choice whether you preferred their Bach or Couperin. Certainly theirs is a unique combination, not to be missed.

ON THE AISLE

By Claudia Cassidy

Busch Chamber Orchestra at Polar Extreme in Music from Corny Operatic Ensemble.

Two ensembles at polar extremes of musical value appeared over the week-end, and such is the potency of subscription booking that while the distinguished Busch chamber orchestra played at Orchestra hall Saturday night to a relatively small but richly rewarded audience, the provincial production known as the Metropolitan Opera Artists Ensemble filled the opera house yesterday afternoon as next to the last booking on the History and Enjoyment of Music series. True, some of the latter audience ducked at intermission, as did I, having had all I could take in the line of duty, but the fact remains that the theater was filled with people who either got stuck with the concert on subscription, or who discovered too late just how unimportant "names" can be in the wrong setting.

It was a pity that Adolph Busch and his group of 27 players could not have turned the calendar back far enough to find the Goodman still available for concerts, because that intimate setting would have been their ideal home. Orchestra hall was too big, but few who heard that concert were in mood to quibble. It was, as one delighted listener said, "Mr. Music himself."

Here is a little orchestra with a dark and pungent tone, expert craftsmanship and inviolable integrity. Together and deftly divided it played superior Bach, Beethoven, and Mozart, with brief excursion into Dvorák's Nocturne in B, which cradles violins and violas on the swinging depth of the lower strings, and so led deftly into Mr. Busch's transcriptions of two spirituals, one a rhapsodic song of camp meeting fervor, the other gay as an extemporized dance.

But this, of course, was a detour from the real business of the evening, which had to do with the bread of life in music. There was a full throated performance of Bach's Third Brandenburg Concerto, and a brilliant one of the Concerto in D minor for Two Violins, with Frances Magnes giving a strong and vital performance with Mr. Busch himself. There was a thoughtful, revealing performance of Beethoven's Grand Fugue, that stupendous work which outgrew the B-flat quartet and had to stand on its own firm feet of introduction, three fugues and coda. And there was glowing Mozart in the lovely Concerto in E-flat [Köchel 449] with Eugene Istomin's piano making you regret Rudolf Serkin's absence in the opening movement, but recovering ensemble balance for good work in the andantino and finale.

Comparatively, the operatic ensemble was just one of those things. Some one said it belonged on a high school auditorium stage, but for the life of me I don't see why pick on the high schools. The show goes like this: Jarmila Novotna, Hertha Glaz, Raoul Jobin, and Martial Singher appear in excerpts from opera, in costume, with curtains, a few props and a single piano lost in the pit. The best thing in the first half was the way Novotna looked as Manon, ravishingly lovely in that crimson cloak, but with a voice just about as seductive as a keg of nails. Martial Singher, the subtle French baritone, had an unhappy encounter with the prologue from "Pagliacci" and shared with handsome Hertha Glaz and Raoul Jobin a dwarfed and misleading glimpse of the second act of "Samson and Delilah." If you really want to kill opera, this is a fine start.

Theater Guild Notes.

The Theater guild sends word that "Othello" opens at the Erlanger April 10, not April 9 as formerly announced, and says that Burl Ives heads "Sing Out, Sweet Land!" due at the Shubert Great Northern March 31 for four weeks. That means Alfred Drake isn't coming.

Thru the Looking Glass

We've heard cynics say that the people who most need to listen to advice on the necessity of using a deodorant are those who are first to shut their ears or turn their eyes away from mention of the subject. Maybe they're right, but we don't belong to that school. We think that the offenders in this respect have just never had brought home to them that virtually every adult needs to use some sort of protection against underarm perspiration—if not every day, then at least two or three times a week. We think a lot of people, particularly men, are under the impression that a daily bath is sufficient precaution against the effects of normal perspiration and don't realize that it can become offensive in a matter of hours.

It sometimes takes a little time to find a product which suits individual needs but once you arrive at the right preparation and use it faithfully, you can forget about the whole business.

On our list of pet preparations in this category is a pure white cream that is both an anti-perspirant and deodorizer. It's ideal for women [and men] who are not troubled with excessive perspiration and is gentle to sensitive skins. This is a beautifully blended cream, light in teture that can be rubbed on in just a few seconds. It vanishes in no time at all and there is no danger that it will stain clothing. Most persons find that a single application will offer protection for a full day and some will find that they need use it only two or three times a week. You can use it just before dressing without having to wait for it to dry so that you won't be inclined to skip it when you're in a hurry.

Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society Tells Racial Aims Abroad

The Chicago chapter of the Hebrew Immigrant Aid society, meeting yesterday in the Covenant club, 10 N. Dearborn st., expressed as its aims for 1945 the rescue of Jews still under Nazi domination and the relocation of Jews living in liberated countries.

A. J. Minkus, chapter president, told the meeting of approximately 400 delegates that the national organization will need $2,000,000 this year to carry on its work.

Mayor Kelly, the principal speaker, praised the coöperation of Chicago Jews in all campaigns aiding the prosecution of the war and the work of the society in caring for Jewish immigrants. "It is your society's job in Chicago not only to care for those whom you have aided, and still will aid, but to instill in them that Americanism is the most important point of view they can acquire in their new homeland."

'45's Costume Jewels Glitter to a New High

BY REA SEEGER.

Spring costume jewelry collections this year reach a new high in glitter, color, and fashion importance. There are all sorts of new designs, big and not so big, and all kinds of frankly fake stuff that would almost fool an expert, so exquisitely faceted and so skillfully are they made. Chest pins, lapel pins, pin clips, and ear rings lead in popularity, with the novel copies of fabulously precious orders the most asked for piece in any display.

Garnets, amethysts, beautiful enamel work, seed pearls, onyx and jet, and simulated emeralds, rubies, and sapphires are worked with rare genius into pins of distinction and color. The bigger they are, the better. Some are gigantic pin wheel effects worked with pink and deep mauve amethysts or with simulated emeralds and rhinestones. Others are in engraved gold metal set with tiny pearls and turquoise beads. Some look like stunning Russian court orders and others have the sunburst effects of the time of Louis XVI. of France, who handed out bejeweled items with uncontroled prodigality.

Other pieces resemble jewelry of the early '80s, with seed pearls and a place for a lock of hair. All are effectively decorative, copying faithfully the oval outlines, with the quaint, stiff looking bow-knots and tassels worked in carved metal or fashioned with hundreds of tiny seed pearls.

These are the sort of heirloom pieces you would be lucky to find in old jewel chests that belonged to your feminine ancestors. This spring you can buy the modernized versions, all obviously fake, but sensational gems for the prices on the tags.

500 Girl Scouts to Hold 33d Anniversary Parties

Marking the 33d anniversary of the Girl Scouts of America, 500 Chicago troops have planned to observe it this week with teas or other programs. The Scouts will make contributions to the organization's world friendship fund maintained in tribute to the founder of the Girl Scouts, Mrs. Juliette Low. Each girl gives a cent for each year of her age and the receipts are used for philanthropic purposes. The Chicago organization also is conducting a campaign for money to expand the opportunities of Girl Scouting.

JOURNEY UNDERGROUND

(Copyright; 1945; By The Chicago Tribune.)

By Flight Officer David G. Prosser

INSTALMENT XIV.

Just before 9 the following morning Monsieur tapped three times on the door. He had to repeat this signal several times, for I was in a heavy sleep. When I finally heard him and opened the door, he entered with an excellent breakfast of grapes, peaches, pears, buns, marmalade, and cafe au lait. He had also brought a book of detective stories and a French-English dictionary. "You can entertain yourself with these during the morning," he said. "I shall have to go upstairs to open the shop. Probably you will hear a lot of people upstairs, but do not worry, they are only customers. I have telephoned a friend of mine who is a doctor, and he will be here some time before noon. Now, is there anything else you think you want?"

There was nothing I wanted, but during the night I thought I had heard loud voices singing, and I asked him what it had been.

"Only the German soldiers in the Soldatenheim. On the other side of this wall they have a basement where beer is served, and entertainment is occasionally given to the troops."

"I don't suppose there is anything to fear from them?" I said, hoping to be reassured. He agreed. "O, no—Well, I must go now."

At 11 o'clock he reappeared with his wife and a young man who was carrying a great wad of cotton, bandages, and bottles. I immediately presumed that he was the doctor, but he was introduced to me as a druggist.

"The doctor cannot come until this evening," Monsieur said.

The newcomer's name was Paul. He was very charming and cheerful and started to treat my foot without delay. The great wad of cotton was soaked in liniment and then bound around my foot.

When he had finished he sat down with the others and we all had a short conversation.

Madame said, "When I was a small girl I went to England for a few months and learned to speak quite well, but after I was married I never returned or spoke much English. One doesn't have much opportunity in a town like Nevers."

"I learned most of my English in the last war," Paul said. "We had Americans billeted on us then. Some of the men who stayed with us returned in the late '20s, and then I had another chance to speak English, but even that was long ago. Just before the invasion I became very ill and was released from the army, but now I am in quite good health."

Then he produced a package of cigarettes. They were American, he explained. "When I heard you were here I went to my father's house and found these. The Americans left them here in 1918; they are old, but let's try them." I lit mine and thought, in spite of its 25 years, it was quite as pleasant as the French troop cigarets I had smoked once or twice.

Then Monsieur told us a little about the underground. "There have been many arrests recently, as the Gestapo in this section of France has been strengthened. We don't know how long they will continue to be active here, for their plans seem to vary. Sometimes they work hard in one part of the country for a few weeks and then go somewhere else, and other times they stay. We have lost several of our best men, which has greatly hampered our operations. Some of our leaders have been caught and SYNOPSIS: The author enlisted in the Canadian air force in 1941, at the age of 20, and won his wings as a navigator. In 1943 he transferred to the American air force. On his ninth combat mission, Prosser's Flying Fortress was shot down over France, and the crew bailed out. He landed alone in a field, seriously injuring his ankle. A kindly French family hid him in their attic for 13 days, until he was able to walk. Then they gave him civilian clothes to wear over his uniform, got him a false identity card, helped him go to Paris by train, and bought him a railroad ticket to Nevers, 135 miles south of the capital. There Prosser hoped to find a center of the resistance movement. He reached Nevers safely and met a young Czech worker who introduced him to the director of public works for the township. The director took him to the home of a business man, whom Prosser calls Monsieur.

tortured by the Germans and they became fatigued and talked. So far I have been lucky."

I asked him where he had been during the German invasion.

"I was in the Metz sector when the Germans broke thru, and I was made a prisoner. I spent 14 months in a prison camp in Austria, near the Yugoslav frontier. Twice I tried to escape, but had no success; some of my comrades, however, did get thru into Yugoslavia where they received all the help necessary from the people, and I understand that most of them stayed with the Partisans to fight the Germans. Luckily, I was sent back to France because of ill health."

Soon Paul said he had to go; he left me the addresses and the American cigarets. Madame and Monsieur went up with him. Before closing the door, Madame said, "I shall be right down with your luncheon." She quickly returned with a wonderful dish of creamed mushrooms, sauteed potatoes, fish, cheese, and more fruit.

After another two hours Monsieur returned. He seemed rather agitated and said apologetically, "I am afraid that you will have to leave this afternoon. With the Gestapo as active as it is, your being here, right in the center of the town, is too dangerous. A friend of mine is going to take you to his house; he ought to be here any minute now."

I told Monsieur that I did not in the least mind moving, if it were safer for him, but before I had finished Madame opened the door and led a very strange looking man into the room. At first I mistook him for the doctor. He had a small red goatee, beady blue eyes, and a large mop of red hair above his pasty and rather unpleasant face. He wore a spotted, unpressed suit, and a gold watch chain hung out of his torn vest pocket.

When Monsieur told me that this man was to be my next host I felt a little more reluctant to leave his pleasant room and all the delicious food Madame brought down.

This man, called Raymond, said nothing, except, "Hurry please, I must leave soon."

He looked rather annoyed while I took a few minutes gathering my belongings together. I thanked Madame and bid her good-by, and then the two men led me out the door to the little drive thru which I had first entered the house with the patron. Raymond had a car waiting there, but as it was not facing the gate, Monsieur took me back off the drive into a little tool shed while the car was being turned around. This operation took an inexplicably long time. Monsieur poked his head nervously out of the door several times to see just what Raymond was doing. When the car was put right, he rushed out to it, rushed back to me, then looked in all directions and stealthily guided me to the auto.

Raymond started the car with a terrific jerk. We went out the gate into the main street and on for a long way thru the town. My attempts at conversation with Raymond had little success. He seemed to be either the uncommunicative type, or just lacked confidence that a foreigner who spoke with an accent like mine could understand him. I closely studied the street scene of Nevers; there were many soldiers and airmen, and to me they were still an interesting and unusual sight. We went thru the old town and by the big hotel on which there hung a sign, "Field commander" and a tremendous Nazi banner, which extended from the third floor to the first. It was a strange sight to see in a French town.

After passing that we went thru a residential section that had little to offer the sightseer. I again attempted conversation with Raymond. "How do you get a car to use and the sign Leiferwagen [delivery wagon] in the window — I thought only the Germans could drive cars."

"I work with automobile batteries and this is the truck I use to transport them. Sometimes I have to service the German batteries," he explained.

Before he had finished speaking we had turned into a narrow alley at the end of which stood a great wooden gate. As we approached the gate magically opened, and when we had passed thru a worker pushed it shut. We had entered a large factory or garage—which, at first sight, impressed me as being an underground hide out. It certainly had that atmosphere.

Raymond stopped the car, opened my door quickly, and in a low voice ordered me, "Quickly, leave the car and go out that door—do not speak to any one."

I did as I was told. When I closed the door I found myself standing on a little bridge, which extended over a dam. The bridge was covered. On one side of it there was a wooden wall; thru it I could hear a water wheel turning. There was no wall on the other side, but a view of the river upstream. The factory ran along the bank for about 100 yards, but across the stream stood a rather large house with a terrace along the embankment. At the end of the bridge a small flight of stairs led up to the door of the house, and when Raymond came out of the factory we entered it together.

We went thru a passage way and turned into the first entrance on the right. It took us into the kitchen. There was a woman working over a sink at the far end. She was plain, gray haired, and appeared to be the cook. Raymond went over to her and gave some orders which I could not understand. Then he led me into his room.

It was a large, badly lit chamber. The two windows were partially shuttered and made the room even less cheery. Against two of the walls stood double beds. The larger Raymond evidently slept in, and the smaller was covered with hunting clothes thrown carelessly upon it. The dark maroon, orange, and green striped wallpaper was evidently intended to match the red tile floor, and the two small red and black rugs meant to give the room warmth.

A large, ugly armoire [clothespress], a mock mahogany dresser, and sidetable stood near the beds, and in the middle of the room, surrounded by three rickety chairs, was a large wicker table.

Monica, Cal., on Feb. 24, Sgt. James Woodruff Maloney of the army air forces, and his bride, the former Elizabeth Lucretia Hyland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew P. Hyland of Chicago, have reported back to their respective air bases. Sgt. Maloney is at Victorville, Cal., a hundred miles from Mrs. Maloney's post at the navy air base in San Pedro, Cal., where she is an aviation machinist's mate in the WAVES.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Green of Crandon av. announce the marriage on Feb. 8 in Paris, France, of their daughter, Lt. Mary Louise Green of the WAC to Lt. Eugene Clair Gordon of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice C. Gordon of Puyallup, Wash. The bride was graduated from Oberlin college, and she and Lt. Gordon both are serving with the army airways communications service. Lt. Gordon attended the University of Washington.

Here and There.

The Walter T. Fishers are enjoying the largest family reunion they have had in some time, as four of their children are at home in Winnetka now. Lt. John Fisher has arrived from his army air forces post in Walla Walla, Wash., on leave, and by coincidence, his sister, Ethel, received a vacation from her job in Arizona at the same time. She will return in two weeks to the ranch where she has been working for more than three years. Already here to help welcome them was their brother, Francis, who attends a navy quartermaster school at Great Lakes.

Two other Fisher brothers are serving with the army air forces at far distant posts. Lt. Walter Fisher Jr. is on duty in China, while Lt. Roger Fisher is at an undisclosed post overseas following two years of service in South America and Iceland. The youngest of the six children, Gerry, is a senior at the North Shore Country Day school.

Lt. and Mrs. William B. Walrath Jr. [Virginia Taylor] became the parents of their second son, Stephen Taylor, on March 2 in Logansport, Ind., where Lt. Walrath is stationed with the navy. The baby and his brother, William III., are grandchildren of Mrs. Walrath of Evanston and of the William G. Taylors of Winnetka.

There may be no butter for your bread, but there are plenty of spreads, including peanut butter and all kinds of jams, preserves, and marmalades. Perhaps "all kinds" is putting it too extravagantly, for berry jams aren't so plentiful. The varieties you are most likely to encounter at your grocer's are citrus marmalades, apple butter, apple jelly, grape, plum and fig jams. It's surprising how little you miss the butter, if jam's to be had.

Several readers have asked us about the new method of preserving eggs which made headlines recently. The technique was worked out at Cornell university, and consists of a five-second dip in boiling water. The quick heat treatment coagulates a thin layer of the egg white, which acts as a natural protection for the rest of the egg.

Eggs so treated have been found in good condition after a year in an ordinary refrigerator. If you want to try it, put the eggs in a wire basket and dip for five seconds into rapidly boiling water. Then allow to cool at room temperature. Don't pile the eggs in the basket. The hot water should completely cover each egg for the quick dip.

There's no egg shortage in sight, but it is practical to buy eggs when they are most plentiful and reasonable in price to keep until egg production falls off and prices go up.

The only trouble with this procedure for most homemakers is that refrigerators aren't large enough to allow storage room for more than a few eggs at a time!

Lamb fat is rather strong in flavor, and many homemakers do not use it in cooking. I have found that a little lamb fat in a jar of drippings which contains fat from bacon, ham, sausage, and perhaps other meats has no influence on the flavor of foods cooked or seasoned with it. If you have two neat little dripping jars on your range, one might be used for lamb, the other for sausage, bacon, and ham fat. Then you could use the lamb fat in small amounts with the other drippings, exactly as you wish.

Since fats of all kinds are scarce, it is more important now than ever to use or turn in every drop of edible oil or fat that comes into the kitchen. Full use of drippings saves red points and money.

Young Invalid Can Plan Own Amusing Days

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The subject of a recent article was how a young invalid might employ her time. A letter to us from such a young girl herself was the reason for the article. The fact is that, more than most of us realize, there are many children who are for months or years inactive or actually in bed from the after effects of rheumatic fever [too often not recognized at the time it strikes], and infantile paralysis, and who are in need of this sort of advice.

In that article I made a number of suggestions. These were not based solely upon the idea of diverting the young patient, of entertaining her, or of merely killing time. The underlying thought was that the occupations suggested should serve several purposes.

Of course a young person who is ill or convalescent should have fun, jollity, and entertainment. But her inactivity should not shut her out from doing the bigger things which will, in the long run, provide her with a deeper gratification.

So in listing activities that I hoped would be interesting, I had in mind not only [1] the diverting things but those that would educate her; [2] those that would help her to think of and do for others; [3] be cultural, not only in the sense of appreciating beauty in every form, but [4] also in the sense of discovering and developing her own talents, [5] keep alive her interest in the world at large, and encourage that important phase of every one's life; [6] general sociability and the creation of real friendships.

If you have a young invalid in your home, or if you are one and old enough to think things out, let these ideas be the framework upon which to plan your days.

ANSWERS TO SATURDAY'S QUIZ.

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠QJ3 ♥93 ♦A754 ♣KQ106

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 spade	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. This is somewhat unorthodox with only three trumps, but unfortunately there is no cred bid available. Had you not previously passed the proper response would be two of a minor suit intending to raise spades on the next round. But since you have previously passed your takeout might readily be passed by partner and you will have no further chance.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠A10642 ♥A7 ♦AQ94 ♣75

The biddings has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
3 spades	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. There is no justification for any stronger bid. You have already announced that you are interested in a slam, and to repeat the story not only takes it for granted that your partner was not listening, but actually risks the safety of the hand, because you are by no means certain to make five odd.

Q. 3—You open with one heart, partner responds 1 no trump. You hold:

♠A4 ♥KQ863 ♦K75 ♣A52

What do you bid?

A.—Pass. With only one trick in excess of your bid you cannot hope for game. Your hand is suited for no trump. A rebid of hearts would be a reflection on your partner's dummy technique.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠954 ♥Q72 ♦K1062 ♣KJ5

The bidding had proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 club	Double	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—One no trump. This is a good hand opposite a double and the no trump response is preferable to showing the minor suit. Had your suit been hearts or spades, preference should be given to the major.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠KQJ75 ♥AJ95 ♦K6 ♣AK

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	3 spades	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. This is a one round force. Even with partner's moderate response, there may be a chance for slam if partner happens to have a fairly good raise that fits well.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠AQ105 ♥AKJ1074 ♦KQJ ♣none

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
2 hearts	Pass	2 spades	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. It is very desirable first to fix the trump suit and postpone the bidding previouhnies for just a minute or two. Partner should be given an early opportunity to show the ace of diamonds which would make the grand slam a virtual cinch.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠A62 ♥AQJ743 ♦5 ♣632

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	1 spade	2 spades	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	4 diamonds	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	5 hearts	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Since partner has shown a void of spades your ace is a useless card, and there is too much likelihood that there will be two club losers. If you hold the ace of clubs instead of the ace of spades you'd have something to beam about. As it is for practical purposes you have opened with the six hearts and nothing else.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠A62 ♥AK95 ♦K3 ♣A1074

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
1 heart	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
4 spades	Pass	5 clubs	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Five diamonds. Hearts have been agreed upon and a small slam should be just a breeze. It is good strategy to show partner the king of diamonds which may enable him to go hunting for bigger game.

ARRID

THE LARGEST SELLING DEODORANT

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

New York Notations.

Of the 83 women taxi drivers in New York a year or so ago, only 15 are left. Many were widows of hackmen, imbued with an idea they'd like to try their luck behind the wheel. Bored now, or lured to more lucrative war jobs, most of them have abandoned the idea of taxi driving for a living.

The New York phone directory contains a listing: "New Deal Bristle company"—and can't you think of any number of persons who might fit into that category?

Salesgirls in specialty shops are drawing as high as $30 a week plus commissions. The snootier employment agencies won't touch an order for a secretary under $35.

A matronly, gray haired woman walked one day not long ago into an employment agency and asked, "Have you a job for me?" It developed she was the employment director of a large Manhattan firm and was making the rounds to sound out various agencies regarding their policies toward the middle aged worker.

The racket of girls approaching very young service men on the street, signing them on the dotted line for a nonexistent, fantastically high priced magazine [as reported in this column last Christmas] has been stopped—and by the police.

It Sticks in the Mind.

Shop windows on Fifth av., decorated for the Red Cross campaign, are beautiful and appealing. . . . Times Square on a springlike evening is so crowded that to press one's way thru requires Herculean strength. Soldiers, sailors, and marines shove their way past the throngs, many of them homesick and lonely, not having much fun in the big town.

Claude Rains dines at the hotel, yawning slightly, quite harmless—contrary to all the villain roles he has played. . . . A woman, Mme. Q., has opened a woman's specialty shop on Madison av. for men customers only, to save them the embarrassment of asking for a what-you-may-call-it-chiffon-something before curious feminine onlookers. . . . The sweet little altar with the flags of the allies [in Greenwich Village] still burns brightly with vigil lights, and the girls kneel in prayer.

They're Talking About.

Business girls in New York are talking about Betsy Barton, the courageous, beautiful daughter of Bruce Barton. Her book, "And Now to Live Again," has given hope to countless disabled men. . . . They are talking about Jean Rindlaub, now vice president of one of New York's swankiest advertising agencies . . . about the Eastern college for women which received a petition signed by 75 students to keep the chaplain at the college.

Small things linger after the suitcase is unpacked . . . the face of a fellow passenger hurrying east to see his son before embarkation . . . the mother racing to Great Lakes, where her boy is seriously ill . . . the small towns and the big cities as watched thru a train window . . . and the headlines—the daily changing, world shaping headlines.

Sally Requests Clothing for Three Families

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

We wish to call attention to the clothing needs of the X. family, parents and five children, boys 10, 8, and 6, and girls 8 and 4. The father has been unable to work steadily because of a back injury. His occasional employment provides only food and shelter. A serious cardiac disorder limits the mother's activities, and the children's impaired health has brought them to the attention of a clinic. The entire family needs clothing. The children's sizes correspond with the ages given. Women's apparel, size 18, and a man's suit, size 39 or 40, would be greatly appreciated. The address is on the near northwest side.

Mr. N. recently was released from a sanitarium where he has been a patient for years. He is permitted to do only the type of work that is not detrimental to his health. While many families are earning more than ever before thru war work, the N. family has had a difficult time making its small income meet all needs, which cannot include clothing. Mrs. N. wears size 14 and her little girl size 10. The child is wearing made-over, outgrown dresses and is sensitive of her need. She expects to take her first communion soon, and a white dress will be greatly appreciated.

Mrs. R. has made every effort to support her two children since her husband deserted the family three years ago. Hospital and medical care for herself and her son have left her in debt, and she cannot do more than provide rental and provisions from her small wages. A sweater and pants or a suit, size 36 or 38, is needed for her 15 year old son and dresses, size 14 chubby, for her daughter. Because Mrs. R. is tall and wears a large size, friends have been unable to assist her. If any reader can provide clothing, size 48, she would be glad to have it.

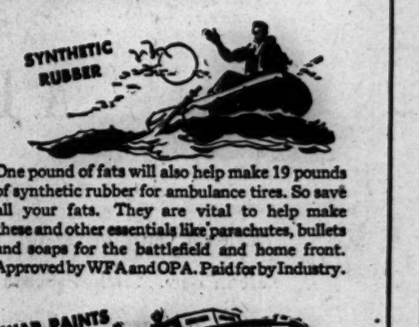
YOUR FATS are a miracle material of war. To make a hundred essentials for the battlefield, as well as the home front, they are vitally needed. For example, one pound of fat, saved in your kitchen, will help supply the medicines to maintain a military hospital bed for 12 days.



One pound of fats will also help make 19 pounds of synthetic rubber for ambulance tires. So save all your fats. They are vital to help make these and other essentials like parachutes, bullets and soaps for the battlefield and home front. Approved by WFA and OPA. Paid for by Industry.

To produce the paint used in coating one medium tank requires 50 pounds of fats...and thousands upon thousands of these tanks are needed to fight. By saving one tablespoonful of fat each day for a month, you'll have a pound . . . and get 2 red points when you turn it in.

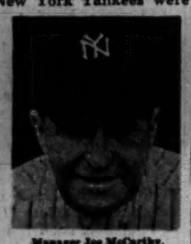
HAWKS LOSE TO BRUINS, 7-2; DROP TO 5TH

YANKS MUSTER SIX OF 32 FOR OPENING DRILL

Reveal 14 Players Unsigned.

Atlantic City, N. J., March 11 (AP).—The New York Yankees were batting under .200 in the man power league today with six of 32 players reporting on the eve of their first workout.



Manager Joe McCarthy.

Sole representative of the new owners of the Yankee holdings, purchased Jan. 26 for approximately $2,900,000 by Col. Larry MacPhail, Capt. Dan Topping, and Del Webb of Phoenix, Ariz., was George M. Weiss, vice president and secretary of the club and head of the farm system.

Even McCarthy's Late.

Even Manager Joe McCarthy was among the missing, Marse Joe having remained at his Buffalo home to finish some personal business. He will leave for camp tomorrow.

Catchers Herb Crompton and Bill Steinecke, Infielder Joe Buzas, Outfielder Tuck Stainback, and Pitchers Floyd Bevens and Al Gettel were the first Yankees on hand but others were expected on late trains as 18 had been signed.

Among the more prominent regulars absent were First Baseman Nick Etten, Shortstop Frank Crosetti, Second Baseman George Stirnweiss, Outfielder Johnny Lindell, and Pitchers Hank Borowy, Ernie Bonham, and Walt Dubiel.

A'S HAVE TWO NINES.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 11 (AP).—The Philadelphia Athletics will be at virtually full strength tomorrow when the 1945 spring training season opens at Frederick, Md.

Vice President Earle Mack said at least two full nines will be on hand.

Among those expected to arrive tomorrow are Pitchers Jittery Joe Berry and Don Black, Catcher Frankie Hayes, Infielders Bill [Fibber] McGhee, Irv. Hall, Edgar Busch and Frankie Hayes, and Outfielder Bobby Estelella as well as a bevy of promising rookies.

INDIANS START TODAY.

Cleveland, O., March 11 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians open spring training tomorrow in Lafayette, Ind., with 24 players signed, most of whom will be in camp this week, Vice President Roger Peckinpaugh reported today.

All except two of those signed will report tomorrow to Manager Lou Boudreau, travel conditions permitting, Peck said. Outfielder Paul O'Dea's committments with a local dentist prevent him from leaving with the Cleveland contingent tonight. Jim Bagby, pitcher, reported earlier he might be late because he "had things to do around home," Peck said.

Definite holdouts are Jeff Heath, Mickey Rocco, Roy Cullenbine, and Joe Heving. Observers predict the latter two will come to terms shortly on salaries. Catcher Buddy Rosar is staying on his Buffalo war job for the present.

Induction threatens only four of those signed, with the rest holding 4-F classifications, industrial deferments or armed service discharges.

Ken Keltner, accepted but not called by the navy last year; Russ Peters, Catcher Jim Steiner, who played with Sacramento last season, and Canadian Paul Calvert still interest selective service.

19 GIANTS IN CAMP.

Lakewood, N. J., March 11 (AP).—Nineteen members of the New York Giants' squad and eight rookies from the Jersey City International league club reported for spring training today.

Of the regulars, 10 were pitchers, including Bill Voiselle, who won 21 and lost 16 last season. For the time being, Manager Mel Ott plans only one workout daily at 11 a. m. beginning tomorrow.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, March 11.—Willie Kamm still tells this one around the banquet league: Willie, when a member of the Cleveland Indians, worked out a set of foolproof signals to be used with Catcher Frankie Pytlak in going after pop flies. . . . In the first game after the agreement was reached, Kamm raced for a high one shouting ungrammatically, "I got it." . . . He felt safe when he heard no answer but, as he touched the ball, he collided with Pytlak. . . . The annoyed Kamm asked Frank if he hadn't heard the shout. . . . "Sure," replied Frankie, "didn't you hear me wave you off?" . . . The old adage about honor among thieves apparently has some basis in fact. . . . At a recent boxing show between inmates of the Southern Michigan prison at Jackson and the state reformatory at Ionia, no fewer than 90 cleverly counterfeited tickets were accepted at the door before the hoax was discovered. . . . Cadet George Strohmeyer, who played a star game at center for the Iowa Seahawks' football team last fall, went thru a tough season without a scratch to show for it. . . . Then he progressed to primary flight training at Norman, Okla., and was about to complete it when the U. S. O. asked him to put on a diving exhibition. . . . He slipped on the diving board, threw his right arm under him to break the fall and fractured his hand. . . . Lt. Edward W. [Wes] Schulmerich, former outfielder for the Braves, Phillies, and Reds, and one of the early baseball coaches at Iowa Pre-Flight school, has been named coach of the North Carolina Pre-Flight nine for the 1945 season.

Liberal, a native horse, which finished sixth in a race for natives and thorobreds at Panama City's Juan Franco track, paid $74 to show. . . . Here's how it happened: There were eight horses in the race. . . . Two of them, Dancing Girl, mutuels favorite, with Nate Vega up, and Diablo Rojo, ridden by Luis Bryan, proved to be much the best. . . . In the home stretch, however, Bryan and Vega, riding side by side, forgot the horse race and went to work on each other. . . . Vega ripped Bryan's blouse; Bryan clubbed Vega with his whip. No holds were barred as each tried to impede the progress of the other. . . . Dancing Girl got her neck across the finish line first, but the stewards disqualified both horses for foul tactics and gave the race to Robot Bomb, which had finished third, three lengths behind. . . . That moved Black Mood, the fourth horse, up to second, but, as he had been running as an entry with Diablo Rojo, he also was disqualified. . . . The fifth horse, Linden Kid, took place money, and Liberal moved up to take show, rewarding his few backers with $74 for each such ticket. . . . De Paul university's 18 and 2 basketball record in the season just closed was its second best in 11 years of topnotch performances. . . . The best showing was the 16 victories and one defeat hung up by the Blue Demons in 1934.

Appointment of Tug Wilson as athletic commissioner of the Big Ten conference will be welcome news to sports fans everywhere. . . . The athletic directors and faculty men have chosen the strongest possible candidate from within their ranks. . . . He has balance, enterprise, tact, and personality attributes which will be increasingly important thru the years. . . . College football will continue to prosper or will decline, depending on the type of leadership it receives in the five year period after the war. . . . The game is at the crossroads. . . . The Western conference can help save the sport nationally by intelligent conduct. . . . Tug Wilson is the ideal man to do the job.

Prayer for the Expected.

Lord, grant our baby, yet unborn,
A heart to love life's little things,
Clear eyes to catch the flush of morn,
A voice to quote a soul that sings.

Its mother's faith, Thy guiding light—
Will make it strong and keep it right.

A hearty laugh and sturdy health;
And rather send, we beg Thee, please,
A will to work instead of wealth.

And now, Good Father of us all,
Who molds the strong and undefiled,
Bring from the mists which veil the small
The dream we ask—a blessed child! —Frank H. Keith.

When we are young and fairly ornamental,
We deck ourselves in catchy furbelows,
And how we strive to meet the competition!
For all men are, in youth, potential beaus.

And then, when we have passed a frequent milestone,
We drop our little armor of pretext.
Now, occupied with life in sterner facets,
We dream no more of whom we'll "capture" next.

We groom ourselves, but change our sense of values,
We look at life in all its subtle trends;
And feel that they are just potential friends.

WHITE SOX OPEN DRILLS TODAY IN TERRE HAUTE

Dykes Leads Seven Players to Camp.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

James Dykes, the little round man who has been trying since mid-1934 to lead the White Sox out of the baseball wilderness, will launch another attempt this morning when he opens his war time spring training school at Terre Haute, Ind. He arrived there late last night, accompanied by some of his players, after an early evening departure from Chicago.

Just what Dykes is going to have in the matter of pupils, speaking of quantity, for the inaugural muscle stretching won't be definite until he calls the class to order at 11 o'clock, but at least he'll have somebody to boss. He is assured of the seven players who went away from Chicago with him and it is probable that at least some of the others instructed to be on hand today will obey the boss' traveling orders.

Calisthenics Come First.

If he's lucky, Dykes may have as many as 20 fellows to tutor within the next four or five days. This makes allowance for the several who for various reasons asked to be excused from the first few workouts. It doesn't take into consideration the five who haven't signed, apparently because they want more dough, or the five who claimed their failure to accept terms was merely because they might forego diamond employment because of the war.

The first few days—one workout per diem—won't amount to much beyond jogging around the field and leisurely throwing. The little Napoleon of 35th st. is a firm believer in calisthenics, the calling of shots in this form of exercise being entrusted to Coach Mule Haas, but the latter might have to delay his pet job. If the field is soggy, as reported, the calisthenics will be delayed out of respect for the athletes' clean flannel pants.

Dykes Has Problems.

The way things shape up at the moment Dykes is in a more or less embarrassing predicament. Even if his holdouts should show up he'll have so few regulars except for pitchers that he probably will want to lock them in the hotel vault for safety rather than expose them to the rigors of a northern training camp. The patching confronting him will have to be done, if at all, with the various unknowns ranging in age from 17 to 40. The patching will have to be pretty good or James J. and his stalwarts might drop thru the frail seventh place floor into the American league basement.

The Sox will have until a week from next Saturday to get themselves into some kind of shape for their first effort on the exhibition field. That's the day they are scheduled to open a two game series with the Tigers at the latter's Evansville, Ind. camp. The Tigers will return the visit by appearing at Terre Haute for two games the following week-end. The Sox have only three other exhibitions — all with the Pirates in Terre Haute—before contacting the Cubs in the four game city series in Chicago.

BROWNS IN MISSOURI.

St. Louis, Mo., March 11 (AP).—Nose counting will be in order tomorrow when the American league champion St. Louis Browns open spring training at Cape Girardeau, Mo.

"I haven't the slightest idea how many players will turn up," said Vice President Bill Dewitt. "I believe, however, that we'll have a better first day showing than last year." [Opening day—four players; a week later—10 players.]

Dewitt announced the signing of eight men but has indicated several more have agreed to terms. He admitted having salary trouble with two he did not name.

"In all we should have about 20 players in camp by the middle of the week," Dewitt said.

Baltimore Orioles to Play in City Stadium

Baltimore, Md., March 11 (AP). — The International league champion Baltimore Orioles, without a ball park of their own since their burned down last season, have signed a contract with the city for use of the Municipal Stadium this year, city officials announced today. Under the contract terms, the club will pay the city 12½ per cent of its gross receipts or $250 for each day they use the stadium, whichever is greater.

Cubs' Dauntless Dozen Hold 3 Hour Drill in French Lick

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

French Lick, Ind., March 11.—If it's sunshine the Cub absentees are seeking to dodge, it was well they stayed away from the training camp here today. Grand spring weather prevailed for the third straight day and Manager Charley Grimm took advantage of this afternoon's warmth and brightness to put his dauntless dozen thru a three hour drill.

Tho there were a dozen signed Cubs on hand today there will be fewer than that after tomorrow, unless someone wanders in during the day. Johnny Ostrowski, one of the original nine to report here last Thursday dawn, has been ordered to report to his draft board to undergo reexamination. At present Johnny is classified 4-F. Ostrowski played 8 games for the Cubs last season and 124 with the Los Angeles Angels. He is listed on the Cub roster as an infielder but Grimm says he plans to use him in the outfield exclusively if he is available after the impending checkup by Uncle Sam.

Cub attaches here continued to claim they are in complete ignorance of the status of the absentee players. The entire matter seems to be the secret of Vice President James [Jim the censor] Gallagher. There is no desire here to heckle Gallagher for his mystery pose. It is said he, in Chicago, is having his troubles, too.

It can not be interpreted that the boys here are merely an early squad of rookies, on hand to get pre-training notice from Grimm and his corps of professors. For instance, Mickey Livingston, army dischargee, and Don Johnson are here right out in broad daylight. Mickey and Johnson are not unknown rookies but just about the best ball players on the Cub roster. It's a cinch that none of the absentees rates any better, or needs any less training than Livingston or Johnson.

Drowning Dangers Past.

If it is floods the absentees fear, some one should advise them that the danger of drowning is past. There is a little mud left here and there but Trainer Andy Lotshaw has engaged a boy to scrape the clay from the boots of one and all. Old Andy, who also doubles as groundkeeper, today worked between rubdowns on the infield and says that area will be ready for use tomorrow, tho it probably will be several days before the shaggers can get on the outfield.

The headquarters hotel here never has cherished the pictorial publicity given the rampaging of Lost river and with the flood waters vanished, we're looking forward to seeing some dandy pictures of the lads cavorting on the dry turf which, when the team arrived here, was the bottom of a sizeable lake. But alas, the hope was smothered for this after-

Canadiens Put Rangers Out of Race, 11 to 5

New York, March 11 (AP).—The Montreal Canadiens tnoght knocked New York completely out of the National Hockey league playoff picture by trouncing the last-place Rangers, 11 to 5, before 13,324 spectators. It was Montreal's second week-end victory over the Rangers.

The defeat made it impossible for the Rangers, who have only one more game before the season ends, to overtake the Boston Bruins, who took undisputed possession of fourth place tonight. Boston now has 33 points and the Rangers only 30.

Elmer Lach established a new league record for assists when he assisted on three goals and scored one by himself. Maurice Richard, already holder of a new goal-getting record, added two to his season total to bring it up to 48. Lach now has 25 goals and 51 assists for 76 points. Clint Smith of Chicago set the old assist record of 49 last season. Lineup:

Fort Wayne Loses, 65-53, to Redskins

Sheboygan, Wis., March 11 [Special].—The Sheboygan Redskins, paced by Schulz and Dancker with 16 and 17 points, respectively, took the initial game of the National Basketball league play-offs from the Fort Wayne Zollners here today, 65 to 53.

The Redskins were never behind, altho the visitors managed to tie the score twice in the early part of the game.

The Redskins led, 35 to 30, at half time, and at the end of the third quarter held a nine point lead.

Ed Sadowski, recently added to the Zollner club, was top scorer for his team with 17 points. McDermott, who went out on fouls in the last quarter, scored 13.

Boston, Mass., March 11 (AP).—Boston's Bruins tonight took over fourth place, last spot in the playoffs—in the National Hockey league by defeating Chicago's Blackhawks, 7 to 2, before a crowd of 12,000 in Boston Garden.

The game not olny served to break a six game losing streak for the Bruins but enabled them to break a fourth place tie with the Blackhawks and to drop the Chicagoans into fifth place. Boston now leads Chicago by two points. Each team has three games to play, including the final of their 10 game season series in Chicago Thursday night.

Thru a quirk of the National Hockey league schedule, Chicago and Boston will oppose the same teams in addition to playing each other. Boston will resume action Tuesday night, playing host to Detroit, and will conclude its regular season a week from tonight in Boston against the Montreal Canadiens.

End Season Away from Home.

The Blackhawks, after their game with Boston Thursday, will play their remaining two games of the season away from home, opposing the Canadiens in Montreal next Saturday night and winding up their schedule in Detroit the following night.

Paul Bibeault, the Bruins' regular goalie, who permitted the Toronto Maple Leafs nine tallies last night, surrendered his nets to Rookie Harvey Bennett tonight. The latter turned in a sparkling game while kicking out 25 of the 27 shots fired at him by the Blackhawks.

Only two penalties were called by Referee Frank [King] Clancy in tonight's lively contest and on each occasion a goal resulted. Boston scored its opening goal when Bill Cowley tallied in the first four minutes after Wilf Field was sent to the penalty box for slashing. The final Chicago goal, made by Clint Smith, came while Pat Egan was in the penalty box late in the second period.

Cooper Scores for Hawks.

Boston increased its lead to 4 to 1 in 7:29 of the second period when Paul Gladu scored. Smith then tallied his goal for Chicago on an assist from Don Grosso.

The Bruins took all suspense out of the contest in the final period, Egan scoring twice and Gain tallying once.

CASEY RETAINS MIDWEST TITLE IN BADMINTON

Women's Crown Won by Marie Bytnor.

Dick Casey of St. Louis yesterday afternoon won the men's singles title in the midwest badminton tournament for the third consecutive year, tho he was hard pressed to defeat a teammate, Russell Smith, 8-15, 15-10, 18-17, in the finals of the eighth annual meet in Evanston High school.

Another St. Louis star, Marie Bytnor, won the women's singles crown by defeating Eleanor Coambs, defending champion, of the Hamilton Badminton club of Chicago, 3-11, 11-16, 11-1.

The women's double crown was won by Marie Bytnor and Virginia Smith of St. Louis, who defeated Eleanor Coambs and Thelma Burdick of Chicago, 15-6, 15-11.

The team of Foote and Riday of West Allis, Wis., captured the men's doubles title for the fourth straight year, defeating Bolle and Russell of the Skokie club, 15-5, 15-12.

LEO PREP FIVE WINS IN SABINA BASKET MEET

Catholic league basketball teams yesterday got off to an impressive start as the eighth annual Central A. A. U. basketball tournament opened in the St. Sabina Community center.

Leo High school, whose seniors won the south section Catholic league title, and whose juniors will play-off against Weber for the junior title, defeated the Great Lakes Spring Co., 30 to 28, after De Paul academy had lost a close decision to St. Sabina's C. Y. O. entry, 31 to 28, in the opener.

Mount Carmel High school defeated the Olympic club, 40 to 36, while the De Paul frosh had an easy time defeating the coast guard entry, 37 to 20. St. Ignatius High school completed the day's card by defeating Foote Bros. Gear, 39 to 31.

The first round will be concluded tonight when Illinois Tech meets the Danly Machine team, and the Buda Co. plays the Wood Lawn Rubicons. The opening second round game, between St. Sabina and Leo, also will be played tonight.

Hansas Beat Schwabens; Slovaks Win

Eastern Soccer

NATIONAL CUP.
Brooklyn Wanderers, 4; Eindracht [New York], 3.
Americans, 4; Hota [New York], 2.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.
Kearny Celtics, 4; Brooklyn Hispans, 2.
Brookhattan, 4; Philadelphia Nationals, 2.
Kearny Scots, 3; Baltimore Americans, 1.

The Hansas, beaten last week by the Hakoahs, came back yesterday to win a first round National Amateur cup soccer game, upsetting the Schwabens in Winnemac park, 2 to 0. In the other cup game the Slovaks defeated the Chicago Sport club, 1 to 0.

The Hansas scored their first goal after 27 minutes of play when young Art Benisch broke away from Alouis Thiet to kick one into the net from five yards out. The winners scored again before the period ended when Henry Kroll connected on a 40 yard free kick.

Matevich Leads Slovaks.

The Schwabens, with the wind behind them, staged drive after drive on the Hansa goal in the last half, but Werner Fekker parried all shots in a return to his old time skill. The chief threat developed when Maxi Jordon and Henry Soufal placed nicely for Adolph Strang who fell before he could make the kick.

The Slovaks were led by Pete Matevich, home from army service on furlough. Pete beat Goalie Willie Riebe for the only score of the game. Neither team threatened in the first period. Matevich scored after 11 minutes of play in the last half.

Necaxa, Norwegians Win.

In other games Necaxa beat the Kickers, 3 to 2; the Norwegians shutout the Vikings, 4 to 0; Sparta nosed out the Italians, 2 to 0, and the Chicago Rangers romped to a 5 to 1 decision over the Workers. The lineups:

Phil Cavarretta, Pete Elko, Stan Hack, Roy Hughes, Len Merullo, Bill Schuster, Bill Nicholson, Andy Pafko, and Eddie Sauer.

La Guardia Puts the Finger on Expelled Star

New York, March 11 (AP).—Mayor La Guardia said today investigation had disclosed that one of the five Brooklyn college athletes involved in the recent basketball betting scandal was not a student of the school.

The mayor said his information came from Commissioner of Investigation Edgar Bromberger and that the situation indicates laxity, indifference, and negligence by the faculty that borders on the unpardonable.

La Guardia identified the player as Lawrence Pearlstein, 20 the team's No. 1 substitute and an honorably discharged soldier "whose only contact with the college, except for his basketball activities, was the fact that he carried books around the campus altho he did not know the names of the books."

Bromberger, in his report, said that Dr. Harry Gideonse, president of the college, voluntarily reported Pearlstein's status to him on last March 8.

Dr. Gideonse today said Pearlstein deliberately misled college officers, including his coach, by false stories about difficulties he was experiencing in his academic studies and by obtaining his coach's signature to routine documents which he never filed.

"The difficulty," said Dr. Gideonse, "arose in the administration of our present policies rather than in their character." He added that the faculty had approved a more systematically edited version of its eligibility rules Feb. 21, which are now in effect.

ROLLBERG WINS MEAD ICEBOAT RACE TROPHY

A gusty west wind provided fast racing and several spills around the five mile course resulted. Some of the E class iceboats hit nearly 65 miles per hour in the 15 to 20 mile wind, strongest encountered this winter. Mel Jones and Roy Heiers' boats both broke in two, and the mast on Silver Fox I., sailed by Louis Roen, radio announcer and member of the club, exploded from the sudden pressure of a strong gust of wind.

POLISH PRINTERS TAKE PIN HONORS ON A 2,999 TOTAL

The Polish Printers won the team event of the 29th annual Union Printers' bowling tournament, concluded last night in Bensinger's Randolph st. establishment, with a score of 2,999. The booster division title was won by Hiawatha lodge with a 2,550 series.

Eddie Zajac captured the all-events crown with 1,930 and, with John Pilch, finished second in the doubles with 1,239, two pins behind the winners, Bill Kotil and Herman Beth.

Zajac also won the singles championship with 638.

Bill Teter's 647 First in Roosevelt Bowl Sweeper

Two St. Andrew Fives Advance to C. Y. O. Finals

Two St. Andrew parish basketball teams advanced to the finals of the Catholic Youth organization play-offs in yesterday's games in St. Tarcissus gymnasium. The C. Y. O. finals will be played Sunday in St. Sabina community center, 78th st. and Racine av.

Led by Bill Heybrock, the St. Andrew juniors defeated the Mission of Our Lady of Mercy five, 46 to 30. Heybrock scored 17 points for the winners.

St. Brendan parish juniors beat St. Elizabeth parish 31 to 30, in the other junior division semi-final.

Elmer Gustafson scored 12 points to pace the St. Andrew preps in their 25 to 11 victory over St. William parish. In the other semi-final game in the prep division, St. Sabina parish beat St. Brendan parish, 16 to 9.

The high scoring Annunciation parish senior five will meet St. Mary parish of Joliet in St. Mary of Perpetual Help gymnasium tonight. The winner of tonight's game will face St. Sabina parish tomorrow night in St. Sabina community center in the finals.

The C. Y. O. senior All-Stars and the C. Y. O. junior division champions will meet the champions of the B'nai B'rith Youth organization in Lane Tech gymnasium on March 27.

CHICAGO WOMEN DROP TO SECOND IN TENPIN MEET

Bloomington, Ill., March 11 [Special].—Peoria Bowl today displaced the Clark-Wilson Cocktail lounge of Chicago as leader in the team event in the 16th renewal of the Illinois Women's Bowling association tournament in the Coliseum with a total of 2,978 pins.

This places the Peoria team 67 pins ahead of the Chicagoans on the basis of early standings. Peoria Bowl's totals today were 1005, 1002, 971—2,978 handicap; scratch, 900, 897, 866, total 2,663.

Dox five of Sycamore moved into third place in the team event with 2,874, 59 pins ahead of Dauphin Park Dairy of Chicago.

Downstate Is Apathetic, but Senn's on Way

Coach Cap Leighton and the Senn High school Bulldogs will entrain Wednesday for Champaign, where the business at hand, beginning Thursday, will be the state basketball tournament.

Senn's arrival in Champaign is expected to be unheralded, since in previous years the downstaters have come to regard the Chicago tournament entrants as purchasers of meals in restaurants, but scarcely contenders for the title.

Wednesday, or possibly Thursday morning, the Senn team, such Chicago boosters as come out of hiding with the 400 tickets allotted this area, and the press, will canvass Champaign to determine whether the attitude has been changed.

South Shore Came Close.

South Shore's Tars, City league champions last season, almost changed it by placing third in the 1944 meet, and there's a possibility a memory of this still may linger on, particularly in Champaign, where the Tars manhandled the home town boys, 52 to 34, in capturing third place honors. South Shore defeated Quincy, 62 to 38, and Rockford, West, 39 to 31, in advancing to the semi-finals, only to drop a 48 to 47 decision to Elgin.

Senn could create a first round upset Thursday by defeating Moline, a team which has fared favorably in tournament competition over the years and which this season has won 18 while losing 5. The Maroons finished second

CASEY OF WMC BATS OUT A NEW CURFEW RULING

Only 3 Places Don't Come Under Ban, He Says.

Only private homes, 24 hour restaurants, and package liquor stores are permitted to escape the Byrnes' curfew under the latest in a series of numerous "clarifications" on post-midnight drinks and entertainment. The ruling was issued by Charles P. Casey, Illinois war man power commissioner.

Casey promised that there would be no invasion of private homes by law enforcement officers, but a host who rents a room or hall to entertain his guests at a private gathering in which liquor or entertainment is provided after midnight will be in violation of the curfew.

Rules on Liquor Stores.

Package liquor stores where drinks previously have been consumed on the premises must close at midnight, Casey decreed, but these stores selling liquor only by the bottle may continue open until their usual closing time.

Casey's clarification puts the midnight lid on all private clubs, private wedding parties, and private dances which would have continued past midnight in a rented public hall. All organizational functions, such as parties where the serving of drinks and dancing ordinarily would continue after midnight, come under the curfew order, he said.

Room Service Halted.

Room service in residential and other hotels also must stop at the stroke of 12, as must all forms of entertainment such as dancing, juke boxes, or miniature movies. This, he added, includes juke boxes and phonographs in 24 hour restaurants.

The midnight closing has placed a severe strain on transportation facilities, authorities admitted yesterday, now that all establishments are spilling their customers into the streets at the same time.

BRAIN AILMENT KILLS 3 CHILDREN IN SAME HOUSE

Robinson, Ill., March 11 [Special].—A post-mortem examination of the brain of a 23 month old boy, whose death yesterday was the third in four days in the same household from apparently similar causes, today disclosed death was due to some form of encephalitis.

Coroner I. P. Sloan made this announcement tonight after receiving a report from Dr. Leon Blum, pathologist of Terre Haute, Ind.

Another examination is to be made in order to determine whether the encephalitis, or inflammation of the brain, was caused by a virus and might therefore be the dreaded encephalitis lethargica, or epidemic encephalitis.

The home in which the disease struck is that of John Mitchell, a truck driver. The household consisted of Mitchell, his wife, their three children, all under 5, and Mrs. Joseph Knoblett,, wife of a soldier, and their daughter, 19 months old.

Joseph William Mitchell, 3, was the first to be stricken. He complained of drowsiness Tuesday and died within 10 hours. The following day Nora Lou Knoblett died 11 hours after the disease manifested itself. The third victim, Robert Leroy Mitchell, 23 months old, became ill Thursday. He was taken to the Schmidt clinic here and given sulfa drugs and penicillin. This treatment, Dr. Sloan said, had no effect and the boy died yesterday without recovering consciousness.

ADMITS KILLING CHUM: HE TEASED ME ABOUT A GIRL

Columbus, O., March 11 (AP).—Deputy Sheriff Joseph Segrist said today Charles Joseph Hunter, 12, confessed to the fatal shooting of his neighbor and friend, William [Billy] Ward, 11, whose body was found in a hog shed on the Hunter property near Georgesville. No charges have yet been filed and the boy is being held in the Juvenile detention home.

Charles J. Hunter.

Segrist said the Hunter boy, son of Daniel F. Hunter, told him that he shot Ward yesterday because "Billy started teasing me about a girl."

"I was sick about it all day," the deputy quoted the boy as saying. "I hated to have to do it, but when a fella don't feel good you can't tell what he'll do." The boys had been shooting tin cans with a .22 caliber rifle.

TWO APARTMENTS RANSACKED.

Burglars who ransacked two apartments at 4136 S. Artesian av. obtained $50 and war bonds worth $1,150 owned by Vincent Lee, and $200 in $300 silver fox fur, and jewelry belonging to Joseph Pasco.

15 SURRENDER IN HARVESTER CIO UNION ROW

Fifteen men active in the movement by the United Automobile Workers' union to absorb the membership of the United Farm Equipment Workers, a rival CIO organization, at the International Harvester company, surrendered yesterday on warrants charging them with assault and battery.

Capt. George Barnes, head of the police labor detail, said the warrants had been procured early last week by farm equipment workers who claimed to have been assaulted either within or on their way to the plant. The men were permitted to surrender Sunday in order that their arrests would not keep them from their jobs. A similar arrangement was made when 22 farm equipment members were named in warrants.

Those arrested yesterday are: Henry Devereaux, 31, Westchester; Robert Walsh, 27, 8301 Princeton av.; William Sheridan, 31, 8400 Everston av.; Anthony Corsa, 30, 6049 S. Kenneth av.; Peter Shimchuk, 30, 2131 N. Oakley av.; Edward Sala, 31, 2037 W. 18th pl.; Edward Hill, 44, Negro, 5847 S. Michigan av.; Cozie Mountjoie, 37, Negro, 5026 Prairie avenue court; Ray Barnett, 30, 4201 W. Adams st.; Bruno Antkowski, 45, 4833 S. May st.; Jack DeCenic, 31, 2242 S. California av.; Steve Kassel, 34, 3625 Belden av.; Charles Peterson, 30, 3648 N. Racine av.; John Hanley, 33, 8719 N. Christiana av., and John Kortes, 45, 5110 S. Francisco av.

Capt. Barnes said he would request that trials for the latest arrests be set for March 22 when the earlier cases will also be heard.

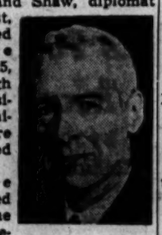
GARDINER SHAW IS WINNER OF LAETARE MEDAL

South Bend, Ind., March 11 (AP).—Gardiner Howland Shaw, diplomat and penologist, will be presented the Laetare medal for 1945, the Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, president of the University of Notre Dame, announced today.



Gardiner H. Shaw.

The Laetare award, originated by Notre Dame in 1883, is presented annually to an outstanding American Catholic as a recognition of merit and an incentive to greater achievement.

Shaw recently resigned as assistant secretary of state. He entered the diplomatic service in 1917 and spent nearly a decade in Turkey in addition to holding various posts in the state department in Washington.

Shaw has been active in the study of juvenile delinquency and now is president of the American Prison association, the Osborne association, and the bureau of rehabilitation. He also is a past president of the National Conference of Catholic Charities.

AFTER-CURFEW DRINKERS JAM COURTS IN N. Y.

New York, March 11 [Special].—Week-end courts in Manhattan and Brooklyn today took on the aspect of a traffic court as after-1 curfew drinking patrons paraded in a steady stream before the magistrates.

Forewarned by the two day jail sentences handed out Saturday as an alternative to the payment of the fines, speakeasy patrons today paid fines without exception. In all cases the fine was $5.

Continuing raids on apartments, basement flats, and hastily improvised "speaks" early Sunday morning netted scores of drinkers in both boroughs.

Chicago portrait photographers are faced by a severe shortage of photographic paper, R. A. Good, secretary of the Chicago Associated Photographers, said yesterday.

Despite an increase of from 100 to 200 per cent in the output of sensitized paper, Chicago commercial photographers have been cut to 20 per cent of their pre-war allotments.

The situation may result in service men overseas being deprived of a continued flow of pictures of their wives and children, Good said.

SPEED UP RADIO UNITS TO KEEP PACE WITH YANKS

Set Up New Stations Within Two Hours.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Because of the swift movements of American troops on the various fronts, the armed forces radio service is using more mobile stations to bring news and entertainment from home to overseas fighting men. These transmitters are sometimes called "suitcase stations" because they come packed in a few cases that can be set up or taken down in a couple of hours.

Two such stations already have been set up in the Philippines and one already is earmarked for Iwo Jima. Several hundred such outlets for American programs are now scattered around the globe. They get regular shipments of transcriptions of the big shows from home, plus numerous special broadcasts made for the troops.

One of the transcriptions is Command Performance, which honors requests of soldiers and sailors. Recently an all-star "Dick Tracy" Command Performance was made in Hollywood with Bing Crosby as Tracy, Bob Hope as Flattop, Frank Sinatra as Shakey, Cass Daly as Gravel Gertie, Judy Garland as Snowflake, and Frank Morgan as Vitamin Flintheart. This adaptation has not yet been made available for broadcasting overseas. It will not be aired for home audiences.

Several new programs are in the making. A new show featuring Songstress Marion Mann, familiar to Breakfast club listeners; a male trio headed by Phil Kalar, and Angel Casey as narrator will bow in over W-G-N Mutual at 12:30 p. m. next Sunday.

Arch Oboler, still remembered for his Lights Out thrillers, has been signed by Mutual for a series of dramas. Most of them will be new but there will be some revivals.

WBBM introduced a new detective series last night at 11:05 titled "The Thinking Machine." Jess Pugh plays the lead. He is supported by Herb Butterfield, Ralph Camargo, Arnold Robertson, Muriel Bremner, and Murray Forbes.

Jerry Wayne, who launched his new show last Monday will switch to 7:30 p. m. Sundays on the Blue, effective March 25. He goes into the period to be relinquished by Joe E. Brown.

SUGAR SUPPLY STEADY; LESS FOR CIVILIANS

Army Needs More, Says Refiner.

At least as much sugar will be available for all purposes in 1945 as last year, tho present indications are that about 700,000 tons less will be available for consumers and manufacturers, Joseph F. Abbott, president of American Sugar Refining company, told stockholders yesterday. More sugar will be needed to meet military demands and for foreign relief, he said.

Consolidated net income in 1944 was $5,902,531, or $6.11 a share, compared with $4,821,327, or $3.71 a share, in 1943, Abbott said.

Cuba may be able to supply more sugar this year than last, he said. The 1945 crop in Puerto Rico will be approximately 200,000 tons larger than in 1944 and Hawaii will probably produce as much as last year.

Apprehension Held Ungrounded.

"On the basis of such supplies there would seem to be no occasion for present apprehension of a sugar shortage, if ships are provided to bring the raw sugar here," Abbott said.

Increased earnings resulted principally from larger deliveries, he said. Deliveries were second highest in company history.

Crosley corporation net earnings last year rose to $3,299,541, or $6.04 a share, from $2,694,159, or $4.93 a share. Sales were $98,168,438 against $80,447,762.

Altho sales of the broadcasting division increased, the major gain was in manufacturing division war output, said the company. The backlog of military orders is more than 80 million dollars, it said.

Output 99 Per Cent Military.

Output of the manufacturing division last year was almost entirely for war. Less than one per cent was other than military. Some parts and services for pre-war civilian products were supplied and a limited number of refrigerators for government purposes were distributed from the frozen stockpile.

Small motor-driven vehicles of various types were developed, Crosley said.

Union Carbide and Carbon corporation reported net income last year of $37,725,506, or $4.06 a share, compared with $38,342,389, or $4.13 a share. Profit in both years was after provisions for war time adjustments of $6,315,714 and 2½ million dollars, respectively.

Sales exceeded those of any preceding year. The record volume was made possible only by the extensive plant construction undertaken in recent years. Expenditures for construction and modification of production facilities last year were $10,836,828, compared with $11,164,953.

AIR LINES GET 6 MORE BIG ARMY SURPLUS PLANES

Washington, D. C., March 11 (AP).—United States air lines have been allocated a total of 83 transports which had been declared surplus by the military services, the surplus property board reported today.

The latest allocation gave one Douglas DC-3 type plane each to American, United, Trans-Continental & Western, Mid-Continent, Northeast, and Pan American-Grace.

Seven smaller Lockheed Lodestars were allocated to other domestic applicants, including both air lines and other corporations for use in connection with war work. They went to Blue Grass Airlines, Fruehauf Trailer company, M. A. Hanna company, United Fruit company, Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, Page Airways, and Lockheed Aircraft corporation.

JET PROPULSION FUEL RESEARCH UNIT IS OPENED

New York, March 11 (AP).—The Shell Oil company announced today a new laboratory had been built and put into operation at Wood River, Ill., for the study of fuels and lubricants for jet-propulsion aircraft.

A jet burner whose size and construction remain a military secret has been installed, the announcement said, adding that fuel was supplied by 10 5,000 gallon tanks and compressed air by a 1,000 horsepower compressor so large it would require a six room, two story family dwelling, with ceiling and walls knocked out, to house it.

The army air forces will hold a technical meeting at the new laboratory this month, company officials said, to discuss latest findings in the field of jet propulsion.

Senators to Study Small Firms and Foreign Trade

Washington, D. C., March 11 (AP).—A senate small business subcommittee headed by Sen. Pepper [D., Fla.] announced today it will inquire into the problems small business faces in foreign trade and how they can be solved by business and government. Hearings will begin April 17. Other members of the subcommittee are Senators McMahon [D., Conn.] and Capper [R., Kas.].

British Deficit Is 10 Billions; Month to Go

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 11.—With four weeks remaining in its financial year Britain has a deficit of $10,071,196,000 in its national accounts, treasury statistics showed today. The vast overdraft, however, only fulfills Chancellor of the Exchequer Anderson's expectations when he submitted the budget to the house of commons last April, even tho indications were that revenues for the full year will exceed official estimates.

Latest treasury figures showed that up to March 3 revenues were $11,882,272,000 compared with a full year estimate of $12,407,200,000. In the same period expenditures were $22,253,468,000 against estimated full year expenditures of $23,749,596,000.

Larger Revenues Forecast.

In recent weeks revenues have averaged about 420 million dollars a week and expenditures 520 millions. Forecasts were that at the end of the financial year the chancellor's income from revenue will exceed his estimate by about 1 billion dollars.

Receipts from income tax, excess profits tax, and customs duties also should equal or exceed estimates, treasury statistics indicated. The only item of revenue falling short of the estimate is the surtax on peak incomes, receipts from which up to March 3 were only $254,750,000 against an estimated 320 million dollars.

Effect of Curbs Shown.

Altho treasury and Bank of England figures indicated more money was in circulation in Britain than ever before, board of trade statistics showed public spending power has been restricted by rationing and the shortage of goods.

Retail sales in January were smallest since January, 1944, the board of trade said. Clothing sales decreased because buyers had few coupons left. Hardware sales were at an all-time low following the big demand in December.

CIO CHIEFS ASK END OF LITTLE STEEL FORMULA

New York, March 11 (AP). — The CIO executive board today demanded immediate revision of the Little Steel formula and establishment of a minimum wage of 65 cents an hour.

In a resolution adopted at closed meetings, the board also reaffirmed its no-strike pledge; called upon President Roosevelt to convene a tri-partite conference of industry, labor, and government to formulate a policy to meet problems resulting from reconversion, and asked the return to the war labor board of its authority to adjust wages by "eliminating inequities."

The resolution will be presented to the President by Philip Murray, CIO head, and five affiliated union presidents, it was announced.

ALLEGHANY CORPORATION.

The income and earned surplus [deficit] accounts of Alleghany corporation for 1944 appear complicated. Please explain how the entries relating to losses on transactions in its own bonds are handled. —T. H.

The accounting method may appear complicated because the year's profit and loss items were carried to the accumulated deficit account separately rather than as a single net figure.

Losses on Alleghany's own bonds, consisting of premium on bonds redeemed and unamortized discount on these and other bonds retired, totaled $1,677,618. This was a net figure after allowance for a resulting decrease in federal taxes.

Apart from these losses, the company reported a profit of $6,615,289, consisting of net income and gains on sales and redemptions of investments. After deducting the bond losses, final profit for the year was $4,937,671.

To the previously accumulated deficit of $70,446,778 was added the $1,677,618 net bond loss and a provision of $1,776,729 for additional reserve against possible losses, increasing the deficit to $73,901,125. From this was deducted the year's profit determined without regard to the bond losses, reducing the deficit to $67,285,836 at the end of 1944.

The result would have been the same if the company had deducted from the previous deficit, plus the 1944 reserve appropriation, the net profit of $4,937,671 after allowance for the bond losses.

Alleghany's total debt was reduced $17,244,123 during 1944, making a reduction of $38,791,000 since 1937.

People and Events

William H. Owen has been appointed traffic manager of the Great Lakes Steel corporation, its N-A-X alloy steel and Stran-steel divisions, and the Hanna Furnace corporation. Owen is a former president of the Detroit Traffic club.

Dr. Darell B. Harmon, director of the educational services of the Texas state department of health, will discuss lighting and child development Wednesday in Kimball hall. The address is sponsored by the Chicago section of the Illuminating Engineering society and the Chicago Lighting institute.

The semi-annual meeting of the Packaging Machinery Manufacturers' institute scheduled for April 18 has been postponed in support of the government drive to curtail conventions, Frank B. Fairbanks, institute president, announced.

OPA TELLS RULE ON ABSORBING OF PRICE INCREASES

Washington, D. C., March 11 (AP).—The OPA announced today that standards for determining ability of wholesalers and retailers to absorb price increases in general will be the same as those for manufacturers.

James F. Brownlee, deputy administrator, said in a statement of policy that these merchants will be permitted to pass increases on to consumers only if this is necessary:

1. To permit an industry as a whole to maintain its earnings at peace time levels, or;

2. To prevent the margin on a particular commodity from falling below the trade's operating expense rate.

TRANSIT LINES' PAY ROLL PILES UP DEBT IN N. Y.

BY CHARLES GOTTHART.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 11.—Nothing short of a miracle will prevent an upward spiral of Chicago's traction pay roll if the city takes over the privately owned lines under a pending legislative program for public ownership, New York traction experts said today.

They based their prediction on New York's long experience in the field, and on close observation of how political demands send pay roll figures upward.

Municipal officials disclosed that in the five years since New York City took over all of the subways, elevated and trolley lines, and many of the bus lines, the pay roll had jumped 25 per cent.

The 75 million dollar fund for the fiscal year ending next June 30 is 15 millions above the 1940 total, despite the fact that there are fewer employes—31,599 last Jan. 1 against 33,490 four years before.

Quill Boosts Pay Rolls.

In getting fresh names on the city pay roll and forcing concessions for transit employes, the experts concede that the most potent figure is Michael J. Quill, president of the Transport Workers union and a powerful force in the CIO. Quill rated six and one-half printed pages in the Dies committee's exposure of Communist activities in this country.

Financial concessions won by Quill have had a bearing on the city's transportation deficit, approaching 50 million dollars under a 5 cent fare which, except for political considerations, would be 7 cents to cover the cost of the service.

As an example of Quill's activities, subway and elevated station employes work seven hours, are paid for a luncheon and two rest periods, and draw eight hours' pay. The city pays all transit employes for 12 days' vacation annually, for six legal holidays, and grants another 12 days' sick leave. New York continues the private companies' pension plans and adds another 4 million each year.

How Was It Worked?

As Chicago struggles with the problem of how to get private company security holders to accept public ownership, the question arises: How did New York swing the deal five years ago?

There are a variety of answers. First, many of the holders of top ranking securities were offered as much as 95 per cent of par for their issues, and a few holdouts eventually got par or a bit more. Junior security holders received offers that appeared attractive to the majority.

There was little inducement for holders of Interborough Rapid Transit to hang on, for the company by 1940 had been in receivership for years and had little prospect of profits under the political 5 cent fare. Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit, the other top company in the takeover, had been thru reorganization and was approaching receivership again.

The clincher was the city's final offer to exchange company securities for tax exempt 3 per cent corporate stock, ranked as a security equivalent to bonds and backed to the limit of the city's credit. New York got the lines for 330 million dollars.

Other Terms Rejected.

In earlier negotiations, the Investors had turned down bonds whose security would have been limited to the backing of the board of transportation.

In swinging the deal, New Yorkmade no extravagant promises other than to maintain adequate transportation, and no extensive ballyhoo was carried on. However, sponsors' predictions of rising income under the 5 cent fare have been lost under the record of falling income. Operating income has dropped as a result of rising labor and other costs while total revenues rose from less than 115 million dollars in the first full year of unification to more than 125 millions in the year ended June 30, 1944.

New York, unlike Chicago, had never seriously considered a traction consolidation under private ownership, since public officials for years had advocated municipal ownership and the idea seems to have stuck. Now the city has a 1 billion 525 million dollar investment in a system comprising 542.71 route miles and 1,108 miles of track, with 2,426,927,729 revenue passengers carried in the 1944 fiscal year.

COL. J. A. TEECE HOME FOR FIRST VISIT IN 3 YEARS

Col. Joseph A. Teece, 45, of 1700 Brookside av., Waukegan, returned home on leave yesterday after two years in China. It was his first visit home in more than three years.

A veteran of World War I., he was assistant to the president of the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation of North Chicago before his national guard unit was mustered into federal service in March, 1941. He served in the north African, Sicilian, and Italian campaigns before going to China. He received the silver star for gallantry in action in North Africa in November, 1942, and in 1943 received the Purple Heart after he was wounded in action.

City's Fuel Oil Quota Use Is Set at 79%

Not more than 79 per cent of the total yearly allotment of fuel oil should have been burned up to March 12 by Chicago household consumers, the office of price administration reported yesterday. Figures are determined by computing the "degree day" which is the difference between 65 degrees and the actual mean temperature for the day. Other cities and allotments used include Indianapolis, Ind., 81; Detroit, Mich., 78; St. Louis, Mo., 84; Milwaukee, Wis., 76, and Minneapolis, Minn., 80.

Picture Map of Germany Before War

• Reproduced here in its original colors is a pictorial map of Germany, of the kind sold to tourists before the war. It will be noted that the map, which is reproduced thru the courtesy of Maj. W. E. Seaman of Chicago, shows Germany as it was before the annexation of Austria, the seizure of Czechoslovakia, and the invasion of Poland. Today many of the German cities which are depicted upon the map are in ruins as the result of allied bombings. This is especially true of Berlin, Hamburg, Mainz, and others which have been blasted repeatedly from the air.

Chicago Daily Tribune
